Peace, Coolidge's Pan-America Plea

Coolidge

"Seek Peace."
"Respect the Weak."
"Reason, Not Force."
"Liberty Universal."

[Highlights from President Coolidge's address before the Pan-American Conference at Havana, Cuba, today.]

"THE light which Columbus followed has not failed."

"WE must lay our voyage of exploration toward complete understanding and friendship."

"OUR most sacred trust has been, and is, the establishment and expansion of the spirit of democracy."

"IT IS better for the people to make their own mistakes than to have someone else make their mistakes for them."

"THE sovereignty of small nations is respected. It is for the purpose of giving stronger guaranties to these principles, of increasing the amount and extending the breadth of these blessings, that this conference has been assembled."

"THE spirit of liberty is universal. An attitude of peace and goodwill prevails among our nations. A determination to adjust differences among ourselves, not by a resort to force, is one of our strongest characteristics."

"WE realize that one of the most important services which we can render humanity, the one for which we are peculiarly responsible, is to maintain the ideals of our western world."

"WE must join together in assuring conditions under which our republics will have the freedom and the responsibility of working out their own destiny in their own way."

"IT IS among the republics of this hemisphere that the principle of human rights has had its broadest application; where political freedom and equality and economic opportunity have made their greatest advance."

"A DIVINE Providence has made us a neighborhood of republics. It is impossible to suppose that it was for the purpose of making us hostile to each other, but from time to time to reveal to us methods by which we might secure the advantages and blessings of enduring friendships."

"THESE conferences mean the bringing of all our people more definitely and more completely under the reign of law."

"THE surest refuge for the weak and oppressed is in the law."

"IT IS one thing to be prepared to defend our rights as a last extremity and quite another to rely on force where reason ought to prevail."

"WE HAVE all nourished a commendable sentiment of moderate preparation for national defense, believing that for a nation to be unreasonably neglectful of the military art,

URGES TIE OF AMITY

By GEORGE R. HOLMES,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

HAVANA, Jan. 16.—President Coolidge constituted himself his own ambassador of good will today.

He shattered the precedents of 150 years by journeying 1,200 miles from the capital in order to deliver in person to the statesmen of the western hemisphere a message of peace and friendship, and to assure them that the intentions of the United States throughout all-Latin-America are honorable and friendly and peaceable.

Text of President Coolidge's Speech Appears on Pages Four and Five.

Other presidents have given similar assurances to Latin-America, but none other ever journeyed south of the Rio Grande, nor across the setting of a Latin-American

Padlocks Put on 21 Places

Decrees were ordered drawn for padlocking 21 saloons and other buildings in Pittsburgh and Carnegie by Federal Judges R. M. Gibson and F. P. Schoonmaker today, following final hearings in injunction suits at which the government charged sales of intoxicating liquor in the establishments. The most prominent of the places ordered padlocked was the Morelein Hotel, 3810 Fifth avenue, Oakland, in an action

Endurance Fliers Up Again

By International News Service.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Jan. 16.—Clarence Chamberlin and Roger Williams took off from the field here at 12:54:22 this afternoon in another attempt to establish an endurance airplane record.

They zoomed into the sky in their Bellanca monoplane Martime, hoping this time to beat the world's record of 52 hours 22 minutes and 21 seconds now held by Johann Risticz and Cornelius Edzard, the German fliers. The Germans established the record last August, flying between Dessau and Leipzig.

$50,000 AUDIT VOTED

An independent general audit of the county's fiscal affairs will cost at least $50,000, it was revealed today when County Controller Robert G. Woodside asked the County Commissioners to appropriate this amount. The commissioners granted the request. Also, they authorized the Controller to engage a staff of public accountants for the audit and fixed the salaries.

Controller Woodside asked for one senior accountant at $50 a day, one senior accountant to be in charge of the work, $35 a day, an accountant at $30 a day and assistants, juniors and office accountants at $25, $20 and $10 a day respectively. This request also was granted. The Controller told the commissioners that he had not decided on the auditors, but hoped to do so immediately. He declared that he intends to start the audit by Wednesday morning.

Controller Woodside revealed that he has interviewed many banks to get a line on the best firm of accountants in the city, but that he has not completed his investigation of those recommended and will not complete it for at least another day.

County Commissioner E. V. Babcock urged the Controller to begin the audit as soon as possible. Commissioners Joseph G. Armstrong and Charles C. McGovern also expressed themselves as desiring speed.

The auditors, the Controller said, would be paid on the per diem basis for the time actually spent in the work. A time book will be kept and each member of the staff paid according to the number of hours put on the books. Controller Woodside said that he personally would supervise the audit and see that "nothing would be put over on him or the county."

The commissioners instructed Woodside to include the $50,000 in his budget for 1928.

HUGGER HUNTED

While en route home late last night, Stella Jevnikar, 21, of 5411 Camelia street, was attacked on the Fifty-fourth street steps to Stanton Heights by a "hugger," who fought with her for several minutes.

Miss Jevnikar was bitten on the upper lip before she succeeded in forcing her assailant to release her. She was treated at a nearby physician's office, and went home. She told police that the "hugger" had held her tightly in his arms and had kissed her several times.

Push Ban On Alley Parking

An ordinance to prohibit parking at any time in downtown alleys was presented in Council today, and alleys are defined as thoroughfares of less than 20 feet from curb to curb.

The ordinance was sent to Council by Public Safety Director James M. Clark with letters of approval from Burton W. Marsh, traffic engineer, and Fire Chief Richard L. Smith, the latter stating that parking in the alleys interfered with the movement of fire equipment as well as with actual fire fighting.

The proposal is said to be one of the first steps in a plan to prohibit parking on all "Triangle" streets, similar to Chicago's stopping of all parking in the "Loop." The order in downtown Pittsburgh is regarded as conditional upon establishment of better municipal parking spaces along the wharves.

SEEK SURGEON AS CHILD KILLER

By International News Service

FLINT, Mich., Jan. 16.—While neighbors' children who were "big sisters" to 5-year-old Dorothy Schneider were carrying her body to its grave today Coroner Donald R. Brasie declared positively that Dorothy's slayer is the same man who three years ago took from its grave the body of 18-year-old Melinda Cardinal, Flint school teacher, and mutilated it.

Further examination of Dorothy's body left no room for doubt, he said, Coroner Brasie reiterated his conviction the slayer was a doctor or a man with surgical skill.

Search for the slayer has turned to Bay City, where state police are hunting a discredited surgeon and deposed head of a religious cult who at one time faced charges of criminally abusing his granddaughter. The charge was made by the surgeon's daughter.

Army airplanes, the Michigan state police and the authorities of the entire Middle West today had joined in a systematic search for the man who kidnaped, slew and mutilated Dorothy.

Three pursuit planes from Selfridge Field flew low over the section where the murderer may be in hiding. The small creek north of here where the body was found was the scene of dragging operations today.

Suspects arrested in Detroit, Buffalo, N. Y.; Decatur, Ind.; Grand Haven, Mich., and other cities were released yesterday while state and city police and members of the Genesee County sheriff's force continued to check the scores of "tips" which have been sent to the general headquarters established here under orders from Gov. Fred W. Green.

Pittsburgh Skipper Held in 7 Deaths

NASHVILLE, La., Jan. 16.—Blaac L. Blazier, of Pittsburgh, master of the towboat City of Pittsburgh, was at freedom under $10,000 bond on charges of manslaughter today while searchers continue to drag the Mississippi in search for bodies of several of the seven persons drowned yesterday when the towboat rammed a ferry at Norco, overturning it.

Those who lost their lives as a result of the collision were Irvin Landeche, 21, operator of the ferry; Arthur St. De, 13; Anatol Nicholas, 45, of Taft; Walter Bergeron, Luling; Walter Bergerton, Jr., 12; Murphy Nicholas, 18; Ed Johnson, Negro, and Tim Tombs, Negro.

Capt. Blazier said that the dense fog which prevailed over the Mississippi as his boat got under way from its wharf prevented him from seeing the ferry which was just coming into the dock.

Capt. Blazier later was allowed to continue to Pittsburgh, Pa., with his boat. The tug is owned by the Carnegie Steel Corporation.

M'GOVERN ASKS $20,000 TO CHECK GANG MURDERS

PROPOSES SECRET POLICE

Murder is rampant in Allegheny county.

County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern made this charge today when he presented a resolution at a meeting of County Commissioners, requesting that immediate action be taken to curb the wave of organized gang murders in the county. Commissioner McGovern asked that $20,000 be set up in the 1928 budget to be used in establishing a secret or undercover system to ferret out gangster plans of murder and also for the payment of rewards to citizens for the apprehension and conviction of murderers.

According to Commissioner McGovern, during the last year 105 persons were arrested and incarcerated in the county jail charged with murder. "Not a one of this number was executed during the year," the commissioner said. "In 1927 there was an increase of 22 per cent in murders over the previous year," the commissioner said. "I have been advised that since January 1, 1928, murders have been committed in the county on an average of one every other day and in some cases there has been no apprehensions."

No action was taken on the resolution today. Commissioner Armstrong held the matter over until a later meeting of the board.

SEES SAME HOPES

capital to give the words additional weight and emphasis.

Mr. Coolidge's speech, which opened the sixth Pan-American Congress, was devoted wholly to a restatement of the ideals of Pan-Americanism. He advised the delegates, representing the cream of Latin-American statesmanship, to be guided by "patience, tolerance and charity" in the consideration of each other's view, and "to judge your sister nations not only by their accomplishments, but also by their aspirations."

IGNORES CRITICISMS

Nowhere in the President's speech did he refer to the criticism rampant in the press of South and Central America over United States policy in Nicaragua. Nor was there any mention of Mexico, nor Tacna-Arica nor any of the other controversial problems that have arisen between American governments in recent years. His message dealt entirely with the idealistic aims of Pan-Americanism.

"An attitude of peace and good will prevails among our nations," the President said. "A determination to adjust differences among ourselves, not by resort to force, but by the application of the principles of justice and equity, is one of our strongest characteristics.

"The sovereignty of small nations is respected. It is for the purpose of giving stronger guaranties to these principles, of increasing the amount and extending the breadth of these blessings, that this conference has been assembled.

"Our most sacred trust has been, and is, the establishment and expansion of the spirit of democracy. No doubt we shall make some false starts and experience some disappointing reactions. But we have put our confidence in the ultimate wisdom of the people. We are thoroughly committed to the principle that they are better fitted to govern themselves than any-one else is to govern them. We do not claim immediate perfection. But we do expect continual progress. It is better for the people to make their own mistakes than to have some one else make their mistakes for them."

In no other part of the world, the President declared, can nations come together with such a unity of purpose, and so free from historical jealousies and racial prejudices.

"You come together," he said "under the present conditions and the future expectation, of profound peace. You are continuing to strike a new note in international gatherings by maintaining a forum in which not the selfish interests of a few but the general welfare of all will be considered.

"If you are to approximate your past success, it will be because you do not hesitate to meet facts squarely. We must consider not only our strength, but our weaknesses. We must give thought not only to our excellence but to our defects. Most of all, you must be guided by patience, tolerance and charity, judging your sister nations not only by their accomplishments, but also by their aspirations.

"A divine Providence has made us a neighborhood of republics. It is impossible to suppose that it was for the purpose of making us hostile to each other, but from time to time to reveal to us methods by which we might secure the advantages and blessings of enduring friendships."

The republics of the Americas have set an example for the world, Mr. Coolidge said, in the peaceful settlement of their disputes, and without resort to force.

"If these conferences mean anything," he declared, "they mean the bringing of all our people more definitely and more completely under the reign of law. It is in that direction that we must look with greatest assurance for human progress. The surest refuge for the weak and oppressed is in the law. It is preeminently the shield of small nations. We shall make more progress in the end if we proceed with deliberation.

LET SPIRIT GUIDE

"While the law is necessary for the proper guidance of human action, and will always remain the source of freedom and liberty, there is another element which must always be taken into consideration.

"We read that 'the letter killeth, but the spirit giveth life.' Oftentimes in our international relations we shall have to look to the spirit rather than to the letter of the law. We shall have to realize that the highest law is consideration, co-operation, friendship and charity. Without the application of these there can be no peace, no progress, no liberty, and no republic. These are the attributes that raise human relationships out of the realm of the mechanical, above the realm of animal existence, into the loftier sphere that borders on the divine. If we are to experience a new era in our affairs, it will be because the world recognizes and lives in accordance with this spirit. Its most complete expression is in the golden rule.

"The light which Columbus followed has not failed," he said in conclusion. "The courage that carried him on still lives. They are the heritage of the people of Bolivar and of Washington.

"We must lay our voyage of exploration toward complete understanding and friendship. Having taken that course, we must not be turned aside by the fears of the timid, the counsels of the ignorant, or the designs of the malevolent. With law and charity as our guides, with that ancient faith which is strengthened when it requires sacrifice, we shall anchor at last in the harbor of justice and truth."

The audience which heard Mr. Coolidge expound the idealism of Pan-America was one of the most distinguished ever gathered in any Latin-American capital. It included delegates from nearly a score of countries, large and small, from the United States on the north to Chile and the Argentine on the south. Among the delegates were a number of foreign ministers of their respective countries, past or present, including Secretary of State Kellogg and his predecessor, Charles Evans Hughes, who headed the United States delegation. Nearly all of the Latin-American ambassadors to Washington were delegates, and a few ex-presidents of the smaller republics also were present—all attracted by the unprecedented occasion of a President of the United States journeying to Latin-America to express the friendship of the English-speaking peoples of the new world for their Spanish-speaking neighbors.

GREAT WELCOME

President Coolidge's mission of good-will to Latin-America had a most auspicious beginning. He was greeted in the capital of Cuba as few presidents of the United States have ever been greeted anywhere—even in their own country.

Whatever the Spanish-speaking peoples may think of the United States because of the "dollar diplomacy" which the press has harped upon for years, there was nothing critical or unfriendly in their reception to the presidental party in Havana. On the contrary, Havana turned itself literally inside out for Mr. Coolidge.

From the windows along the narrow and picturesque streets of Havana, huge lithographs of the President beam out at passers-by. From every government building, and from countless private homes, the American flag flies side by side with the single-starred flag of the Cuban Republic. Even though this was the day of the opening of the Sixth Pan-American Congress, with delegates present from 21 American states, the flag of no other American republic was visible in Havana during the Sunday fiesta.

MEMORIES OF '98

The President's entry into Havana was probably without precedent in this or any other country.

Half a million people, in holiday attire and enthusiastic as only the Latins can be enthusiastic, roared a welcome to the Coolidges from the moment the U. S. S. Texas slipped majestically into the harbor until the two presidents disappeared into the palace at the end of a triumphal procession through the city.

Mr. Coolidge was impressed. He had expected, of course, a respectful welcome such as befits the visit of a foreign magistrate, but never in his most sanguine moments had he anticipated a welcome such as the Cubans rendered him upon his entrance into the city. The curtain of 30 years rolled back and the American President was again the symbol of Cuban liberation.

The canyon-like streets of the ancient Spanish city echoed and reverberated with the shouts of "Viva Coolidge" and "Viva the United States," as he rode in an open automobile through the crooked streets and was almost buried beneath the showers of roses tossed from the balconies.

One old crone, with a mantilla over her head, actually forgot the events of the moment and lived again in the past. Instead of shouting "Viva Coolidge," she shrilled forth "Viva McKinley," and the enthusiastic crowd about her, instead of correcting her, caught up the cry until it was difficult to determine whether the cheering was for Coolidge or for the martyr of a quarter century ago.

even if it did not invite and cause such aggresion as to result in war or in abject humiliation, it must finally lead to a disastrous disintegration of the very moral fiber of the nation."

"WE HAVE kept the peace so largely among our republics because democracies are peace-loving. They are founded on the desire to promote the general welfare of the people, which is seldom accomplished by warfare."

"NO OTHER part of the world could provide constituencies which all have such a unity of purpose. The whole atmosphere of the conference is animated with the spirit of democracy and goodwill."

"ALL nations here represented stand on an exact footing of equality. The smallest and the weakest speaks here with the same authority as the largest and most powerful. PRAYERS FOR OFFICIALS LOOSE BIBLE CLASS ROW

FRIENDS OF SANKEY RILED

Women yesterday took up arms in the Bible class dissension which has split the congregation of the South Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, Wilkinsburg, into opposing camps.

Heated words followed the prayer of Miss Helen Pershing, a relative of Gen. John J. Pershing, at the meeting of the Theodore Eaton Women's Class. Miss Pershing referred to "our Godly superintendent, Mr. Covell, and our beloved pastor, Dr. Bell." Mrs. Sankey, wife of Dr. T. M. Sankey, who was ousted as teacher of the Callender Men's Class, is a member of the Eaton class and her friends objected to Miss Pershing's prayerful praise of church officials.

Dr. Sankey was deposed by the Sunday school board after he had been accused of failure to co-operate with the pastor, Dr. S. W. Bell. Superintendent Covell named Attorney W. A. Jordan as successor, but the Callender class rejected him yesterday by a 68 to 9 vote and named its own teacher, Dr. Walter Hunt, by an unanimous vote.

The injunction suit against Felix McNight, 2208 Fifth avenue, was dismissed.

Feminine Wit Routs Thieves

A woman's method of dealing with robbers scared the thieves away and saved a quantity of prescription whisky in a Troy Hill drug store early today.

Two robbers were ransacking the J. H. Engelbach drug store, 1617 Lowrie street, when Mrs. Engelbach, who lives on the second floor, heard them.

She arose from bed, turned on water which ran loudly through a drain pipe in the drug store, stamped on the floor, and was rewarded by seeing the intruders fleeing from the store with only $6.

Mrs. Engelbach explained that she hadn't awakened her husband, because she feared he might have been shot.

SCENERY HILL GAS BOOM :-: BELIEVED :-: ABOUT TO BURST

SCENERY HILL AS IT LOOKS TODAY

Derricks sprung up almost overnight in the little village along the National pike. Back yards, pastures and even churchyards presented scenes of feverish excitement as stock companies were formed and a rush for riches got under way. There are 32 wells in the town today, but only two have really been worth while, according to residents. One is Wheery's first well and the other is a 15,000,000-foot well shown in the foreground of the above picture. More than a billion cubic feet of gas had been taken out of the field up until about a month ago, it is said.

BLACKMAILER FLEES TRAP

ERIE, Pa., Jan. 16.—A blackmailer who had threatened to kill Thomas Youen, 220 East Second street, and his two grandchildren, escaped after a chase by local police and federal officers when plans to trip him went awry.

Youen was advised by the authorities to place a decoy package supposed to contain $600 in a fountain at the public swimming pool at a time designated in a letter, threatening death if he failed to comply or warned the police. Youen made an error in the hour for placing the package and the blackmailer was mistaken for the victim. The man fled, pursued by officers with shotguns and revolvers, but escaped.

RAID 150 STUDENTS IN GIN PARTY

By International News Service.

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—One hundred and fifty Medill High School students, half of them girls, face expulsion today as a result of a raid by prohibition agents on Club Bagdad, a fashionable South Side cabaret, early Sunday morning.

The score of raiders, headed by Deputy Prohibition Administrator Alexander Jamies, claim to have gathered up "26 assorted bottles of poison," bearing the label of "gin," in a hurried foray among the students' tables. They charged several of the students were intoxicated.

The raid is said to have resulted when a mother of one of the youths called the prohibition office and told Deputy Jamie her son was engaging in a "wild drinking party" at the Bagdad cabaret. The 75 young couples had gone there for dinner, after attending the senior prom at a North Side hotel.

Allen Schultz, president of the senior class, and Sidney Waller, chairman of the prom committee, denied that the students had been drinking. They denied that hip flasks had been taken from any of the students.

Acting Superintendent of Schools William J. Bogan has called for a searching investigation of the raid. He has ordered the students involved to appear before him today. Schultz and Waller say they will all be there "to demand a lifting of the stigma that has been put upon us."

Schultz and Waller also demanded the presence of Jamie and his raiders at the school board investigation.

PRESIDENT EXTOLS LIBERTY

"REASON BETTER THAN FORCE"

[Here is the principal text of President Coolidge's address before the Pan-American Conference at Havana, Cuba, today.]

President Coolidge spoke as follows:

Mr. President and Members of the Pan-American Conference:

No citizen of any of the Americas could come to the Queen of the islands of the West Indies without experiencing an emotion of gratitude and reverence. These are the outposts of the new civilization of the western hemisphere. It was among them that the three small ships of the heroic Admiral came when, with the assistance and support of Spain, Columbus presented to Europe the first widespread, public, and authoritative knowledge of the New World. Other points may have been previously visited, but for these was reserved the final revelation.

The Great Discoverer brought with him the seed of more republics, the promise of greater human freedom, than ever crossed the seas on any other voyage. With him sailed immortal declarations of independence and great charters of self-government. He laid out a course that led from despotism to democracy. Edward Everett Hale, a seer of New England, tells us that this gallant seaman who rose above the storms to become the forerunner of an age of pioneers,

> Left blood and guilt and tyranny behind,
> Sailing still West the hidden shore to find;
> For all mankind that unstained scroll unfurled,
> Where God might write anew the story of the World.

In the spirit of Christopher Columbus all of the Americas have an eternal bond of unity, a common heritage bequeathed to us alone. Unless we together redeem the promise which his voyage held for humanity, it must remain forever void. This is the destiny which Pan-America has been chosen to fulfill.

As we look back over the accomplishments of the past four centuries, we can see that we are warranted in asserting that the western hemisphere has not failed in the service that it seemed destined to render to humanity.

Progress does not go forward in a straight line. It is a succession of waves. We can not always ride on their crest, but among our republics the main tide of human advancement has been steadily rising. The people have taken charge of their own affairs. In spite of some temporary discouragements, they have on the whole been successful. The fertility of a virgin soil, a wealth of mineral deposits, an abundance of water power, a multitude of navigable rivers, all at the command of a resourceful people, have produced a material prosperity greater in amount and more widely distributed than ever before fell to the lot of the human race.

The arts and sciences have flourished, the advantages of education are widespread, devotion to religion is marked by its sincerity. The spirit of liberty is universal. An attitude of peace and good will prevails among our nations. A determination to adjust differences among ourselves, not by a resort to force, but by the application of the principles of justice and equity, is one of our strongest characteristics. The sovereignty of small nations is respected. It is for the purpose of giving stronger guaranties to these principles, of increasing the amount and extending the breadth of these blessings, that this conference has been assembled.

Cuba as Example

The very place where we are meeting is a complete demonstration of the progress we are making. Thirty years ago Cuba ranked as a foreign possession, torn by revolution and devastated by hostile forces. Such government as existed rested on military force. Today Cuba is her own sovereign. Her people are independent, free, prosperous, peaceful, and enjoying the advantages of self-government. The last important area has taken her place among the republics of the New World. Our fair hostess has raised herself to a high and honorable position among the nations of the earth.

It is a heavy responsibility which rests upon the people and the governments represented at this conference. Unto them has been given a new land, free from the traditional jealousies and hatreds of the Old World, where the people might come into the fullest state of development. It is among the republics of this hemisphere that the principle of human rights has had its broadest application; where political freedom and equality and economic opportunity have made their greatest advance.

Next to our attachment to the principle of self-government has been our attachment to the policy of peace. When the republics of the western hemisphere gained their independence, they were compelled to fight for it. They have always been a brave, resolute, and determined people, willing to make any sacrifices to defend what they believed to be their rights. But when once their rights have been secured, they have been almost equally solicitous to respect the rights of others.

Their chief efforts have been devoted to the arts of peace. They have never come under the delusion of military grandeur. Nowhere among these republics have great military establishments ever been maintained for the purpose of overawing or subjugating other nations. We have all nourished a commendable sentiment of moderate preparation for national defense, believing that for a nation to be unreasonably neglectful of the military art, even if it did not invite and cause such aggression as to result either in war or in abject humiliation, it must finally lead to a disastrous disintegration of the very moral fiber of the nation.

But it is one thing to be prepared to defend our rights as a last extremity and quite another to rely on force where reason ought to prevail. The form of our governments guarantees us against the Old World dynastic wars. It is scarcely too much to say that the conflicts which have been waged by our republics for 150 years have been almost entirely for the purpose of securing independence and extending the domain of human freedom. When these have been accomplished, we have not failed to heed the admonition to beat our swords into plowshares.

Peace of Democracy

We have kept the peace so largely among our republic because democracies are peace-loving. They are founded on the desire to promote the general welfare of the people, which is seldom accomplished by warfare. In addition to this we have adopted a spirit of accommodation, good will, confidence and mutual helpfulness. We have been slow to anger and plenteous in in mercy. When the attitude prevails it is not difficult to find practical means of adjusting differences.

The Pan American conferences meet for the purpose of maintaining and extending these important principles. It is impossible to conceive of a more inspiring motive which men could entertain in dealing with the affairs of this world. You have convened to take counsel together for increasing the domestic welfare of the free people of our independent republics and promoting international peace. No other part of the world could provide constituencies which all have such a unity of purpose.

If you are to approximate your past successes, it will be because you do not hesitate to meet facts squarely. We must consider not only our strength but our weaknesses. We must give thought not only to our excellence but to our defects. The attitude of the open mind must prevail. Most of all, you must be guided by patience, tolerance, and charity, judging your sister nations not only by their accomplishments, but also by their aspirations. A Divine Providence has made us a neighborhood of republics. It is impossible to suppose that it was for the purpose of making us hostile to each other, but from time to time to reveal to us the methods by which we might secure the advantages and blessings of enduring friendships.

The existence of this conference, held for the consideration of measures of purely American concern, involves no antagonism toward any other section of the world or any other organization. It means that the independent republics of the western hemisphere, animated by the same ideals, enjoying the common blessings of freedom and peace, realize that there are many matters of mutual interest and importance which can best be investigated and resolved through the medium of such friendly contact and negotiation as is necessary for co-operative action.

Solid Achievement

The proceedings of the successive Pan American Conferences reveal a record of achievement which, without attempting the spectacular, constantly builds on the solid foundation of the immediately attainable. With each succeeding conference the agreements for the orderly settlement of such differences as may arise between the American republics have been extended and strengthened, thus making their relationship more certain and more secure. Each conference has contributed its share toward developing more intimate cultural ties among the nations of this hemisphere, and establishing new currents of mutual understanding. Obstacles to closer economic relations have been removed, thus clearing the pathway of commercial intercourse.

It is not desirable that we should attempt to be all alike. Progress is not secured through uniformity and similarity, but rather through multiplicity and diversity. We should all be intent on maintaining our own institutions and customs, preserving the purity of our own language and literature, fostering the ideals of our own culture and society.

In this great work of furthering inter-American understanding, a large responsibility rests upon the press of all countries. In our present stage of civilization, knowledge of foreign people is almost wholly supplied from that source. By misinterpreting facts, or by carelessness in presenting them in their true light, much damage can be done.

An increase of information depends largely on an increase in the means of communication. During the entire nineteenth century intercourse between the American republics was exceedingly difficult, and this isolation proved a serious obstacle to closer understanding.

When Skinny Men Grow Manly

Five or 10 Pounds of Flesh on Their Bones Make a Lot of Difference.

Out in the country they used to say "Just as thin as a fence rail" and after Jim had somehow managed to grow more shapely and add more weight they used to say,

"Jim's a real good looking fellow since he took on flesh."

And that's the way it goes all over the world; the skinny, gaunt man can never be attractive or look manly until he puts more flesh on his scantily covered bones.

Many thin men have gained in weight and at the same time in vigor and attractiveness—no thin man can do it unless he tries.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or 2 One Dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price.

The name McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets has been shortened—just ask for McCoy's Tablets at May's Drug Stores, or any drug store in America.

The twentieth century, however, and especially the last 10 years have witnessed astonishing changes in this respect.

Transportation by water has become rapid, comfortable and relatively inexpensive. Shipping facilities from the United States have been largely improved. Our government is greatly interested in increasing their efficiency. Railway lines have been extended so that it will soon be possible to travel with practically no interruption from the northern border of the United States to the southern border of El Salvador, and in South America from Peru to Patagonia. During very recent years every government of this hemisphere has been giving special attention to the building of highways, partly with a view to establishing feeders to the railways lines, but also to provide great arteries of inter-American communication for motor transport. On the wall of my office hangs a map showing proposed hightways connecting the principal points of our two continents.

Urges U. S. Aid

I am asking the United States Congress to authorize sending engineering advisers, the same as we send military and naval advisers, when requested by other countries, to assist in road building. These gratifying changes are about to be supplemented by the establishment of aviation routes, primarily for the transportation of mails, which will afford to our republics a channel of interchange which will find its ultimate expression in closer cultural and commercial ties and in better mutual comprehension. Our Congress also has under consideration proposals for supporting such air routes. Citizens of the United States are considering installing them.

In the domain of commercial relations, the last few years have witnessed an extraordinary strengthening of the economic ties binding together our republics. In both agricultural and industrial production the countries of America are now complementing one another to an unusual degree, resulting in an increasing exchange of commodities.

Furthermore, recent years have witnessed a most gratifying rise in the standards of living of the wage earners throughout the Americas. They enjoy a greater productive and earning capacity, with a consequent increase in their purchasing power, which has been reflected in the growing volume of inter-American commerce, destined to become more and more important as it combines a scientific utilization of natural resources with an increasing economic power of the masses of the people.

In this work of inter-American co-operation, an important part has been played by the Pan-American Union. It stands as the permanent organ of these conferences. This international organization has labored unceasingly to give effect to the treaties and resolutions adopted by the successive conferences. Its scope of usefulness is constantly being enlarged and its ability to serve the American republics is strengthened with each year that passes.

It is a high example that we have set for the world in resolving international differences without resort to force. If these conferences mean anything, they mean the bringing of all our people more definitely and more completely under the reign of law. After all, it is in that direction that we must look with the greatest assurance for human progress.

We can make no advance in the realm of economics, we can do nothing for education, we can accomplish but little even in the sphere of religion, until human affairs are brought within the orderly rule of law. The surest refuge of the weak and the oppressed is in the law. It is preeminently the shield of small nations.

This is necessarily a long, laborious process, which must broaden out from precedent to precedent, from the general acceptance of principle to principle. New activities require new laws. The rules for the governing of aviation are only beginning to be considered. We shall make more progress in the end if we proceed with deliberation.

In the international system which you represent the rights of each nation carry with them corresponding obligations, defined by laws which we recognize as binding upon all of us. It is through the careful observance of those laws which define our rights and impose our duties that international co-operation is possible. This lays on us all a continental responsibility which none of us wish to avoid and the fulfillment of which is one of the most important guaranties of international friendship.

While the law is necessary for the proper guidance of human action, and will always remain the source of freedom and liberty and the ultimate guaranty of all our rights, there is another element in our experience which must always be taken into consideration. We read that "The letter killeth but the spirit giveth life." Oftentimes in our international relationship we shall have to look to the spirit rather than to the letter of the law.

We shall have to realize that the highest law is consideration, co-operation, friendship, and charity. Without the application of these there can be no peace and no progress, no liberty and no republic. These are the attributes that raise human relationships out of the realm of the mechanical, above the realm of animal existence, into the loftier sphere that borders on the Divine. If we are to experience a new era in our affairs, it will be because the world recognizes and lives in accordance with this spirit. It's most complete expression is the Golden Rule.

The light which Columbus followed has not failed. The courage that carried him on still lives. They are the heritage of the people of Bolivar and of Washington. We must lay our voyage of exploration toward complete understanding and friendship. Having taken that course, we must not be turned aside by the fears of the timid, the counsels of the ignorant, or the designs of the malevolent. With law and charity as our guides, with that ancient faith which is only strengthened when it requires sacrifices, we shall anchor at last in the harbor of justice and truth. The same Pilot which stood by the side of the Great Discoverer, and the same Wisdom which instructed the founding fathers of our republics, will continue to abide with us.

HE HAD TO LIVE ON LIGHT FOODS

Well-Known Man Ended Stomach, Liver and Bowel Troubles by Using Ten Herbs.

"My stomach was so bad that I had to live on the lightest kind of food," was the statement of Mr. William Rehn, well-known resident of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., living at 12 Hughes Street, that city, according to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at the May Drug Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily demonstrating the great natural medicine, Ten Herbs. "Even light foods would sour and ferment and fill my stomach with gas, which would make my heart palpitate," Mr. Rehn continued. "Sometimes I would nearly faint."

"I was troubled with constipation. My liver was sluggish and I was bilious and had sallow color. Upon arising in the morning I felt so tired I could hardly drag one foot after the other. During the day I had such severe dizzy spells I was compelled to catch hold of something to keep from falling. My kidneys were disordered, and I had to arise five or six times a night. I was so nervous the least thing would excite me. There were rheumatic pains all over my body.

"I tried different kinds of medicines, but nothing gave me relief. As a last resort, I tried Ten Herbs, and even the first bottle improved my condition. I continued the use of this medicine and it made a wonderful change in me. My stomach has improved so much that I can eat anything without having any sign of indigestion. My bowels are regular, and my liver and kidneys are in good condition. I do not have to arise at night, and my nerves have been quieted. My system seems to have been thoroughly cleansed, and all rheumatic pains are gone. I am glad to endorse Ten Herbs."

Thousands use and recommend Ten Herbs for the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. This new herbal compound has a cleansing, soothing, correcting effect on the entire system.

The Ten Herbs Man is at the May Drug Store, 529 Liberty Ave., Pittsburgh, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine. Free sample given.

DOG CAUSES WRECK

GIRL DRIVER LOSES CONTROL

Losing control of her automobile when she turned to speak to her dog in the back seat yesterday, Laura Metzger, 18, of 5635 Beacon street, crashed into the telegraph pole as shown above and snapped it off at the bottom and at the top, leaving the middle part standing upright in the branches of a nearby tree. Miss Metzger was cut on the lip, but two girl friends who were riding with her escaped injury. The auto in this photograph illustrates direction Miss Metzger's car was traveling.

TAKE BOND FOR MINE GUARDS, HALT WRIT

Hearing on a habeas corpus writ obtained by Attorney Jacob Schulgold to gain freedom of three coal and iron policemen, lodged in jail following their arrest Saturday, was halted in Common Pleas Court today when Justice of the Peace J. M. O'Rourke, of Curry, said he was willing to release the prisoners any time bond was posted. Attorney Schulgold put up $1,000 bond for each of the men and they were released.

The men, Newville Miller and Ben Heart, of Altoona, and Omar Welshons, of Latrobe, stationed at the Coverdale mine of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation, were arrested following charges of assault and battery made by men said to be union sympathizers.

Hunts Leak With Fire---Gets Close "Shave," Singe

A paperhanger in a tailor shop today got barber services—a close shave and singe—but it cost the tailor $150.

Karl Blinn, 22, 3218 Dawson street, smelled gas as he pasted a strip of paper on the ceiling of Nathan Poster's tailor shop, 229 Anderson street, North Side. Blinn, curious, borrowed a match from Poster.

The explosion that followed gave Blinn a first class singe. Poster estimated the damage was $150.

IMPORTANT FAT FOOD ADDED TO THE DIETARY

Speaking of food and their preparation Dr. Charles Harrington, of the Medical School of Harvard University, said: "Margarine brings into the dietary an important fat food. Margarine cannot be made from rancid fat, and in its manufacture great care must be exercised to exclude any material however slightly tainted. The truth is, it is made only from the cleanest materials in the cleanest possible manner."

The woman of short stature, who knows that simplicity is the surest means of acquiring an effect of length, will like these simple but effective frocks.

They are of flat crepe, satin and georgette crepe, in the soft shades of the moment—light blues, gray, green, and brigatan—besides navy blue and black.

Metal nailheads, design tucking, and self bows at neck and cuff line, are their simple trimmings.

ESCORT ROBBED HER, GIRL SAYS

A new boy friend took Marie Varbola, 2818 Mary street, home from a dance Saturday night. They stopped to chat in front of her home and the boy friend took Marie's $20 mesh bag which contained $3, the girl said. Police are hunting for Nick Benovich as a result of Marie's story.

FIDDLERS OF 3 STATES TO VIE AT MORGANTOWN

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Jan. 16.—Old-time fiddlers will compete for the championship of West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Maryland at a contest in the Elks' ballroom here Thursday night. In addition contests will be held to determine the best banjo and guitar players. Bernard McCulley, of Cumberland, Md., the present banjo champion, will be here to defend his title.

Black Cat Brings Auto Crash and Loss of Ring

A black cat may be a black cat to some people, but it is a sure sign of bad luck to James G. Evans of 125 Merritt street. A cat stopped Evans' machine in Forbes street yesterday. He stopped, and during the halt he put his $600 diamond ring in his hat band. At Forbes and Halket streets his machine collided with the automobile of R. C. Rockwell of Third street, Elizabeth. The ring was lost and Evans cut and bruised. Rockwell was arrested.

FEAR PLOT TO KIDNAP HILL

ADD TO GUARD ON MOTHER SLAYER

By International News Service

OTTAWA, Ill., Jan. 16.—Additional guards were posted about Harry Hill of Streator, Ill., on trial for the alleged murder of his mother, Mrs. Eliza Hill, today when Sheriff Floyd S. Clark suspected a plot to kidnap him was under way.

For the last week, according to Sheriff Clark, two mysterious automobiles have followed Hill from the court house to the jail. The license numbers of the machines have been obtained and Sheriff Clark announced he would immediately question the owners of the machines, who were found to be Ottawa residents.

Eight jurors have been selected to try Hill, who is accused of having shot his mother and with having buried her body in a shallow grave in the basement of her home.

Questioning of a special venire was to begin this afternoon when the trial is resumed.

JAILED, TRIES TO HANG SELF

ERIE, Pa., Jan. 16.—Rather than face charges preferred by his wife, Frank Plicwoski, 40, of Lawrence Park, made two unsuccessful attempts to hang himself at the jail yesterday. Capt. Richard Dundon stated he attempted to strangle himself first with a scarf and then with his shirt, and ordered the prisoner removed to the Erie County prison.

ERIE CORONER PROBES TANK EXPLOSION DEATH

ERIE, Pa., Jan. 16.—Coroner Daniel Hanley is conducting an investigation into the death of Carl Peterson, 25, of 325 West Twenty-ninth street, which occurred Sunday at St. Vincent's Hospital. It was said he died from a fractured skull suffered July 23, last, when a compressed air tank exploded at the Erie forge, where he was employed. He had been at the hospital since the accident.

ARMED HOLD-UP NETS $28 HERE

An armed robber early yesterday robbed Abe Silverman of $28 while the victim was seated in an automobile parked in Walters avenue and Becks Run road. The robber leaped from another machine where he had left two companions.

T. P. Lampert, Glenshaw, was robbed of $85 by a pickpocket Saturday night in the family Century Theater, 701 East Ohio street, North Side, he reported to police.

Robbers who ransacked the home of Lewis Start, house No. 782, Willock, obtained $400 and clothing valued at $25, according to a report made to county detectives.

ALL ACTORS HEED CALL

the Sheridan Square Theater:

"Dear Mr. Hooley:

"Enter our names on the Theater Managers' program for a personal appearance at the midnight show at Davis Theater, Thursday night, January 19, for the benefit of women and children in the mining district.

"Will arrive in Pittsburgh from Johnstown on Thursday morning for three days' engagement at your Sheridan Square Theater, and in addition to our regular afternoon and evening performances at your house, will arrange to give a reception in the playroom each afternoon. You can bet your bottom dollar we are going to be kept busy, but we are not going to pass up a chance to do something for the kids and mothers in the mining district, and we will be on hand at the midnight show in your Davis Theater Thursday. Mebbe we can get our goat to come along—he's always butting in anyhow.

"MICKEY DANIELS and
"PEGGY EAMES."

The stars and headliners of the shows at the Nixon, Alvin, Pitt, Davis, Grand, Harris, Loew's Aldine, Loew's Penn, Sheridan Square, Liberty and Schenley theaters will furnish the entertainment. All seats are reserved, and will sell at a uniform price of one dollar. "A ten-dollar show for a dollar," it has been called. Tickets are now on sale at the Davis box office.

The proceeds will go in their entirety to the relief of the wives and children of destitute Allegheny county miners, regardless of whether they are union or non-union men.

Presides

J. G. BACHOFER

J. G. Bachofer, of Reading, will preside at the annual convention of Pennsylvania Industrial Lenders' Association, opening in Pittsburgh Wednesday.

LOAN SOCIETY TO MEET

The Pennsylvania Industrial Lenders' Association will hold a regional meeting in Pittsburgh, January 18, at the William Penn Hotel. J. G. Bachofer of Reading will preside.

The members will be addressed at luncheon by A. V. Snell, secretary of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, on "Community Service." K. S. Fry, manager of the Community Finance Service, Inc., and E. O. Schultz, manager of the Household Finance Corporation of Pittsburgh, will read papers at the afternoon session.

A banquet will follow with several speakers, including J. S. Thompson, humorist, of Pittsburgh, and William Rainey Bennett.

The association was organized December 3, 1915, at Philadelphia, immediately after the enactment of the first statute that regulated the business of money lending in the state. Its membership is exclusively of individual or corporate lenders, licensed by the State Banking Commissioner, to make loans up to $300.

Pennsylvania was one of the first states to enact what is known as the uniform small loan law, framed by the Russell Sage Foundation for the protection of borrowers of small sums from extortionate interest rates. The purpose of the organization is to insure a strict compliance with the regulative law by its members and to use every endeavor to rid the small loan field of unscrupulous lenders.

Members of the committee arranging the meetings are: C. W. Loupe, A. H. Thale, H. W. Smith, M. S. Kent and J. S. Fisher.

SHIRLEY NAMED GENERAL AGENT

John T. Shirley, former Pittsburgh manager of Connecticut General Life Insurance Company, has been appointed general agent in Western Pennsylvania of New England Mutual Life Insurance Company.

Mr. Shirley, member of University Club, Pittsburgh Field Club, Pittsburgh Athletic Association, succeeds Thomas W. Pomeroy, who, at his request, becomes associate general agent. Before coming to Pittsburgh Mr. Shirley lived in Harrisburg and later in Clarion.

Colleen Moore and Husband, John McCormick, to Remain With First National Pictures

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS,
Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 16.

COLLEEN MOORE will remain with First National. The papers are not actually signed, but they are drawn up and waiting the approval of John McCormick, Colleen's husband and business manager.

Colleen, you will remember, walked off the First National lot last year following her husband's resignation as production manager. John McCormick is Irish and, therefore, hot-headed. Even when the war was at its height, Richard Rowland and the rest of the F. N. executives admitted a sneaking liking for young McCormick and believed that he would get over his spell.

I don't know that he ever really kissed and made up officially, but I do know as Colleen's business manager the new contract carries a big raise in salary for him.

There was talk that Colleen had been lured to the United Artists lot by the promise of "Sunny," but that deal is now definitely in the wastepaper basket. This seems the year of compromises. All the quarrels are being patched up and the directors and stars are remaining with the companies that first gave them recognition.

"Sunny" seems to be going abegging at the moment. Gloria Swanson, who was to have starred in either, "Sunny" or "The Last of Mrs. Cheney," has put them both aside in favor of "La Paiva." 'Tis said that Gloria, who is making her own pictures, decided the price asked for the privilege of filming these two erstwhile stage plays, was more than she cared to pay. I am not so sure that she isn't right. "Mrs. Cheney" is largely dependent on its brilliant dialogue, and "Sunny" without Marilyn Miller and music would be apple pie without cheese. That is, unless it is an unusually good picture. Anyway, "La Paiva," written by Dr. Karl Zollmueller, author of "The Miracle," for David Wark Griffith, is apparently just what she wants. There is talk—very strong talk, that Fred Niblo may direct her.

Comes our old friend Zane Grey, who writes of the purple West and the he-men of the plains. This time Mr. Grey is turning his attention to an epic of deep sea fishing filmed while he was on a 10 months' tour of the South Seas. He did a Von Stroheim and returned from his journey with 60,000 feet of film, which is now being edited and cut down to 12 reels by George Sargent. Grey, who is the Izaak Walton of the movies, is a well-known fisherman as well as novelist.

David Wark Griffith is on his way to New York to attend the opening of his latest picture, "Drums of Love." This, of course, isn't the final title but I am not the amiable sort who is willing to keep changing the name of a picture every week or so. But that's not important. The thing is, everyone says D. W. has a big picture. It's in the air on the United Artists lot. You can always tell whether people are talking to make conversation or whether they are sincere, and those who have seen it talk as if they are really impressed. Good news, isn't it, that the man who did more to advance motion pictures than anyone else is due for more recognition?

Snapshots of Hollywood. Count Andre de Segurola, sartorially perfect, shopping in a grocery window. Janet Gaynor with a pair of dark glasses and blistered hands, the latter from attempting a trapeze stunt in her next picture. Gilbert Roland with head shaved in an effort to make a Latin into a German. John Barrymore with a grotesque make-up as "nightmare-ish" as Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde. Beulah Livingston's car having the heebee-jeebees on Hollywood boulevard helped, no doubt, by an irate policeman.

CONCERT BY KOCHANSKI IN MOSQUE TOMORROW

Kochanski will give the fifth May Beegle concert in Syria Mosque tomorrow night, when he will play his priceless Strad, once the property of Ole Bull. In addition to several of the greatest old violin classics, Kochanski's program will include a group of eighteenth century numbers arranged by Kreisler. His program will open with the Bach Concerto in A minor.

Twins "Double" For Each Other

A pair of twins, though the script called but for one child, was ordered by John Ford in directing "Grandmother Bernie Learns Her Letters," a Fox photoplay.

"They're each other's doubles," Ford explained. "One is for crying and the other for laughing purposes."

The picture, a story of a Bavarian mother and her four sons during the World War, probably will be shown as "Four Sons."

Loveliness Protected

Gilbert Roland's eyes flash danger in this scene from "The Love Mart." His armful is none but Billie Dove, a romantic type of Southern womanhood in this picture.

THEATER BILLS ARE VARIED

Tonight and all week the Pitt will house the popular magician, Howard Thurston, who has brought with him many new tricks, namely: "The Mystery of the Bathing Girls," "The Moth and the Flame," "Whippet" and others. Thurston also brings with him some of his old favorites, such as "Sawing a Woman in Half," "The Elastic Lady," "The Spirited Cabinet" and his many card tricks.

"One Sunny Day" opens in the Nixon tonight. In the cast are Frank McIntyre, Lynne Overman, Jeanette MacDonald, Billy B. Van, Carl Randall, Rosalie Claire and Audrey Maple. It is a French farce set to music.

"Gay Paree" will open a week's engagement in the Alvin tonight. Matinees will be given on Wednesday and Saturday. Headed by Charles "Chic" Sale, the featured player during the long runs of the show in the New York Winter Garden and Four Cohans Theater, Chicago, the cast includes Rita Gould, Frank Gaby and others.

The Davis stage program this week is headed by the Younger Foys, children of Eddie. On the screen is Esther Ralston in "The Spotlight."

Ralph Emerson, who plays one of the cadets in "West Point," the new William Haines Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feature in the Penn, was a medical doctor in the army during the war.

"The Valley of the Giants" is on the screen in the Grand this week. "The Four Symphonists" are the stage attraction.

Esta Alja, singing and dancing soubret, is a featured player in "Girls From Happyland," attraction in the Academy. Irving Selig, character comedian, leads the funmakers.

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow's ballad, "The Wreck of the Hesperus," adapted for the screen, is the photoplay in Loew's Aldine. Frank Marion and Virginia Bradford are featured.

Jessie MacDonald is the prima donna in "Jazz Babies," this week's burlesque in the Gayety.

Edmund Lowe, in "The Wizard," is the attraction in the Olympic. There also is a Vitaphone program.

"Countess Maritza" will come to the Alvin Monday evening, January 23, for that week only, coming here after its long runs in New York and Chicago. The entire cast, including Walter Woolf, Odette Myrtil, Harry K. Morton, Gladys Baxter, Majorie Peterson, George Dobbs and Robert Greig, will be seen here.

Ethel Walters, Negro comedienne, will appear in the Nixon for one week only, opening Monday night, January 23, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday, in the Negro revue "Africana," coming direct from four weeks in Philadelphia, and which played in New York for six months.

Ronald and Vilma In Final Film As Team

The cast selected by Samuel Goldwyn to support Vilma Banky and Ronald Colman in their last co-starring picture, "The Passionate Adventure," will include Noah Beery, Paul Lukas, Nigel de Brulier, Helen Jerome Eddy, Eugenie Besserer, Harry Allen and Virginia Bradford. Fred Niblo is directing the picture, which is the Alice D. G. Miller adaptation of the Baroness Orczy novel, "Leatherface." Carl Oscar Borg, who designed the sets for "A Night of Love," "The Magic Flame" and other Colman-Banky duets, is creating the scenic background of the Flemish city of Ghent in the sixteenth century. George Barnes is handling the camera.

Both Mr. Colman and Miss Banky will begin their individually starring careers immediately following the completion of "The Passionate Adventure." Arthur Hornblow, Jr., Mr. Goldwyn's chief production executive, is now in New York making final selection of their new vehicles.

Protege of Star On Bill in Davis

Rosalind Ruby, the latest of the young singers who is making a pronounced impression and who is slated for the concert and opera stage in the near future, makes her Pittsburgh debut today at the Davis Theater. Miss Ruby possesses a lyric soprano voice. She is a protege of Queena Mario, Metropolitan star, who heard her singing in a specialty shop in New York, where Miss Ruby was working to help pay the cost of her voice culture. Miss Mario obtained an auditorium before a group of critics and her protege was immediately signed by Paramount for operatic numbers in their New York theater presentations. Following this, she received her present engagement in the Keith-Albee vaudeville.

"I won't trifle with sore throat again"

"Just a sore throat, I thought—but it got worse—and laid me up for the busiest week of the season! Now, I take no chances. My policy is: Formamint, at once—and an examination by my doctor."

Physicians approve of Formamint. It releases a standard antiseptic over the whole throat. Its effect is continuous. Unlike gargles, it can be used anywhere. Needed especially in dusty, crowded places. To treat sore throat, one every hour; for prevention, one every two hours. All druggists. Keep Formamint ready.

$150,000-Heir Drives Truck

LEWIS O. BRUUN

Lewis O. Bruun, 21, San Diego truck driver, inherited $150,000 from a Kansas City uncle shortly after the first of the year.. He kept right on driving his truck, however, and probably will continue to do so for some time. The truck, you see, belongs to the U. S. Marines and Lewis' application for discharge from service, filed on notification of his inheritance, is still stalled in red tape traffic.

RUM FOE HERE HITS AT DARROW

Clarence Darrow's latest book, "The Probitition Mania," was the target of the Rev. Dr. W. Wofford T. Duncan's anniversary sermon yesterday morning in Emory Methodist Episcopal Church. He said in part:

"Mr. Darrow's logic limps when admitting the excessive drinking of years ago and its decrease since. He argues that prohibition was unnecessary to complete elimination of the liquor evil. He forgets that decrease in liquor respectibility has always been accompanied by prohibitory measures.

"As soon as a town begins to discredit liquor-drinking it set itself to outlaw the liquor traffic. That traffic always refused to accept temperance ideals of the community, and insisted on remaining and cultivating new liquor appetites. Mr. Darrow admits that sobriety was increasingly demanded by high-grade people all over the land. He ought to admit the naturalness of increased legislative severity toward the liquor traffic. That is the real reason we have national prohibition today.

"High license, local option, state-wide prohibition and national prohibition are just so many legal steps which have paralleled the journey by which we have traveled from drunken parsons, drunken school teachers, drunken railroad men and drunken congressmen, to the place where drunkenness among these men is regarded as a disgrace."

BRAIN EXPERTS TO TEST "FOX"

By International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 16.—Alienists, retainer by both state and defense, were scheduled to enter the cell occupied by William Edward Hickman today and conduct a searching psychoanalysis into the sanity of the youthful kidnaper-slayer of 12-year-old Marion Parker.

With the defense having had the "Fox" under scientific scrutiny for several days, the prosecution was to begin today its collection of direct observational data by which it hopes to explode the plea of "not guilty by reason of insanity" and send Hickman to the gallows.

On the basis of well-grounded reports that Hickman had altered his hostility to state specialists, it was expected that Dr. Frank M. Mikels, pysco-pathologist engaged by the prosecution, will not encounter the difficulties met by other state alienists when they sought to interview the prisoner on previous occasions. Dr. Mikels prepared to enter Hickman's cell today. His questions, it was expected, will be answered by the prisoner.

Meanwhile, two additional brain experts, hired by the defense, were to interview Hickman today.

GIDEONS PUT 175 BIBLES IN HOTEL AT NEW CASTLE

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Jan. 16.—Bibles were placed in 175 rooms of the Castleton Hotel here yesterday by the Gideons. Addresses were made at the special service by Samuel A. PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Calendar for Week Blank Socially, Not Even the Tiniest Luncheon Being Listed

WHEN one glances at the social calendar of this week, one is quite amazed, for there is not one event there, not even the tiniest luncheon planned. And this dearth of social gaiety is not true of this week alone. With the exception of three more weddings of importance, those of Hallie Virginia Hill, Frances Schoen and Elizabeth Lewis, there is nothing planned for the remainder of the month of February except a debutante bridge on January 27 and that godsend of a dying season, the Aero Club ball on February 3.

Even though there are very few social affairs these days, the society folk are far from being idle. All are busy planning where to go for the remainder of the winter, how to go there, and of course the women are absorbed with that age-old problem of what to wear.

Quite a few of Pittsburgh's society set are showing a marked departure from the conventional Florida trip. Among these are Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Turnbull, Jr., and their daughters Harriet and Janet, who choose to go to no nearer place than Africa. They left on Wednesday for New York from where they will sail for Africa. And on their way they are going to stop at Madeira, the Canary Islands, Sumatra, Sierra Leone and St. Helena. Sounds much more romantic, although more arduous, than Palm Beach, doesn't it? Cape Town will be their next stop and they will travel up the east coast of the country.

There are social entertainments in Africa, for Mrs. Turnbull's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. A. Lochner de Villiers, of Cape Town, will give a garden party on February 11 in honor of the Turnbull family. Several other members taking the same trip as the Turnbulls also will be among the guests, I hear.

Mrs. Birney K. McMechen, the William B. Schillers and the George A. Howes are all taking this Africa journey. The Turnbulls and Mrs. McMechen will return in April.

DANCE CHAIRMAN

Mrs. D. Withum Miller is chairman of the dance to be given Thursday night in Webster Hall by the Mercy Hospital Nurses' Alumnae Association.

Just at present there are a goodly number of Pittsburgh women of the married set in New York, getting ready, we imagine, for the sunlit days of the South.

Mrs Alfred E. Jenkins and Mrs. Howard Montgomery have been spending a few days there, stopping at the St. Regis.

The Walter A. Mays have been at the Ritz-Carlton and Mrs. George L. Collard is in New York, too, stopping at the Ambassador.

Mrs. William McBride and her debutante daughter, Marie Boggs McBride, returned Saturday morning to their Grant street, Sewickley, home after spending a few days in New York.

The John C. Stewarts, of Woodland road, left Saturday for Miami Beach, Fla. They have taken a house there for the winter, I hear. The Stewarts are accompanied by Mrs. Robert N. Standish and her young son, Robert N. Standish, Jr. Both families will return some time in April.

California is becoming more and more popular with those seeking to escape northern winters. The Frederic Schaefers, of Devon road, left yesterday for California. They also expect to spend some time in Honolulu.

The C. N. Harnas, of the Bellefield Dwellings have gone to Winter Park, Fla., for the remainder of the winter.

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Beth Israel congregation, North Side, will hold its nineteenth annual dance tomorrow night in Webster Hall. Mrs. M. A. Moses is chairman.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Eberhardt, of North Negley avenue, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Katherine Eberhardt, to Robert H. Depue, of Pittsburgh, which was solemnized October 19.

The marriage of Miss Eulalia Jones, of New York, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Bristow Jones, of Turtle Creek, and Charles W. McGinnis, of Pittsburgh, formerly of New York, will be solemnized Thursday, February 9, in the Pittsburgh Athletic Association. Mrs. A. C. Campbell, of New York, will be matron of honor and Lucius McK. Crumrine, of Washington, Pa., is to be best man. Mr. and Mrs. McGinnis will sail February 11 on the Leviathan for England, and they will fly from London to Paris, later taking several air trips over Europe.

Miss Jones is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, class of 1922, and in New York is president of the university alumni association and a member of the Women's University Club. Mr. McGinnis was graduated from Girard College. He served four years as national field secretary of the American Legion.

Alan F. Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Clark, of Dunmoyle street, has returned to the Culver Military Academy after spending the holidays at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph G. Smith, of Lincoln avenue, Edgewood, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Margaret C. Smith, to William F. Collman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Collman, of Vilsack, Pa.

Women of the Assumption Church, Jackson street, Bellevue, will hold a chicken dinner tomorrow and Wednesday nights in the church auditorium, followed by cards. Mrs. Joseph Sullivan is general chairman and Mrs. Andrew Kautzman will be in charge of the kitchen.

Miss Pauline and Miss Lillian Kiefker are on the card committee for the euchre, bridge, "500," Old Maid and bingo party to be held Wednesday night in the Elks' Temple, Seventh street, by the Old St. Mary's Alumni. Miss Margaret O'Donnell is general chairman with Miss Helen Laffey in charge of the ticket committee; Mrs. Elizabeth Brennan McGinty, door; Thomas Jones and John Grealish, reception; Miss Colette Kaiser, prizes, and Miss Nora O'Connell, cards. Miss Ella Mae Donovan and Miss Mary Grealish are sub-chairmen.

A card party will be held tomorrow night in the Pittsburgh Hospital by the Nurses' Alumnae Association for the benefit of the hospital. Miss Jane O'Brien is chairman, assisted by Miss Florence Conroy.

Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Jones, of Lancaster avenue, Regent Square, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Kathryn Marie Jones, to Reinhold L. Fricke, of Pittsburgh and Buffalo.

Mrs. Florence Chisholm Douglass has returned home from New York after spending the holidays with her sister, Mrs. Catherine Chisholm Cushing, the playwright.

A. tonight. Impressions gained during a month's western circle trip, and through the Panama Canal will be given by Miss Gordon.

The Wimodausis Club is to act as the hostess organization for the Allegheny County Federation meeting in the Congress of Clubs, January 27. Mrs. H. F. Goodman, president, has appointed the board of directors and all past presidents as a hostess committee, with Mrs. J. C. DeNoon as chairman.

The Italian Women's Republican Club will hold a Mardi Gras dance in the Kenyon Theater February 21. Plans for the affair will be completed at a meeting next Friday.

Sponsored by the League of American Pen Women, Mrs. Arthur J. Hopkins gave the first in a series of three lectures at Pennsylvania College for Women this afternoon. The others will follow Wednesday and Friday afternoons. Mrs. Hopkins was a guest of the Woman's City Club at luncheon on Saturday and after luncheon spoke on "Bromidia," saying people live today vicariously instead of directly; they are reading but not doing. Men and women crave danger, but the automobile is almost the only thrill they have left, she declared.

The radio program for the Congress of Clubs will be given this week by Mrs. John M. Phillips, chairman of the American home department of the State Federation, who will talk on "The Soul of the American Home" over KDKA tomorrow morning.

Plans for a benefit euchre will be made Thursday night at a meeting of the Sixteenth Ward Republican Women.

DEATH ROLL

Mrs. P. J. O'Connor.

Mrs. Alice S. Kelly O'Connor, 54, wife of Prof. P. J. O'Connor, principal of Bedford School, died in her home, 2409 Fifth avenue, last night. Mrs. O'Connor, organizer and first president of the Daughters of Betsy Ross, had been an invalid for four years, but prior to her illness had been active in civic and community affairs in Pittsburgh. She was born in Staffordshire, England, but came to Pittsburgh at an early age and lived here practically all of her life. She taught art at Seton Hill College in 1900 and prior to that had taught in the public schools of Pittsburgh. She was a member of St. Agnes Roman Catholic Church and at one time was contralto soloist. She had been active in the Congress of Women's Clubs, the Civic Club of Allegheny County, the Equal Franchise Association and many other local civic organizations.

She leaves two sons, Francis J. and James P. O'Connor, both of Pittsburgh; two daughters, Lucille C. and Elizabeth O'Connor, both of Pittsburgh, and two brothers, Edward A. and Thomas P. Kelly, both of Pittsburgh.

Patrick E. Stack.

Patrick E. Stack died in his home, 22 Marion street, Saturday. He was born in Ireland and came to this country when 19 years old. He had been a resident of Pittsburgh for 29 years, and during that time was engineer at the Mercy Hospital. Stack was a member of the Epiphany Roman Catholic Church and the Holy Name Society. Besides his widow he leaves two daughters, two sons, two sisters and four brothers.

William L. Ewens.

William Lambie Ewens of 2744 Ocean avenue, Dormont, died Saturday in his home. Mr. Ewens was well known as an insurance salesman. He was a member of Franklin Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Minnie Bowman Ewens; three sisters, Mrs. H. L. Bender of Miami, Fla., and Mrs. Chester Erb and Miss Agnes Ewens, both of Pittsburgh, and one brother, Charles Ewens of Los Angeles, Cal.

Mrs. Allen S. Penney.

Mrs. Nina Lee Fox Penney, 29, wife of Allen S. Penney, died yesterday in her home in Uniontown. Mrs. Penney was born in Harrisville, W. Va., and was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Fox. She lived in Pittsburgh for several years prior to going to Uniontown. She leaves besides her parents and her husband, a son, two brothers and a sister.

Mrs. Elizabeth J. French.

Mrs. Elizabeth Jane French, 78, widow of William French, died yesterday in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Alex Chisholm, 113 Sheridan avenue, Bellevue. She was born in Armstrong county and was a member of the Kittanning Lutheran Church. She leaves one son, four daughters, one sister and one brother.

Mrs. Jennie Hardy Eadie.

Mrs. Jenny Hardy Eadie, 64, wife of George T. R. Eadie, 612 Romine avenue, McKeesport, died Saturday at her home. She was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of McKeesport Woman's Benefit Association, Macabees, D. A. R. She is survived by two sons, two daughters and three brothers.

Miss Bridget T. Duffy.

Miss Bridget T. Duffy, 72, a resident of Pittsburgh for 33 years, died yesterday in the home of her niece, Mrs. Elmer G. Haenel, 1162 Berkshire avenue, Brookline. Miss Duffy was a member of St. Augustine's Catholic Church, Thirty-seventh street. She leaves one brother and four sisters.

RUTH'S MOTHER BETTER: MAKE BURIAL PLANS

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—Mrs. Josephine Brown was sufficiently recovered today from a physical and mental collapse to discuss with relatives plans for the funeral of her executed daughter, Ruth Snyder.

It was decided not to open the casket containing the body either before or during burial services in the mortuary at Woodlawn Cemetery, where it now lies awaiting interment, probably this week. Mrs. Brown will not look again on the features of the blonde sashweight murderess.

Special policemen have been stationed at the receiving vault to keep away the crowds who visit the cemetery out of morbid curiosity. At one time yesterday more than 100 cars were parked outside the cemetery. The same scene was witnessed at Rosedale Cemetry, Montclair, N. J., where the body of Henry Judd Gray is buried.

WOMAN HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Mrs. Anna Aiken of 2628 Mission street, and her brother-in-law, Gordon Aiken, 31, of 134 South Twenty-first street, were injured early this morning, when an automobile in which they were riding, was struck by another machine and overturned at Diamond and Ross streets. The woman was taken to the Mercy Hospital and Aiken was sent home.

The other machine was driven by William Silverman, 22, of 5379 Douglas avenue, who escaped uninjured. The Aiken machine overturned twice. Both Aiken and Silverman were arrested on charges of reckless driving and they will be given hearings in Traffic Court.

Struck by an automobile near his home yesterday afternoon, William Millikin, 6, of 1454 Crescent street, Wilkinsburg, suffered a fractured skull and body bruises. He was removed to the Columbia Hospital, where it was said his condition was serious. Virgil Murray of 1612 Coal street, is said to have been driving the machine.

52 NEW MEMBERS AT 2D PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Fifty-two new members were received into the Second Presbyterian Church, Eighth street, yesterday at the morning service. At night quite a few were unable to get into the church, owing to the large attendance.

The male quartet of Tuskegee University sang several Negro spirituals. By whistling, the Rev. E. McCoy Franklin, of Crossmore, N. C., gave imitations of song birds of the mountainous regions of that part of Carolina where he has built and where he conducts a wonderful school for the education of poor white children.

CLUE TO COLLEGE GIRL

MISSING STUDENT SEEN IN AUTO

By International News Service

NEW LONDON, Conn., Jan. 16.—Frances St. John Smith, missing 18-year-old student of Smith College, was seen here this morning accompanied by a young man in a roadster, according to a government forester from California en route to Weathersfield, Conn.

The forester said he recognized the missing student from her photograph in a newspaper. He said the girl was in a roadster parked outside a store here and that the machine was being stocked up with provisions.

The girl who the forester thought was Miss Smith tore up a letter and threw it in an ash-can, he said. The forester claimed he fished out the letter which showed the name "Smith" to be written on the envelope.

FIVE THEORIES

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Jan. 16.—Spurred by the offer of a reward of $1,000 efforts were redoubled today to find a trace of Miss Frances St. John, 18-year-old daughter of a New York broker, who vanished from Smith College under circumstances as mystifying as those surrounding the unsolved disappearance in November, 1925, of Miss Alice M. Corbett, of Utica, N. Y., Smith College student. Both girls vanished on Friday the 13th.

While the frenzied search continued, officials stated that they were working on five theories. These were:

1.—That Miss St. John Smith, was abducted and held for ransom; her father is reputed to be a millionaire.

2.—That she took her own life.

3.—That she eloped; friends said she had a love affair but her relatives denied it.

4.—That her mind became a blank from overstudy; she was behind in her college work and had been "plugging."

5.—That she met an accidental death—was hit by an automobile or fell through the ice of some river or pond in this vicinity.

PARENTS ON SCENE

Parents of the girl, whose home is at 129 East Seventieth street, New York, and who had a summer home at South Amherst, were here today personally in touch with the search for their daughter.

Sees Wife Burn

JAMES GRANER

Because of his infirmities, James Graner, 80, 415 Bigham street, Mt. Washington, was forced to stand by and watch his wife, Charlotte Graner, 70, burn to death today when her clothing caught fire in her home.

MUSIC
MAX SHAPIRO QUARTET
Y. M. & W. H. A.

PROGRAM.

Quartet E minor .... F. Smetana
Allegro vivo appassionato.
Allegro moderato a la Polka.
Largo sostenuto.
Vivace.
(a) Oren .... Max Shapiro
(Dedicated to the memory of Isaac Seder.)
(b) Assez vif-Tres rythme... Maurice Ravel
Piano Quintet in E flat major.........
.... Robert Schumann
Allegro Brillante.
In modo d'una marcia.
Scherzo molto vivace.
Allegro ma non troppo.

The Max Shapiro String Quartet must have been reassured by the large audience at the Young Men's and Women's Hebrew Association last night. It was the second concert in a series of chamber music recitals sponsored by the "Y," and a program of superior quality.

The quartet is now composed of Max Shapiro, first violin; Herbert Lomask, second violin; Milton Lomask, viola, and George Curry, cello, and is well-established Pittsburgh institution. As heretofore I was again convinced that the group plays miniatures best, not that they do not fully comprehend the musical values of works on a larger scale, but they play these more delicate compositions with greater repose. Tone, attack and intonation are then better. Oscar Helfenbein joined the quartet in playing of the Schumann quintet.

FOUR WEEK-END HOLDUPS NET THIEVES $34

Sunday was a poor business day for thieves, who operated extensively in various sections of the city. Two Negroes got $5 and a gold watch from Frank Pasky, 3258 Ridgway street, when they held him up in Herron avenue. Roy Komulak, 174 Thirty-ninth street, had only $5 for two white men who held him up in Penn avenue, near Thirty-third street, and he was beaten.

The cash register in J. H. Ingelbach's store, 1617 Lowrie street, yielded $5 for robbers, and three cartons of cigarets were obtained by thieves who entered the store of John L. Heis, 1723 Saiderman street.

Edward Millo, taxi driver, of 4814 Chatsworth street, was robbed of $19 and a watch by two men he had driven to West Homestead.

PLAN RAISING 18 NORTH SIDE STREETS

Another advance step was taken in Pittsburgh's flood prevention program today when ordinances appeared in Council proposing the raising of 12 streets in the North Side flood district west of Federal street.

The streets which would be raised are St. Mary's Court, Burdock way, Cobra way, Alcor street, Balkan street, Waino way, West Canal street, Zinc way, Cremo street, Herb way, Itasco street, Corry street, Scotland street, Merchant street, Martindale street, Reedsdale street, Shore avenue and Hypolite street.

The necessary legislation for raising Lacock, Robinson and Dasher streets already has been approved by Council. Public Works Director Edward G. Lang, after sending the ordinances to Council, stated that it had not yet decided whether to get the material for raising the streets by removing Monument Hill, as proposed by Councilman Harry A. Little, or by importing slag and dirt.

The total cost to the city in property damages is estimated by Lang at not more than $150,000, far less than that incurred when the North Side streets east of Federal street were raised. Many of the property owners, he thought, would waive damages in order to make the district and their properties safe from floods. The streets would be raised above the height of the highest floods in the history of the city.

GIRL ADMITS BIGAMY

Helen Smith, at 17, has two husbands, she admitted in Morals Court today. She was held for court on a bigamy charge.

A letter from her first husband, now in California, stating that he had remarried, spurred her on to accept the proposal of George Gearhart, 20, of Lytle street, Hazelwood, and marry him last Tuesday, she told the court.

Living in Cleveland, about a year ago, she married Wilson Grosier. After three weeks he left for California.

At her home again, Helen said she and her stepfather failed to agree, so she came here to live with Mrs. Alex Garris, 1711 Howard street, North Side, an aunt.

TARENTUM BOY HIT, SKULL FRACTURED

Struck by an automobile near his home Saturday night, Edward Pracko, 2-year-old son of John Pracko, 126 West Seventh street, Tarentum, is in the Allegheny Valley Hospital with a probable fracture of the skull. J. P. Jacobs, of Brackenridge, driver of the car, was released on his own recognizance by Tarentum police.

Fined $10 for Criticizing Policeman

Because Albert McGuire, of Carey way, South Side, took upon himself to criticize Patrolman James Queenan for arresting James Hennessy, of 2230 Sarah street and having him brought into Morals Court yesterday, McGuire found himself before Magistrate A. D. Brandon who fined him $10 on a disorderly conduct charge. Hennessy had previously been sentenced to the workhouse for 60 days on a charge of annoying women.

Queenan had just finished testifying against Hennessy when McGuire approached him and criticized him in having Hennessy brought into Morals Court instead of the South Side Police Court. McGuire insinuated he could fix the matter in the other court. The patrolman listened to the criticism and then dragged McGuire before Brandon whom imposed the fine.

Ambition to Receive Army Training to Be Realized

"Slim" Ordered to Brooks Field, The Military Aviation Cadets' Camp

Lindbergh was ever progressing, as indicated by the installment of his "We" in the Sunday Sun-Telegraph yesterday. He sold his Jenny plane and had a trying experience with an Italian pursuit plane. He took his examination for entry as a cadet at Brooks Field. While waiting for the report he went with a friend in a Canuck plane to the South. It was a practice trip for the friend, and not less so for "Lindy." Barnstorming paid expenses, and there was sight-seeing such as appeals to every live youth of the Lindbergh type.

New "Chute" Gives Confidence

By COL. CHARLES A. LINDBERGH.

CHAPTER IX.

WE REFUELED at Hattiesburg and Mobile, then landed at the Naval Air Station near Pensacola, Fla., where the commanding officer showed us every courtesy during our visit.

At last I received notice from the War Department to the effect that my examination had been satisfactorily passed, along with an order to appear at Brooks Field, San Antonio, Tex., in time to enter the March 15 class of flying cadets.

Klink and I decided to cut short our stay at Pensacola and to work our way as far west as time would allow before it was necessary for me to leave for Brooks Field.

We had promised to take one of the ladies of the post for a short hop before leaving, and on the morning of our departure I took off for a test flight before taking the lady over Pensacola.

Just after the ship had left the field and was about 200 feet high over the bay the motor "reved" down to about 500. I banked around in an attempt to get back to the field, but lacked by about 15 feet enough altitude to reach it and was forced to land in the sand hills less than a hundred feet from the edge of the flying field. The first hill wiped off my landing gear and one wheel went up through the front spar on the lower left wing, breaking it off about two feet from the fuselage.

A quick survey of the plane showed that we would require a new landing gear and propeller in addition to the material required to splice the spar.

Navy Helps Out

The navy hauled the plane into one of its large dirigible hangars and allowed us to make use of its equipment in repairing the damage. We purchased a spare landing gear and a propeller, then built a box frame around the broken spar and, after gluing all the joints, screwed it into position and wound the splice with strong cord, which was then shrunk tight by several coats of dope. In this way the splice was made stronger than the original spar had been.

When we were not working on the ship we made several trips to the old Spanish forts which protected the city during the days when Florida still belonged to Spain. These are in an excellent state of preservation and contain a number of passageways, one of which is supposed to lead underground between the two fortifications, but although we searched carefully for the opening to this tunnel we never found it.

In all we spent about a week repairing the plane, and when it was ready to fly once more I tested it with an Irving parachute borrowed from one of the officers of the station. That was the first service type of chute I had ever worn and I experienced the unique feeling of not caring particularly whether the ship held together during the tests or not. I put that Canuck through maneuvers which I would never have dreamed of doing with it before, yet with the confidence of absolute safety.

'Chute Development

The advent of the service parachute was a tremendous step forward in the advance of aviation. It gave the test pilot a safe means of escape in most cases when all else had failed. It permitted formations to fly closer in comparative safety, and, in short, allowed flyers to learn more about their planes than ever before. All this contributed to the ever-increasing knowledge of practical flying which makes possible the safety of present air commerce.

The airplane parachute has developed with the rapidity of the planes themselves. For years descents with 'chutes were made from balloons, but the first jump from a plane was by Capt. Berry at St. Louis, Mo., in 1912. His parachute was a comparatively crude affair and of no use in an emergency. Ten years later service type parachutes had been perfected which were strong enough to stand any strain the weight of a man's body fall through the air could place on them, no matter how many thousand feet he fell before releasing the parachute from its pack, and today, 15 years after Capt. Berry made the first jump from an airplane, every army and air mail pilot is required to wear a parachute.

The test flight over we lashed a five gallon can of gasoline on each wing and followed along the Gulf of Mexico to Pascagoula, Mississippi. There was a small crack half way down the back of the Canuck's gasoline tank and when the gas no longer oozed out through the crack we knew that the tank was half empty. By carrying the two gas cans we obtained an extra hour's cruising range, and when the main tank became low I would pour their contents into it through a short length of steam hose. In this way we expected to make longer flights between landing fields and partially make up for the time lost at Pensacola.

From Pascagoula we went to New Orleans, landing in the race track north of the city. Then to Lake Charles and from there to Rice Field at Houston, Texas. At Rice Field we installed three fuel tanks under the top wing and center section, which gave us 37 gallons extra capacity, or, in addition to the five gallon cans lashed on the wings, a cruising range of about 400 miles.

The field was covered with water and as our next stop was to be Brooks Field, which is just a few miles south of San Antonio, we only filled the wing and main tanks, leaving the five-gallon cans empty.

Too Much Load

At Brooks I obtained definite instructions to report not later than March fifteenth.

It was then the end of February but we decided to push on as far west as the intervening time would allow. Then I would return by rail and Klink would continue alone.

We filled all of our tanks and after running along the ground for half a mile, stalled into the air; but after three circles of Brooks Field were completed and the plane was less than 50 feet high we landed and left one of the cans. Klink held the other in his lap in the rear cockpit.

We had no more trouble in attaining several hundred feet of altitude with the lessened load and greatly lessened resistance, which counted for much more than the weight of the gasoline, but an hour later, when the elevation of the ground below us increased as the mountains were approached, we were again just skimming the mesquite and cactus. At last it was necessary for Klink to heave his gas can over the side and for me to turn the ship down a ravine to keep from striking the ground. It was disappointing enough to leave the first can at Brooks Field but I do not believe Klink will ever forget the sight of the second as it burst on the ground below us.

Some time later we came to the West Nueces river and, mistaking it for the Rio Grande, turned north. We had been cutting across country, but had hardly flown long enough to have reached the Rio Grande. The Rio Grande was the only river, according to my map, with a railroad running along the northeast bank. We followed the West Nueces to Camp Wood, where the rails ended. By that time I knew that the map was in error and we were on the wrong course, but as there was insufficient fuel remaining to warrant our cutting across the mountains to the west, we landed in a small sheep pasture near Barksdale. This pasture was not large enough for us both to take off together, so I flew the ship over to Camp Wood alone and landed in the town square. With the wind blowing from the right direction, and by taking off under two telephone lines and over one road, the square afforded a long enough runway, provided the wind was blowing from the proper direction.

'MOTH' REVEALED AS QUEEN OF GEM THIEVES

GIRL SCOUTS LEARN -:- MODERN -:- HOUSEKEEPING METHODS

HELEN NUNGESSER JUNE WATSON

These Girl Scouts are worrying over details of housekeeping. While one marvels at the amount of dust accumulated on library books, the other tries to stretch a $25 salary into a $27.50 budget. The girls enjoy this housekeeping because they are only playing at it. Lectures on home making are given in Utility Hall in the basement of the Philadelphia Company's building, where a completely furnished house is utilized for demonstrations.

AMY THOMSSEN RUTH McCLOSKEY

Girl Scouts are taught that a meal tastes much better when tastefully arranged and served, and this intimate scene shows with what pleasing design the housewives of tomorrow are trained in the art of decoration. Interior decorating, choosing home sites and planning the house, heating systems and wall finishes are some of the subjects the Girl Scouts are lectured to at the Saturday morning meetings.

VIRGINIA KERNS MARY E. JONES

What delight these scouts are having in the modern and completely furnished kitchen, where every Saturday they attend lectures on home making. There are seven lectures in the course for the Girl Scouts and they will be awarded emblems of crossed keys for high scores in reports on the lectures.

GIRL HURT SERIOUSLY WHEN BITTEN BY DOG

Attacked by a large dog in Ridge avenue near Galveston avenue last night, June Boles, 7, 837 Tobin street, North Side, was bitten on the face, arms and head and seriously hurt. She was removed to the Allegheny General Hospital. The dog is said to be owned by Mrs. O. W. Gughers, 850 Ridge avenue, whose home the girl was passing at the time.

REVEAL "MOTH" AS GEM THIEF QUEEN

By Universal Service.

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—Betty Chambers, whose mysterious death by strangling sent authorities on a man hunt in the underworld of Cleveland and Chicago, confessed her share in the $200,000 jewel robbery of the Alexander Swirsky firm in Cleveland, it was learned here today.

She told her story of the robbery in full, just a few days before she was found in her apartment here, strangled to death with a lamp cord, after her mouth and nostrils had been sealed with several yards of adhesive tape.

The information that included her reputed confession, came from a confidant whose obligation to secrecy was broken by Betty's violent death.

HUNT CHAMBERS

On the strength of it authorities today raided five places in Chicago in search of Gordon Chambers, said to have posed as the slain girl's husband, and Joseph Miller, a gangster-racketeer.

One of the places called on was the home of Chambers' mother here. The raids were under the direction of Deputy Police Commissioner Mooney, who has lost patience with attorneys for both men, who have promised to produce their clients.

Betty's story also revealed a number of jewel robberies credited to the gang led by Chambers and Miller, running, in substance, about as follows

"Of course, you understand, this Cleveland robbery was not the first. I had participated in others. I had acted as a lure, lookout, or scout for the biggest jewelry robbery gangs in the United States, in some of their biggest crimes.

"It had always been on a strictly business basis, however, until I met Gordon Chambers, that was where I made my mistake, getting sentimental.

"BRAINS" OF GANG

"Well, I was the brains of the Cleveland robbery. I planned it and set Gordy and the other man in for it. Three times I visited the store. Making my plans and appraising the stock. I posed as the wife of a jeweler in a small town in Ohio seeking a Christmas stock of diamonds. The first time I went there I decided the stock wasn't worth taking. I told the owner it wasn't good. He said he would have a better stock next week.

"I returned then and found it was better, but I did not think it was good enough. He suggested I return later. The third time I found a New York diamond salesman there and figured his stock and the firm's would make the robbery worth while.

"So I signaled to Chambers and the other fellow and they came in and the three of us held up the store.

"We got diamonds worth $200,000, but when we sold them, through fences, of course, we couldn't get their full value—only $17,000 each.

GAMBLED AWAY LOOT

"Gordy and I came to Chicago and within three weeks he had lost all his share and was begging for mine. He got most of it.

"But I wasn't a complete fool. I held out $25,000 worth of diamonds, he didn't know I got them. He doesn't know it now. And he never will.

"I gave Gordy a diamond worth $3,000 for Christmas," she added to her confidant, "and he gave it to Marion."

Marion, according to authorities, is Marion Kirk, one time chum of the slain girl, and later a rival for Chambers' affections. It was this rivalry which led to an alleged attempt on the part of Betty, "the white diamond" of the half world, to shoot Marion. The shot missed, however.

Marion's name came back into the slaying, when neighbors heard a man call out in Betty's apartment, about the time she was strangled, "here, Marion, hold this."

The search for Marion is still under full swing.

Gets Dress By Plane

DOROTHY STONE

Pretty Dorothy Stone, starring in a musical play in Chicago, received a Paris gown from Mildred Johnson, delivery girl for the Air Express Department of the government.

"I wanted to have it for lunch today and it didn't get into New York from Europe until 6 p. m. yesterday, so, of course, it was silly to hope that I could get it in time," said Miss Stone. "And then the importer got the bright idea of sending it by air express."

Miss Stone wore the new gown at lunch.

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by Havey J. Boyle

THE old joke about the street car conductor who took a trolley ride on his day off is a shrewd observation which stands up under scrutiny of various lines. It was, for instance, a common practice before prohibition came, for bartenders on their night off to spend their money and time in another saloon.

At the present time habitues of night clubs observe that sprinkled through the audience are quite a few entertainers enjoying a rest or having completed their night's work drift around to hear some music and watch some dancing.

Newspapermen seldom miss a chance to stop in at the office whether they are on duty or not.

There is a well-known chef in town who enjoys his day off by cooking a meal at home.

JUST the other night on our way home we stopped in the office at midnight. It was the night of the Gray-Snyder execution. We stayed until 8 o'clock in the morning, drifting from the editorial room to the composing room. That was a story that cast a pall over everyone having anything to do with it. One or two of the boys who had to handle the story assumed a hard-boiled attitude, but they didn't fool anyone.

The story was received just a few moments after the execution and this had the effect of bringing close to the scene those who read the copy as nervous-fingered New York reporters clicked off the harrowing details. The hush of the streets, the eerie atmosphere peculiar to the quiet hours of early morn, and the grim contents of the story cast a black spell over everyone handy. There weren't many enthusiasts for capital punishment among the boys who were so close to that story.

HE WAS a cleanly-attired man. Some place in his happier history, no doubt, there were days of sufficient money. He still managed to have a clean shirt and although his suit was shiny it looked tidy. He walked into a cheap restaurant with as much composure as he could muster. Hunger had reinforced a determination.

I'LL PAY FOR HIS EATS!

"Mister," he said to the man at the counter, "I'm awful hungry and I don't have a cent. Could I wash dishes or your windows for a cup of coffee?" Another customer, overhearing this, said to the counterman: "Give him all he wants, I'll pay for it." The hungry one looked at his friend and tried to smile, although his eyes watered in spite of himself. "It's the first time I ever did this," he said, "but tonight I was just a little desperate."

THE Royal Order of Poison Shooters, a Pittsburgh organization, held its first affair recently. The sinister name need not bother the police as it is simply an ironic title for a boosters' club. Some of the city's leading politicians are members.

ONE of the night haunts of the younger set is a well-known restaurant downtown which keeps open all night. Boys and girls coming from parties and dances stop in for coffee and bacon and eggs. Now and then a young sheik appears to have a slight package with him, meaning a bun, but for the most part they are innocent kids who get a thrill out of being up late at night.

A large percentage of the girls drag out a cigaret, but a small percentage, only, seem to enjoy it. Smoking to a great many girls and women is one of the ordeals.

STILL, Pittsburgh is a little behind the times in this smoking business. In New York the girls at the theaters go out between acts to smoke in the lobby with the men. The Pittsburgh girls haven't reached this point yet, although it will likely come later on.

They have advanced to the place now where they smoke in roadsters. The fire marshal ought to look into this latter practice. Sooner or later that raccoon coat and derby beside the girls in the roadsters are going to catch fire.

Lily and Pat Stay at Jetterson's While Hunting a House

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

LILLY LEXINGTON, spoiled daughter of the CYRUS LEXINGTONS, is engaged to marry STALEY DRUMMOND, a rich bachelor much older than herself. She is fond of him, but realizes she does not really love him the day after she accepts him, when she becomes instantly and violently infatuated with a taxicab driver whom she sees down town when she goes to meet her chum, SUE CAIN. Forgetting all about Sue, she jumps into his cab and he drives her home. She learns that his name is PAT FRANCE and that he owns his own cab in a company headed by his friend, ROY JETTERSON. He tells her that he is going to sell it to finance a piston ring that he has invented, and he and his cab vanish from the streets. Lily misses him terribly, and decides she cares too much for him to marry Staley Drummond. But Mrs. Lexington announces the engagement, and the date of the wedding is set for June tenth. Then, on May tenth, Mrs. Lexington hires a new chauffeur, and it is Pat France. Lily tells her mother how much she cares for Pat, and Mrs. Lexington humiliates him so that he leaves the house. Lily leaves with him, and the next day she marries him. Lily asked to clerk in the Frances' grocery, decides to leave Pat. They make up and she tries to make the best of her position. Lily tries to get her clothes from home. She is invited to a party at the Jetterson's home and sees Elizabeth Ertz. One night Lily and Mrs. France quarrel when Lily lets some biscuits, that she was supposed to be watching, burn up in the oven. She decides to leave the house, and goes to the garage to tell Pat so.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"I'M NOT Elizabeth Ertz, darling," she said, and a note of bitterness crept into her voice. "I'm myself, as I've told you before, and I'm going to keep on being myself. I'm not going to try to be a goody-goody—so if you don't like me the way I am, you'd better say so right now and we'll part. I could do it right now, without half trying!"

Her voice shook toward the end of her little speech, and Pat saw that her nerves were on edge, probably because of the scene she had just been through with his mother.

And he had the good sense not to argue with her—not to question her, then. Instead he wiped his hands on a clean handkerchief that he took from his pocket, and then put his arms around her and kissed her.

"Well, I'm sorry you fussed with my mother," he said, his lips against the nape of her neck where the bright hair rose from it. "But—right or wrong—you're my wife, and what you say goes, Kid. Where will we go? To a hotel?"

Lily hadn't stopped to think about that.

"I suppose so," she said dully and wearily. "The bags are packed. You can go and get them while I wait here. . . . I'm not going back to the house where your mother is. And don't you dare to say you're sorry I fussed with her. She fussed with me, just because I happened to let some biscuits burn in the oven!

"I've taken everything from her since I've lived with her," she went on. "Tonight she even had the cheek to tell me that if you'd had any sense you'd have married that Ertz female! She said I'll never make a decent wife for you!"

She was red with indignation as she watched him get out of his blue jumper and into his coat. "Your whole family is certainly sold on the Ertz," she said. "Your sister Sarah has invited her to spend a day or two at her house. . . . I didn't say anything about it today when I heard about it, but it surely looks funny for all of them to be so friendly with her now that you're married to me."

Pat did not answer. He was going through his pockets and finally he brought forth a small handful of silver. "Ninety-four cents," he said with his boyish smile, counting it. "That's not going to take us very far, is it?"

"You can borrow some from Roy," Lily answered easily. "Get plenty from him, and we'll have a good dinner somewhere and celebrate our freedom! Gosh, I'm glad to get out of your mother's house, let me tell you!"

In the front office they could hear Roy whistling "Mandalay" as he closed his desk and locked it.

"I hate to ask him for a wad of money," Pat said. "You see, today we made the last of our plans for the machine shop where we're going to make the piston ring, and he put a lot more money into it than I did—"

As he stopped talking and looked at her in a troubled way, Roy came across the garage and poked his head around the corner of the door.

"Good night, Newlyweds!" he smiled broadly at them. "What are you doing? Having your first family battle? I'll be referee."

Lily gave a sharp little laugh. "You can be something better than that. You can be our banker. We need some money," she said. She could see Pat shaking his head at her, but she pretended not to see him.

"Pat's mother has practically turned me out of the house," she told him, taking liberties with the truth as she often did. "And we'll have to go to a hotel for the night, until me look up some kind of furnished flat or other tomorrow—"

"Oh, no, you don't have to do anything of the kind! You can come right over to our house," Roy broke in, in his hearty, good-natured voice. "Sadye will be tickled to death to put you up, and keep you as long as you want to stay. Where's your baggage?"

Lily's heart sank. She had been thinking with anticipation of a night in a luxurious hotel room down town—dinner in a big, brightly-lighted dining room—breakfast in bed the next morning.

Until that moment she did not realize how tired she was of the kind of life she had been leading for the past two weeks in Pat's mother's house. But she realized it now. . . . She was sick and tired of the little room under the eaves, the suppers of corned beef or pot-roast or baked hash, the sound of Florence's high-pitched voice as she talked to one of her "patooties" over the telephone in the lower hall.

"Our baggage is at Pat's house, Roy," she said shortly, and when he had offered to get it and vanished into the darkness outside the garage, she burst into angry tears.

"What's the matter now?" Pat asked, coming to her and holding her close to him. "Everything's all straightened up, isn't it? We're going to Roy's house, and tomorrow we'll find a little home of our own. There's nothing to cry about now, is there, honey?"

His unhappy bride nodded her head, and the top of her little hat scraped against his chin. "O-o-ooh, I'm so unhappy," she wailed. "I'm so sick of being poor and not having a place to call my own. Oh, why did I do this, Pat? Why did I marry you? I love you, but I don't think I can stand this horrible life we're leading! No f-f-fun! No nothing!"

Man-like, Pat was silent. And, after all, what was there to say? What is there for any man to say when the wife of his bosom tells him that he has failed to give her her heart's desire, and that therefore she wishes from the bottom of her unsatisfied heart that she never had married him?

"I knew it would come to this," he thought. "I was sure of it." And his own heart was like a lump of lead under his cheap blue cotton shirt, as he patted her shoulders and laid his cheek against Lily's wet one.

They spent two nights in Roy Jetterson's house, and they were much happier than Lily had expected they would be.

Sadye was one of those comfortable women who know how to make other people comfortable. Her beds were soft and her linen was fresh and scented with lavendar. Her meals were always on time and she certainly knew how to cook. There were clean napkins on the table for every meal, and in the morning she brought Lily a dainty little breakfast tray along with the morning paper.

And Lily lay against her pillows, reading advertisements for furnished flats aloud to her. They marked the ones that looked promising, and after lunch they put Sadye's babies into her little automobile and went to look them up.

On Friday morning Lily found the place she had been looking for.

It seemed almost too perfect to be true — three well-furnished, sunny rooms in an apartment on Devonshire street, within walking distance of the garage and the machine shop where the piston ring was to be turned out. . . . And the rent was only $40 a month.

"Of course we'll have to get a lot of things for it," Lily said to Pat on Friday night when they arrived there, bag and baggage. "We need a lamp for my dressing table, and a bookcase and some books, and some ferns for the window sills of the living room—"

Pat stopped her. "Wait a minute!" he said, laughing. "We may need 'em, but if we get them we'll get them one at a time. We aren't going into debt, Mrs. France, for a lot of furniture. The next year nothing really matters to us but putting every nickel we can beg, borrow or steal into that business of Roy's and mine."

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

By Adele Garrison

Eleanor Lincoln Gives a Startling Exhibition of Violent Emotion.

I WAS curious to see what Eleanor Lincoln's behavior would be upon her return to us from the car to which she just had led the wolfhound, which had refused to obey anyone else save her. The whole episode had been so bizarre that it did not seem possible for her to leave it without explanation of some sort.

But to my surprise she vouchsafed nothing save a comment upon the dog as she came up to us and accepted Noel's aid in climbing into the car.

"That's the most wonderful animal," she said. "I do wish that curmudgeon of a man would let me have him. He doesn't know the first thing about dogs. Anybody can see that, and it's a crime for a dog to be controlled by anyone who doesn't understand him. There's no more sensitive soul in the world than that of a thoroughbred dog. Dear Mrs. Graham, if he does find someone to introduce him to you, won't you try to persuade him to let me have the dog until his owner returns?"

I was so taken back by her question that for a second I had no words with which to answer her. Was it possible that she did not realize I had guessed her previous acquaintance with young Jackson and her ownership of Fedor? Then I pulled myself together, realizing that I must take her cue, no matter how preposterous it was. I could hardly accuse her of deliberate falsehood and deception, no matter how strongly I believed her to be guilty of those faults.

"Do you think he will need much persuasion?" I asked evasively. "He did not appear especially enthusiastic over his task."

"That's just it," she said. "He hates the job, but he's one of those men who can't bear to be beaten by anyone. It just about killed him today for Fedor to snap at him and then let me lead him around as if he were a house cat. I only hope he won't beat the dog when he gets him alone. Oh-h!" as the image she herself had conjured up registered more vividly. "If he should, I'd—I'd kill him!"

There was sincerity in her violence, and I saw that for the minute she had forgotten herself. There was something else in her tone also—a conviction concerning the straits of the young man who called himself George Logan Jackson, which I found myself sharing. That he would beat the dog I did not credit, but that he was a man of violent temper, who could not bear to be thwarted in anything he undertook, I readily believed.

The next instant she had pulled herself together and laughed off her display of emotion.

"Please don't be frightened, Mrs. Graham," she pleaded, prettily turning to me. "I really am not as bloodthirsty as I sound. But where a dog like that one is concerned I really am not quite sane. If only that man could be persuaded to let me have him! But there's no use wishing. Let's go home. I see you have the starter fixed, Mr. Veritzen. Thank you so much. And you'll drive us home, won't you? Just wait a second. I'll come in front and sit with you. I'm crowding them back here."

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

Tuesday, January 17

Prosperity proves the fortunate, adversity the great.—PLINY.

THE most propitious auguries are found in this day's lunar as well as mutual aspects. It is a time for forging ahead, as many unusual openings of an unexpected suddenness will materialize. It is a moment of high adventure in many fields of endeavor, with opportunities present and energies under fine stimulus.

A word of warning against subtlety or fraud with "rings" or trusts is sufficient.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a most prosperous and progressive year, with many opportunities and the quickened energy and initiative to take advantage of these sudden offerings. Chance and money from unexpected sources, but be alert as to fraud and schemes.

A child born on this day should have excellent equipment for success, prosperity and high position in life. It may have an adventurous and conspicuous career, possibly in public service.

Notable Nativities: Benjamin Franklin, diplomat and inventor; Lloyd George, British ex-Prime Minister.

POWER DESIGN
IMPROVEMENTS THAT WILL AMAZE YOU

There are, in all, 16 great mechanical improvements in the New Model 10 Grand Prize Eureka. And each of them lightens some household task or contributes to convenience and cleaning effectiveness.

Most important is the greatly increased suction of Model 10—30% higher vacuum—which multiplies the thoroughness and ease with which it does its work.

But almost equally appreciated in tens of thousands of homes are other new features that make Model 10 a stronger, more durable cleaner—infinitely easier to handle—a vastly greater value than even Eureka ever offered before.

FREE TRIAL IN YOUR OWN HOME
Small Down Payment — Balance Easy Monthly Terms

We invite you to check and judge these features for yourself. Let us deliver a brand new Model 10 to your home for free trial. Then if you decide to keep it, we will arrange convenient terms of payment, and a liberal allowance on your old cleaner.

NEW MODELS TO BREAK RECORDS AT AUTO SHOW

Pittsburgh's annual automobile show, which opens in Motor Square Garden at 7:30 o'clock Saturday night, will reveal the most interesting display of automobiles ever assembled.

In this 1928 display there will be seen more new models than ever before exhibited together at the same time, and the display will have further interest in the many refinements originated by the automotive engineers within the last year.

Augmenting the appeal of the new cars will be Graham McNamee, favorite of radio announcers, who will come to this city Saturday to open the annual show and to participate in the radio broadcast which also will be a feature of the show. Charles Marsh will have two orchestral units to provide music for the show visitors and the radio listeners through WCAE. J. R. Pierpoint, president of the Pittsburgh Automobile Dealers' Association, under whose auspices the show is being staged, will deliver the opening night address.

The exhibit of motor cars, of which there will be 34 lines, will crowd the entire first floor and a section of the sub-floor. The balance of the big East Liberty structure will be devoted to displays by 21 accessory and shop equipment concerns, an educational show by the East Liberty Y. M. C. A., and booths of the Automobile Club of Pittsburgh and the Pittsburgh Motor Club.

SPANISH WAR VETS MEET

The United Spanish War Veterans of Western Pennsylvania held their first reunion yesterday in the Harris Theater, 30 years after the declaration of the war in which they fought. The speakers were Department Commander L. F. Crawford, of Tyrone, Pa.; Mrs. Anna B. Armstrong, state officer of the Ladies' Auxiliary, and Past Commander Frank Graham.

The speakers were introduced by Gilbert C. Cloonan, chairman of the reunion committee. He was assisted in arranging the reunion by J. Clark Mansfield, D. O. Ihmsen, W. W. Ramsey, John W. Green, A. H. Sunderman, Thomas A. Coleman, George Chappel, Andrew W. Oberley, Henry W. Eale, George Dawson and Charles F. Armstrong.

ROUT ROBBERS; RECOVER LOOT

An automobile containing stolen merchandise valued at several hundred dollars was confiscated by police early today when a patrolman from the Frankstown avenue station interrupted two men at work removing goods from the window of the Huber Drug company, 610 Paulson avenue. The men escaped.

The robbers had broken the window and placed a lot of merchandise in the machine when discovered. They ran into Paulson avenue and eluded the officer. The machine was taken to the police station.

3 BANDITS ROB GAS STATION

The filling station of the Amoco Gas company, Boulevard of the Allies, near Gist street, was held up early today by three white men who escaped with $28. The three robbers drove up in an automobile and while an attendant was filling their order, one of the trio entered the office and looted the cash register. The other two drew guns and forced the attendant to stay out of the office while their companion was after the money.

Restful Ease after Coughing

"The result of using Foley's Honey and Tar for a dreadful cough, daytime and at night, was a restful one for me," says Mrs. Anne Davison, Long Beach, Calif. The hard cough that follows bronchitis and "flu" is weakening and when it "hangs on" very debilitating. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound puts a healing, soothing coating on a rough, inflamed throat, and immediately eases the irritation that causes the hard coughs. Dependable. Ask for it. Why a "Pacifier" Is Bad for the Baby

A CUSTOM which must be regarded as barbaric is that wicked one of giving the baby a "pacifier." What is a "pacifier?"

Any device intended to put in the baby's mouth to occupy its time and attention is a pacifier. It may be a lump of sugar tied up in a rag. It may be a lump of sugar or a piece of taffy on a stick. Perhaps the most common form is a rubber nipple.

DR. COPELAND

One of the things a baby should be taught if possible, is to forget it has a mouth. Now of course this is an impossibility. The center of gravity of a child's life appears to be right in the center of its open mouth. Everything is attracted to this yawning chasm, from the emery ball to the paring knife. If there is nothing else for the baby to put in its mouth in goes its thumb or its big toe.

Thumb-sucking is one of the common faults of little babies. One of the reasons why a mother resorts to the pacifier is to engage the little mouth with this instrument instead of using the thumb for the same purpose.

I object to the use of a pacifier. The thing falls on the floor, collecting a lot of dirt if not a multitude of germs. Particular as the mother is about giving the infant pure milk, she will hunt around the bottom of the cab to find the baby's pacifier. This is thrust into the baby's mouth without regard to consequences. To say the least, the use of a pacifier is a filthy practice.

A tiny baby acquires a habit much quicker than an adult does. If you have started on the use of a pacifier it will be extremely difficult to overcome the habit. What I am saying today is likely to be of more use to babies yet unborn than to those who have had thrust upon them this unhealthful habit.

If the mother will think of this thing and call to mind how easily undesirable things are carried to to the baby's mouth by the pacifier, I'm sure she will agree with me there should be no such thing in the world.

There is another side of the question. After a while the child is to cut teeth. If this process is to be made as painless as possible the gums must be left in a soft condition. The more the child chews on a rubber nipple, an ivory ring or other similar device, the harder will the gums become. Then when it comes time for the teeth to appear it will be difficult for them to cut the hardened tissue.

For every reason then, do not use a pacifier. It is not a good thing for the baby.

Answers to Health Queries

M. E. H. Q.—What foods should a lady over 70 eat?

2.—What causes a red and shiny nose?

3.—How can a person reduce who is 20 pounds overweight?

A.—She should live on dairy foods, vegetables and raw fruits.

2.—This is probably due to poor circulation, indigestion and constipation. Sometimes it is associated with stoppage of the nose from catarrh. For further information send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

3.—Weight reduction is merely a matter of self-control as regards the diet. Exercise is very essential. For details send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

HARD WATER PLUS MELO MAKES SOFT WATER

Hard water won't clean them

HARD water can't do much with greasy hands. Of course, you use lots of soap. You try to get a thick lather. But the water is too hard; it combines with the soap and forms a scum. How can you expect to clean greasy hands in that water?

There is one way. Use Melo. Sprinkle a little in the basin. The water is soft now. Just as soft as rain water. Soft water and soap and lots of lather; grease won't stay long on your hands. Get a can of Melo at your grocer's today.

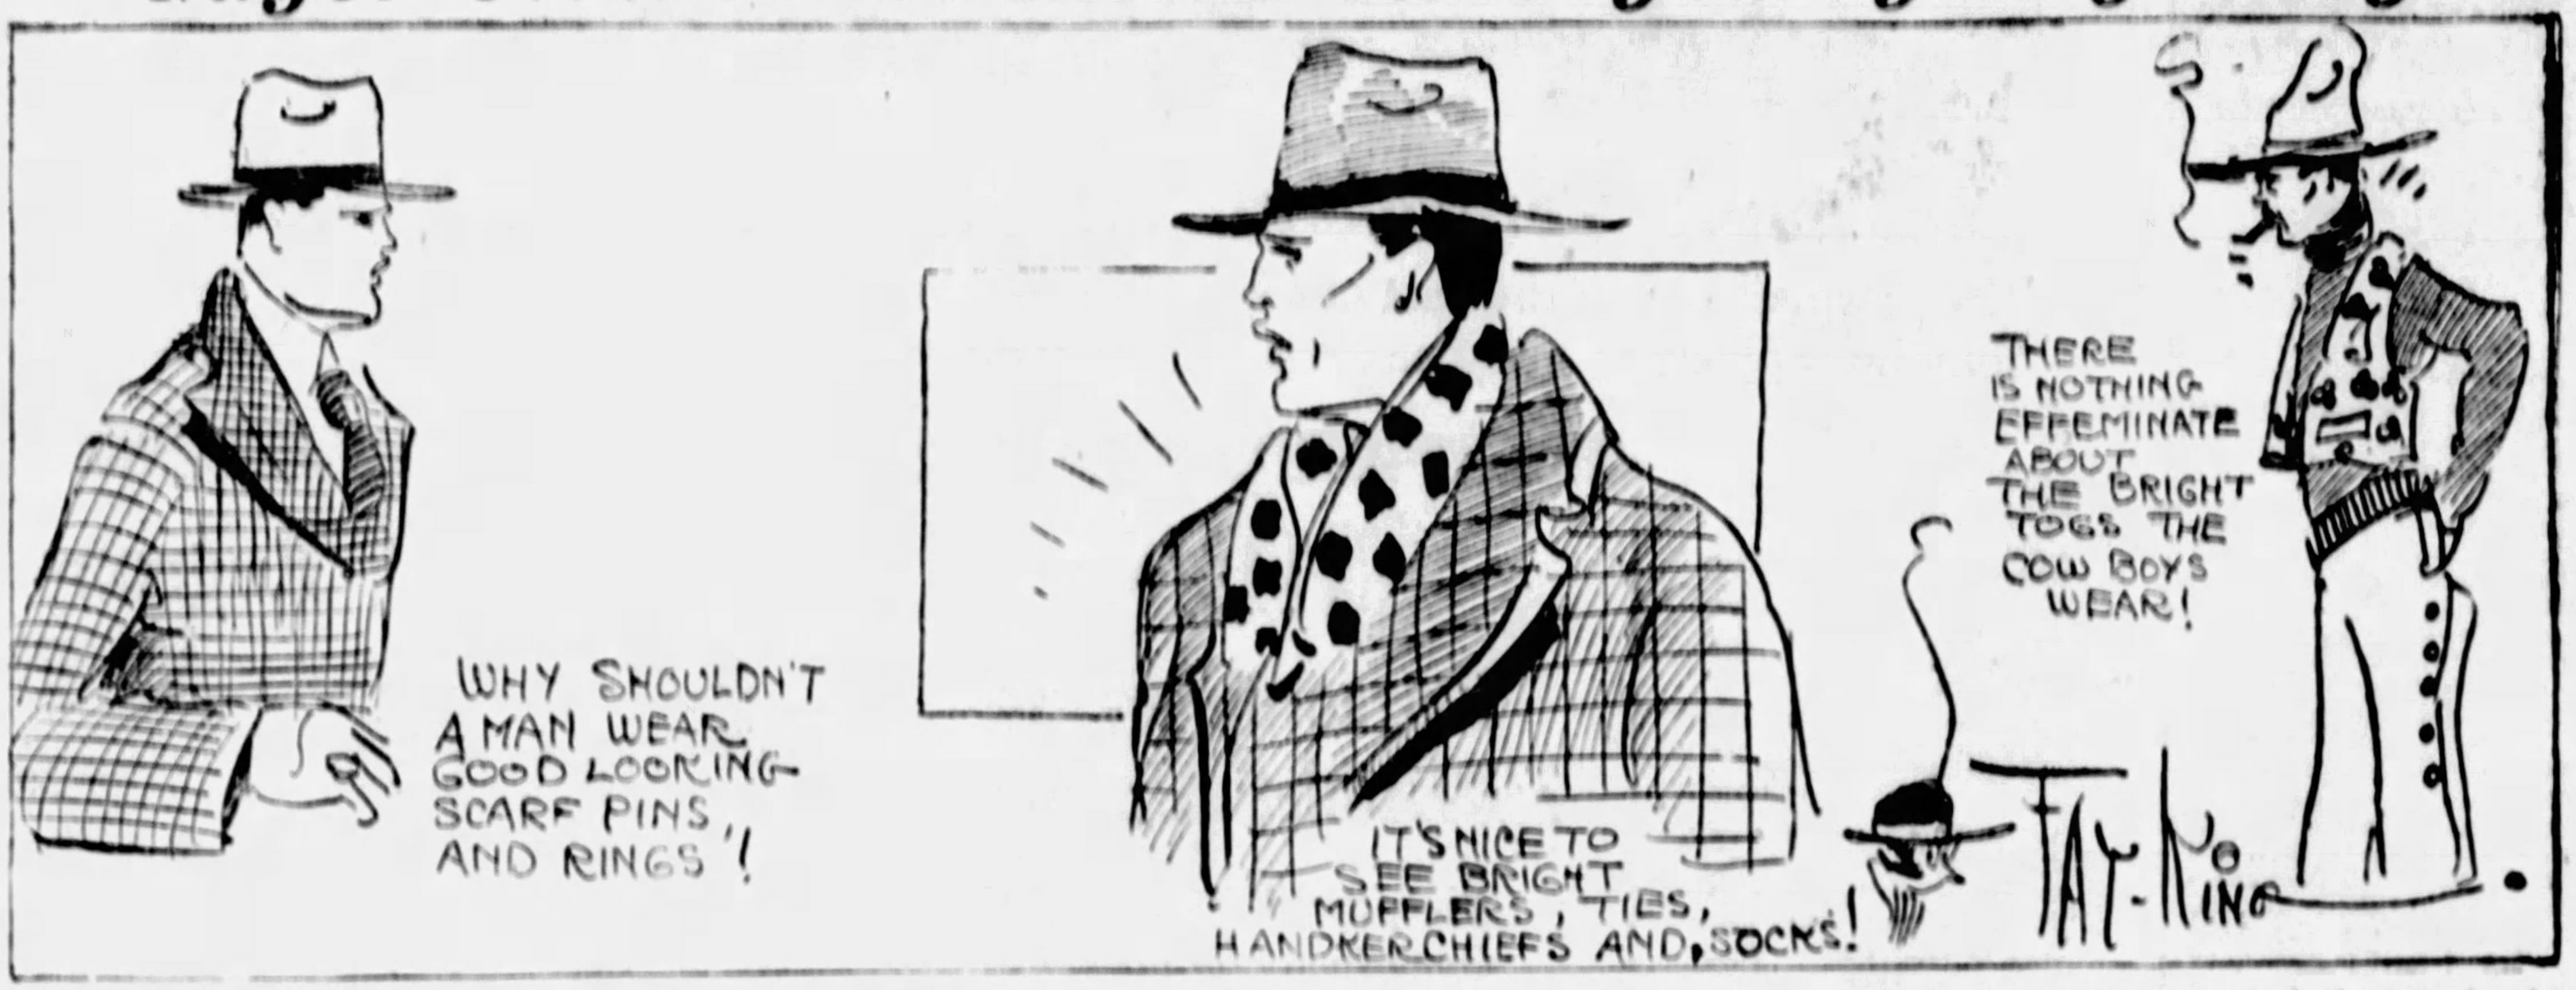
Gayer Clothes for Men Now Urged by Fay King



WHY SHOULDN'T A MAN WEAR GOOD LOOKING SCARF PINS, AND RINGS'!
IT'S NICE TO SEE BRIGHT MUFFLERS, TIES, HANDKERCHIEFS AND, SOCKS!
THERE IS NOTHING EFFEMINATE ABOUT THE BRIGHT TOGS THE COW BOYS WEAR!
FAY-KING

By FAY KING

IT DOES my heart good to see men busting out in a few bright colors!

I'm sick of seeing them going around like a lot of professional mourners, scared to death to put on a gay pair of socks, a jazzy tie, or a bit of jewelry for fear they'll look like Sissies!

Was there anything sissified about the pirates and bandits of old who wore all the colors of the rainbow.

I've sat in a Cheyenne hotel talking to the young and old chiefs of the Indian tribes. They had as much he-man dignity and masculine assurance in all their bright blue beads and white and pink features as any gang of lumberjacks I ever saw.

An admiral or a sea captain is not effeminate dolled up in his gold braid and brass buttons!

A husky doorman in a plum-colored coat and silver braid is none the less the strong-armed bouncer that he is!

Red bandanna handkerchiefs and bright blue overalls have always been evident among men who are not tea hounds by any means, but who live by the sweat of their brows digging in the street or chopping down tall timber.

Great deeds were done by great men in the days when lace and ruffles and long curled wigs were worn.

Many a man dresses his wife up like Cleopatra and hangs a diamond mine around her neck because he loves bright colors and jewelry. But he is scared to wear a gold ring and red tie!

Prizefighters, opera singers and baseball players and riveters now wear wrist watches because they are sensible.

I'd like to see bank presidents with courage enough to stick a rose in their hat like a truck driver sometimes does. It would make the world a lot cheerier looking.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

THESE days, it's a happy father who can hand his daughter over to a strong, sweet young man who will break her of her wild ways and make a WOMAN of her!

It's LOVE, when you decide that the bit it will make to call her Long Distance is far more important than the dent it will make in your bill-fold.

HELEN ROWLAND

Divorce is the doubtful deliverance which affords a woman the chance to listen to a lot of men's applesauce instead of to one man's alibis.

The flapper's notion of an ideal Child Labor Amendment is a humane law which will prevent Mother from making her help with the dishes.

No doubt even Solomon had his remorseful moments when he wished that he had been less susceptible and had stopped with his first hundred wives.

One of the greatest problems of married life is what to do with your moonlight evenings. Ho-hum!

Some men seem to think that blowing the horn will clear up the traffic jam, and that roaring around the house will make the furnace work and bring up the children properly.

Style is one thing that will give a woman "joy, forever"—even after she has ceased to be "a thing of beauty."

What's the Answer?

1. What was the title of the rulers of the Venetian Republic?
2. What two presidents of the United States have been awarded the Nobel Peace Prize?
3. Why did Joshua command the sun to stand still in the heavens?
4. What is the length of an Olympic marathon?
5. What famous painter and sculptor is also known for his sonnets?
6. What is the next line after: "The Assyrian came down like the wolf on the fold?" From what poem by what author are they taken?
7. Who were the Myrmidons?
8. Who said: "We have met the enemy and they are ours?"
9. For what words do the initials "e. g." stand?
10. What Spanish city and what Syrian city were famous for the quality of the steel weapons manufactured?

The answers to these questions may be found in tomorrow's paper.

Here are the answers to Saturday's questions.

1. Virginia Dare, born August 18, 1587, at Roanoke Island, North Carolina, was the first child of English parents born in what is now the United States.
2. The Dartmoor is in Southwestern England (between Exeter and Plymouth).
3. The Bibliotheque Nationale in Paris (founded in 1367) contains more volumes than any other single library.
4. In criticism, verisimilitude means "truthfulness to life."
5. Lytton Strachey wrote the best known biography of Queen Victoria.
6. In England, the expression "going to the country" means a general election.
7. The saying "Let the shoemaker stick to his last" originated in the legends of Greece. A shoemaker, discovering an error in the way in which the sculptor Appelles had carved a shoe-latchet in one of his statues, criticised it and was thanked by Appelles. Then the shoemaker arrogantly criticised the legs of the statue. Appelles said to him "Stick to your last."
8. Aspasia was a stimulating companion to Pericles of Greece.
9. The "Eisener Jungfrau," a cleverly conceived instrument of torture of the middle ages, is preserved in Nuremberg.
10. The Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes is in Alaska.

FOR THE LOVELORN

Evangeline

DEAR MISS GALE:

This is the first time I have ever had cause to come to you for advice. I am a high school girl 16 years old and I like a boy who is also going to this school. There is a girl who is my chum and she also likes this fellow. My chum has talent and is rather popular, while I have no talent and am just an every-day girl. My chum's one fault is that when she meets a boy and likes him she will do anything in her power to make him like her, and sometimes makes a fool of herself. I cannot do this. This fellow has been out several times with this chum of mine. She says that he likes her. Miss Gale, how can I keep my jealousy down and act as if he mattered nothing to me. Should I run after him like she does and make him see that I like him? He respects me and has shown by his attitude that he considers me a nice girl, but I don't think he knows I like him sentimentally. How can I draw his attention to me? Do you think a boy likes a girl who is always throwing bright remarks? Thanking you for your time and space.

EVANGELINE.

Few men like the girls who run after them, my dear, so just keep on acting as you are. He will see the difference between you and this other girl and respect and like you more.

Mary Lee

DEAR MISS GALE:

Should a girl ask a fellow to call again soon? How should a girl tell a fellow that she has had a nice time? Do you think it is all right to park along the road for a while? I do not mean to pet but to talk. Miss Gale, I lack popularity in our town. I haven't even a girl friend here. When I go away I have many friends. Could you tell me how to make friends? Some folks tell me that I "high-hat" them, but I really never meant to. How can I overcome this?

MARY LEE.

Yes, ask the boy to call again. Just tell him that you have enjoyed the evening very much. No, I do not approve of parking along the road, my dear. It doesn't look well. Make a sincere effort to be more friendly, and you will have more friends. That is the real secret of popularity.

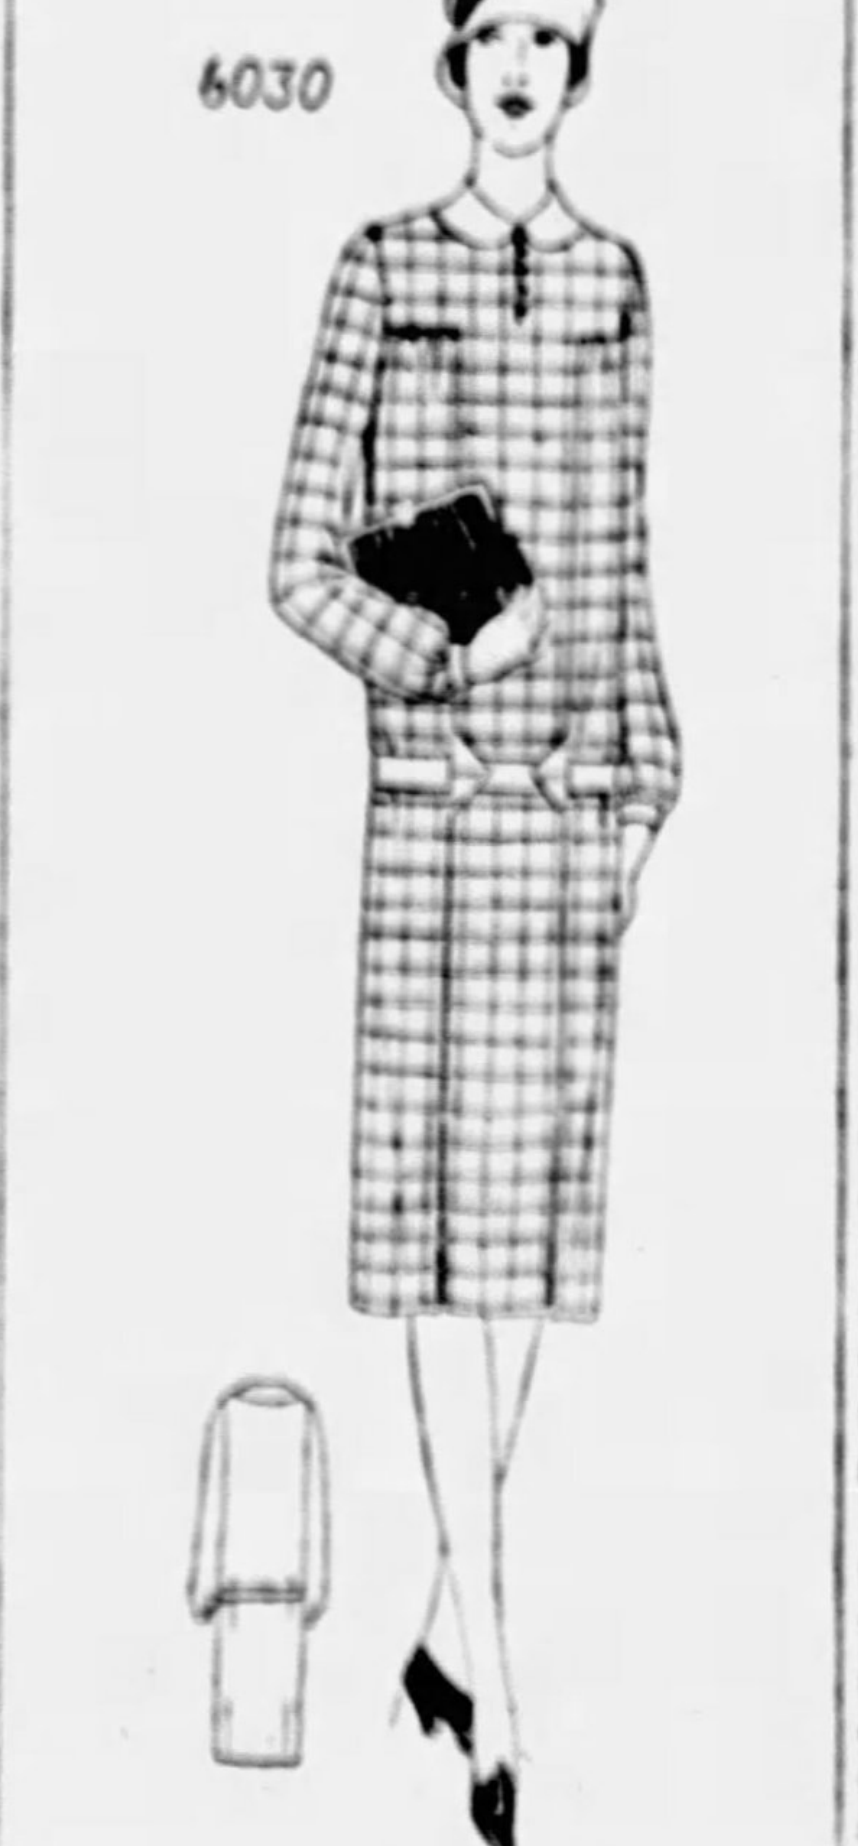
Heels Higher

Walking on stilts has always been an amusing play in childhood, but it has become the smartly-shod woman's serious problem since the heels of evening slippers have become higher and higher. The latest models are simply slender stilts, many of which are ornately stone-studded. Jeweled heels are the smartest footnote of the prevailing mode; many slippers have mother-of-pearl heels with rhinestone and enamel insets.

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern

SMART DAYTIME FROCK.



Checked or plaid taffeta would be attractive for this model. It is also good for jersey, tub silk or linen.

The pattern is cut in six sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. A 38-inch size will require 3⅝ yards of 40-inch material, together with ⅜ yard of contrasting material for facing on collar, cuffs and belt. The width of the dress at the lower edge with plaits extended is 1¾ yards.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department, The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, and emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

PAIN

Why endure pain? One or two Anti-Kamnia Tablets—pain's greatest enemy—will soothe away the most severe pain of rheumatism, headache, neuralgia, lumbago, sciatica, etc. Quickly break up colds, fever and grippe—end insomnia and nervousness. Scientific, balanced formula insures safety and certain results. Prescribed by doctors and dentists for more than 35 years. 25 millions used annually. Sold by druggists everywhere in vest-pocket size tins, 25 cents. A-K on every tablet.

ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.

Dr. Royal S. Copeland, at present United States Senator from New York and formerly Health Commissioner for the City of New York, is a national authority on public health and the record he achieved in New York at the head of the Health Department has never been equaled. It is natural that his opinion should have decisive weight.

Dr. Copeland says: "Mineral waters of the right sort are preferable to many of the cathartic compounds on the market. Their power to overcome the immediate effects of constipation is unquestioned. In their effects upon the bowel and its lining membranes, I am confident they are far less irritating. Indeed, many mineral waters possess qualities which make them soothing and healing to the tissues. Sugar coated pills are pleasant to take—that is the reason they are coated with sugar. But the fact that they are so attractive may add to their danger. They are no less habit-forming and drastic simply because they appeal to the taste. On the other hand, mineral waters contain elements which are found in the blood. Most of these substances are there in higher percentage than in the blood. For that reason they are unattractive to the blood-stream and therefore pass through the system, doing nothing else but to flush and cleanse the intestinal tract."

Pluto Water, with its mineral content, has been the dependable agent of the American people over the years in successfully battling constipation, the source of so many bodily ills. It "flushes the bowels and washes away impurities", gently, naturally and thoroughly. It neither gripes nor is habit-forming. Acts in 30 minutes to 2 hours.

Throw Heavy Burdens on the Kidneys

DOES winter find you lame, stiff and achy? Do you feel tired, drowsy—suffer nagging backache, headaches and dizzy spells? Are the kidney secretions scanty and burning in passage? Do you wonder what is wrong?

Know then that these are often signs of improper kidney action. Colds and grip create poisons in the blood that bring extra work to the kidneys. When the kidneys act sluggishly, waste impurities remain in the blood and cause many unpleasant symptoms.

Thousands have learned to rely on Doan's Pills after winter's colds and chills. Doan's, a stimulant diuretic, increase the secretion of the kidneys and thus aid in the elimination of waste impurities. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have earned a nation-wide reputation. Ask your neighbor!

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

by HARRY KECK
SPORTS EDITOR

DR. JOCK SUTHERLAND, Pitt's head football coach, is not in sympathy with the new-fangled idea of having the coaches name their own captains, a plan which Carnegie Tech probably will take up for the 1928 season at the suggestion of Advisory Coach Walter P. Steffen.

Jock Sutherland.

On Saturday night, at the annual gridiron feast of the University of Pittsburgh, the Panthers elected Alex Fox of New Castle, a guard, to lead their 1928 eleven, and so long as Coach Sutherland remains on the job at Pitt the lettermen are likely to continue to name their leaders in the traditional manner.

I ASKED Jock a few hours before the dinner got under way if there was anything to the reports that Pitt might follow in the footsteps of Notre Dame, Ohio State, Carnegie Tech and others and do away with the captaincy elections, supplanting the system with the naming of a field leader by the coach before each game or for the season or even appointing two captains, one to lead the team on offense and the other on defense.

Jock thought a few moments and then replied in the negative.

"No," he said, "I am satisfied with the manner in which we always have determined our captain. Of the new plans, the idea of having offensive and defensive captains, I think, is the best. But I do not see why we should make any change whatever just now."

"OF course," Jock elaborated, "other institutions may have problems that we do not face and which make it necessary for them to deprive the players of their prerogative in naming the captain. However, I have been very fortunate all the time in the captains that the players have chosen for me. I've never regretted any of the choices. At Lafayette, I had an ideal leader in Frank Schwab, and I've been blessed with good leaders at Pitt. Gibby Welch, who has just passed out, was an able leader and so were his predecessors. And I am confident any of the eligibles for the cap-

TEX TELLS PLANS FOR TITLE BOUT

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Revising his heavyweight championship slate, Tex Rickard today revealed his intention of rematching Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey for a 15-round match at the Yankee Stadium in June or July, the winner to defend the title in September against one of five contenders.

These five are Johnny Risko, Paulino Uzcudun, Jack Delaney, Jack Sharkey and Tom Heeney.

In his program for two title bouts, Rickard reviously had planned to hold the Dempsey-Tunney match for a grand climax. He now feels, however, that Dempsey is a logical choice for the first bout.

The promoter has definitely decided on the Yankee Stadium as a site for the first bout, but is

Titles Won In Ring--Mandell

ROCKFORD, Ill., Jan. 16.—(INS.)—Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion of the world, flashed his famous "victory smile" today when asked what he intended to do about the National Boxing Association's ultimatum that he sign for a title match within 30 days.

"That's another of those things," said Sammy. "Nobody is fighting nowadays just for the fun of it or to please the N. B. A. We fight to make money. As soon as a promoter offers me a bout on which I can make some money you'll find me ready and willing to fight."

Mandell said that boxing champions are made or unmade in the ring, not by "resolutions of the National Boxing Association."

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Boxing champions in three divisions—Mickey Walker, of the middleweights; Joe Dundee, welterweight titleholder, and Sammy Mandell, lightweight king, were ordered by the National Boxing Association to sign for defense of their titles within 30 days or suffer suspension in 25 member states.

Bobby Jones Explains Return of Gift

ATLANTA, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Bobby Jones, in an open letter to the contributors to the $50,000 fund to purchase him a home here as a tribute of the esteem and affection from friends and admirers in his native city, today explained why he announced recently in New York that he would not retain the gift.

"At the time the gift was made to me, it appealed to me as the most generous and sincere tribute which a man's friends could pay him," said the British open and American amateur national golf champion, in his letter, "and it was accepted by me in the spirit which I knew it was tendered. I knew there was nothing connected with the subscription of the fund or the use to which it was to be put, which was not entirely proper. A portion of the general public is aware of that fact, also, but it seems that another still respectable portion entertains some doubts. In other words, criticism from various sources have come to my notice and it appears to me in the light of them that not only was amateur golf in danger of serious injury wholly unjustified by the facts, but both my Atlanta friends and I were apt to be placed in an awkward position which at the same time a position in which we did not deserve a place.

"It was to avoid any chance of misunderstanding that I decided that the best thing to do was to return the home. As I remarked, when I accepted the gift, by far the most important part of it was the testimonial and tribute which my friends sought to make me. I am now in possession of that testimonial."

Bobby declared that his chief regret was that "it seemed desirable to make the announcement from New York," but even though he felt that "I owed it to my friends in Atlanta to show them the courtesy of informing them of my decision before it was made public, but when the U. S. G. A. approved your action in making the gift, and mine in receiving it, as proper, it seemed to me that the moment had arrived for a final announcement."

UP to the time that Harry Frazee uncorked the sale of Babe Ruth to New York and Broadway, John J. McGraw did not have to extend himself to any acid test to keep the National League uppermost in the baseball of the metropolis. But Ruth changed the picture; ever since he began to swing for the edification of Yankee fans the Giants have had their troubles.

AS long as McGraw was winning flags he managed to hold to the popularity; then the Giants after winning four pennants in a row, failed to finish on top, and that season saw the tide rolling back on McGraw and his brethren.

DESPITE the appearance in the lineup of Rajah Hornsby, the Giants of 1927 were a poor attraction on the home grounds. On the road the New Yorkers set a new attendance record for the league, but empty seats abounded at the Polo Grounds through most of the summer. In the imagination of New York fans Hornsby

DUKES' ELIGIBILITY CODE GETS O. K. OF W.-J.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 16.—Prompted by certain criticisms of W. & J.'s action in scheduling a football game with Duquesne University for next October, because of alleged lack of satisfactory eligibility rules at the Pittsburgh institution, including a provision that permits playing of night students and special students on varsity athletic teams, Manager William G. Theurer of the Presidents has made public the exact conditions that will govern the playing of the game here next season.

"Duquesne University," Theurer said, "has practically every accepted eligibility requirement in vogue among American colleges except the so-called one-year residence or freshman rule, and, aside from W. & J., Pitt, Carnegie Tech and West Virginia, all the colleges in the Tri-state district permit the playing of freshmen on varsity teams.

"When negotiations for the game with Duquesne were opened, we ascertained carefully just what Duquesne's eligibility requirements were. I was informed by Athletic Director John D. Holahan and other Duquesne authorities that the Pittsburgh institution was enforcing a code that was acceptable to us and Sorrel-topped kid southpaw from the Middle West, who may win a regular berth on the Pirate pitching staff. Although Fred. He won 18 and lost seven games for the Wichita club of the Western League. He has fine form on the mound and is about as big as Wilbur Cooper, but probably will be heavier than Cooper when he is fully developed.

WALTER TAUSCHER

A SIX-FOOTER

Standing out among the young pitchers on the Pittsburgh squad is Walter Tauscher, big right-hander, who pitched cleverly for Columbia of the South Atlantic League last season. A native of Illinois, Tauscher was doing a star trick for Williamsport of the New York-Pennsylvania League when purchased by Pirate scouts. That was in 1926. Along with George Peery, Tauscher made the spring training trip of 1927. He is 6 feet 1 inch in height and weighs about 185 pounds. His control is excellent.

Paulino 'Millionaire' In Own Country

PARIS, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Paulino Uzcudun has one advantage over Gene Tunney. The man who gave up woodchopping in the Basque for boxing in the land of dollars is a multi-millionaire, while the world's heavyweight champion is only a reputed millionaire. However, the reckoning for Paulino is in francs, while Gene counts his money in dollars.

Paulino has harvested nearly 4,000,000 francs in 11 months in the United States and still has most of them with him, according to well-authenticated reports received by his Parisian admirers.

Paulino is salting down his earnings, buying land near San Sebastian, on the Spanish side of the Basque country. Not long ago he went to a bank in New York with one of his friends, who acts as interpreter, and sent 1,000,000 francs to hi agent back home, ordering him to buy more acres.

The former woodchopper is a careful bookkeeper and knows the history, and, to some extent, the future destiny of every penny in his wallet. He always carries a notebook in his pocket and he has recorded his American earnings over the campaign of 11 months in which he has entered the ring nine times.

The total reaches $137,700, divided as follows: Bout with Fierro, $9,000; O'Grady, $3,000; Smith, $5,000; Delaney, $30,000; Hansen, $12,000; Heeney, $11,700; Heeney again, $14,000; Wills, $12,000; Risko, $12,000; motion picture revenue, $17,000; miscellaneous, $8,000.

Fete for Fox Planned at New Castle

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Jan. 16.—Recognizing the fact that Alex Fox, Pitt guard, in being selected as captain of the 1928 football team of the University of Pittsburgh, is reflecting honor on this city, football fans and friends of Fox in this city are planning a banquet in his honor.

The alumni of New Castle High School is sponsoring the affair. The tentative date selected for the event is next Saturday night.

It will be one of the greatest of such events ever staged here.

Panthers' Captain Popular

By JESS CARVER.

THE selection of Alex Fox as captain of the 1928 varsity football by Pitt's grid warriors at the annual banquet Saturday night is going to be a popular one, both on the campus and among the Alumni alike. In selecting Fox, Pitt returns the captaincy to the line again after a season's shift to the backfield. Since 1920, just three backs have captained Pitt teams, linemen getting the call in five of the eight years.

Fox is a good football player and is going to be a better one. He is light, weighing in the neighborhood of 175 pounds, never more and usually considerably less. Used at a regular guard position during the past strenuous campaign, he acquitted himself in the traditional Pitt way, a stonewall on the defense and a tigerish charger and tackler on the offense. He was one of the best men getting down under kicks that Pitt has boasted for quite some time.

MAY BE CENTER

The new captain may find himself in a new role when next fall rolls around. Losing both Goldberg and Cutler, centers, Coach Sutherland may find it advantageous to make a pivot man out of Alex. He will be

SOUTH SIDE FIVE OUT OF P. & O. LEAGUE

By JULIUS LEVIN

DISPLEASED over the receipt of a letter sent them by the director of the Pittsburgh and Ohio Valley League, threatening t remove them from t' circuit unless hey changed their tactics, the Goldensons, runners-up in the first half of the league race, today exercised their prerogative when they withdrew as a member of the circuit.

Feeling that they have been discriminated against by certain league authorities, the popular South Siders, admitted to be one of the best drawing cards in the league, felt this was the only course for them to follow.

With the Goldensons out of the second-half of the race, scheduled to start tonight, it will be interesting to watch how the remaining contenders in the loop take this action.

TEAM QUITS

The lea ie director today received the official withdrawal of the Goldensons as a member.

The controversy which led to the withdrawal of the Goldensons centers around an attack on a member of the Somerman club during a recent Goldenson-Somerman game at Columbus Temple. Monk Ketchell, star center of the Goldensons, is reported to have struck Sammy Klateman, Somerman forward, after the South Sider had lost a tough game.

The Felder club of Jeannette, the Doc Gordons, last year's amateur champions, the Schwartz Valley club of Munhall, Reliance Life and the Bridgeville Firemen are ready to replace the Goldensons, the league

Aquatic Marks Fall

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Three new world swimming records exist today for aquatic stars to shoot at after the sensational swimming feats turned in at the Metropolitan A. A. U. championships Saturday. Three records were broken, including Johnny Weissmuller's 100-yard backstroke mark.

All the marks were shattered during a 300-yard medley relay race, the Brooklyn Central team bettering its former world record of 3:14 1-5 with the new time of 3:12 4-5.

The relay called for backstroke, breaststroke and free style. George Kojac of the Boys' Club, national backstroke champion, swam the first 100 yards in 1 minute 2 3-5 seconds against Weissmuller's time of 1 minute 3 2-5 seconds.

NOTES of the BOXERS

WILLIE DAVIES, state flyweight champion, boxes Ernie Peters in a 10-round bout in Chicago tonight. Jackie Rodgers, Negro flyweight of the North Side, boxes Bobby Burke of Reading, Pa., at Johnstown, with Linn Jordan and Lou Paulsen meeting in the semi-final, Johnny Vivio and Phil Scello in the second bout and Evan Gustafson and Ike MacFowler in the opening battle.

Jack Delaney, resigned light-heavyweight champion, appears against Sully Montgomery in a 10-round bout at the St. Nicholas rink, New York, with Sammy Vogel boxing Tony Vaccarelli and Luis Vicentini meeting Augie Pisano in preliminaries. Paulino Uzcudun opposes Ed Keeley of Boston in a 10-rounder in Brooklyn.

Other bouts listed tonight include Harry Blitman vs. Pete Nebo, Marty Gold vs. Midget Wolgast and Billy Grime of Australia vs. Al Gordon, 10 rounds each, Philadelphia; Wilbur Cohen vs. Benny Bass, 10 rounds, Atlantic City, and Bud Taylor vs. Ignacio Fernandez, 10 rounds, Detroit.

Paris Cangy, Jimmy Dime's hard-socking lightweight, is now campaigning in the East. He defeated Willie Beetle in an eight-round semi-final to a bout between Joe Dundee, the welterweight champion, and Joe Reno at Trenton, N. J., recently, scoring two knockdowns.

Andy Tomosky of Wilmerding and Al Dundee of Mansfield, O., will box the first 10-round bout of the double windup card at McKeesport Thursday night. Teddy Welch and Cowboy Joe Cannell of Youngstown will appear in the main event. Welch plans to go to Philadelphia for a series of bouts immediately after this battle.

Joey Kaufman, the new addition to the boxing stable of Jimmy Bronson and Lew Brown, has become a consistent winner in the New York rings. He added Luis Vicentini, the South American lightweight champion, to his list of victims last week.

Reports from New York are that Jack Delaney is to meet Battling Levinsky in the Motor Square ring about the middle of next month.

was an average performer, so far as the gate was concerned.

SO the loss of Hornsby will hardly have a depressing effect on the turnstiles at the Polo Grounds. Perhaps this phase of the deal was considered when McGraw agreed to swap Hornsby for Jimmy Welsh and Francis Hogan. The two younger players might not be regarded as valuable to a club as Hornsby, but opinions in this connection should be reserved until the 1928 race is well under way. Anybody who figures Welsh as a setup has another guess coming, and Hogan, while still a boy, is a giant in stature and one who can hit the ball for distance.

MESSRS. WRIGLEY, McCarthy and Veeck doubtless would put up a big chunk of the Wrigley resources to acquire Hornsby. A team that could show Hornsby, Cuyler, Hartnett, Wilson, Root and Grimm would have lots of appeal as well as plenty of punch. What a boon it would be for the Cubs if they could land Rajah for cash alone! Inasmuch as the Braves are supposed to be in the hole financially they might feel regrets in refusing an offer for $200,000 or thereabouts.

AND who will play second base for the Giants. Well, I don't think it will be Fresco Thompson or Eddie Farrell, although many folks seem to think that John J. will pick up either one of these clever infielders. Another little fellow who seems to have a good shot at the job is Andy Cohen, who starred for the Buffalo champions of last season. McGraw, himself, has mentioned Cohen as one of the promising candidates. Cohen was a distinct sensation in the International League. The Jewish boy would prove a fine drawing card if he were able to play regularly. In all events, McGraw appears to have a first-division club without making another change.

THE Giant leader, in discussing the status of Hornsby, disclosed that he offered Rajah to Cincinnati for Hughey Critz and Bubbles Hargrave. John J., however, could not et to first base with this proffer, for the reason that Hendricks and Hornsby have been fighting each other for some time.

No Baseball---Local Star Quits W.-J.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 16.—Washington and Jefferson College has lost one of the most promising young athletes in the country because it maintains no baseball team. It develops that Howard H. Groskloss of Pittsburgh, who spent his freshman year at W. & J. and who is now at Amherst College, made the transfer because the Massachusetts institution has a baseball team, and Groskloss likes baseball better than any of the other various sports in which he is an expert.

Groskloss, a five-letter star at Kiski, where he participated in football, baseball, track, basketball and tennis, entered Wash-Jeff a year ago last September. He immediately became a candidate for the freshman football team and easily made a place in the backfield. In spite of his inability to play a good part of the season because of an injury, Col. John Aiken, freshman coach, said he was the ablest man in his backfield. On account of this same football injury Groskloss was kept out of basketball as a freshman and did not participate in either track or tennis.

Groskloss, an infielder of exceptional ability, has had several offers to play professional baseball, but turned them all down. He practiced often with the Pirates last summer and was pronounced by Manager Bush as one of the most promising young infielders he had seen.

CHAMPIONS

pions "must agree to decisions bouts against qualified contenders acceptable to the N. B. A. or risk vacation of their respective titles," President Thomas E. Donohue of the association declared yesterday in an ultimatum that has the approval of all states enrolled in the organization. California and New York State alone among the leading boxing centers are not members of the association.

"Existent conditions regarding certain boxing champions," were brought to the attention of individual states by the associaiton, President Donohue said, and the edict was decided on unanimously. Contracts must be signed by February 16.

"The members of the association feel, with me, that a period of six months is sufficient for any champion to engage in whatever non-title matches he desires, and that the public demands action from him, as far as the defense of his crown is concerned, at the expiration of that time," President Donohue said.

"It is of no consequence to the association in what city, or state, Walker, Dundee and Mandell defend their respective titles, so long as they sign for their defense within the next 30 days, in bouts to decisions. None of the three titleholders against whom the association is taking action has offered for competition within the last six months the title he wears."

ARGENTINES ENTER OLYMPIC CUP PLAY

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—The Argentine Lawn Tennis Association has decided to enter teams in the Olympic games and Davis Cup contests.

Claim Play Too Rough

By TOM BIRKS.

THRILLS and disappointments featured Sunday's soccer card in Western Pennsylvania as the largest crowds of the season turned out to watch the action. The big event of the day occurred at Heidelberg when the German Sport Club left the field after 25 minutes of play against the National amateur champions, Heidelberg, protesting the decision of the referee. The score was 6 to 0 in favor of the champions at the time.

In the upriver benefit game, the Mustard Hollow leaguers downed the Monongahela League all-stars 4 to 0. The Internationals downed the Pittsburgh Club 3-1, and Douglass whaled East Pittsburgh Magyars by the same score.

Just how the management of the German Sport Club feels this morning is problematic and it is an assured fact that the governing body will take drastic action over the disappointment served the 3,000 fans. No club is bigger than the game and this point will be stressed.

It was the one-sided game, possibly, that led the Germans to leave the field when Buck Donnelli and Zedel tangled and were put out of the game. Donnelli never questioned the decision and left the field, but Zedel left with the whole team and a real afternoon's soccer was spoiled.

BLOW TO FANS

The fans were dumbfounded when it was realized that the Germans were quitting. After the game the writer questioned Carl Meisenberg, manager of the German club, as to who took the responsibility of taking the team off the field. He said Haist, the captain and outside left, had ordered the withdrawal. It seems that under the rules of the club the captain has full control on the field of play. The offending club tried to make the point that Referee Doneghay was not trying to curb the rough play, but the writer thinks that very little rough play marked the game. Soccer is not a parlor sport. Eberhardt, left fullback of the German Club, does not take second place to anyone when questionable tackling is done.

Heidelberg started out in the same manner which carried it to the United States amateur championship last season, with a hurricane attack that scored goals at will.

CAPTAIN TO BLAME

The writer, who always wishes to be fair, and has always been considered friendly to the German Sport Club, feels that the game was dealt a severe blow. And if Haist who is unquestionably the best outside left in Western Pennsylvania, decided to take his team off the field, then he should not be captain. For taking a team off the field without any consideration for the fans who may have traveled a long way to watch the game, is a serious matter.

The upriver classic played for the benefit of Danny Secrist packed the crowd in, which is worth dwelling upon. The throng that watched the game saw a thriller. The league All-Stars did not go down without a fight, however, and while three of the Hollow goals were scored in 15 minutes, they were shot from close in.

Out at Curry, in the American League, the Internationals, with Powell and Mike Bookie in form, defeated the Pittsburgh Soccer Club by a 3 goals to 1 score, on a heavy field, but a well played game. And out at Yost Boulevard, Douglas A. C. defeated East Pittsburgh Magyars by a 3 goals to 1 score.

director announced in a statement this morning.

The second half of the P. & O. League schedule gets under way tonight when the Somerman club invades McKees Rocks and the Succops clash with the rejuvenated Siano club at Columbus Temple.

MAY RUIN LEAGUE

The withdrawal of the Goldensons may result in the disruption of this popular basket ball loop, a circuit that has been branded a professional organization for no reason other than it steadfastly refused to donate quarters to the A. A. U.

Failure to live up to the rulings of the league has brought the circuit considerable criticism and unless steps are taken to make the members abide by the constitution there will be continual wrangling.

Close followers of the loop have been looking for an argument within the league ranks. The Goldenson issue will be a forerunner of more disputes unless the league authorities see to it that teams live up to the governing code. When one team is permitted to break the rules, there is no reason to prevent another club from doing likewise.

There is a specific ruling in the P. & O. League constitution preventing the teams enrolled in this circuit from using Allegheny County League players, yet the McKees Rocks Business Men, who competed in the first half of the Allegheny County League race this season, were admitted to the loop in a body.

OTHERS NO BETTER

The Goldensons, it is true, have been accused of using rough tactics in their games, but there are other clubs in the loop that are no better than the South Siders.

The only way to eliminate foul tactics is to play the game as it is written in the book, not by singling out an individual club and forcing it to be the "goat."

Other leagues are using the "four-personal foul" rule without handicapping themselves and we see no reason why the P. & O. League and other kindred loops cannot follow suit. The "four-personal foul" rule was adopted with the intention of reducing roughness to a minimum. When this important ruling is scrapped by the league authorities they are inviting roughness.

It will be interesting to watch the results of the Goldensons' withdrawal. This team is one of the best drawing cards in the league and easily the second strongest club in the loop, ranking next to the J. J. Mieles, champions of the circuit. The Goldensons were one of the two teams successful in scoring a victory over the Mieles, whose play all season has been one of the features of the league race.

The two Miele-Goldenson games drew the largest crowds of the season and we doubt if the champions will want to continue in the league if the South Siders are permitted to withdraw.

DRIBBLES

The Siano Club, confident of making a strong comeback, begin their drive for the second-half P. & O. League title tonight when it engages the R. L. Succops of the South Side. The Sianos have been strengthened considerably since the last few weeks of the first-half race and will take the floor tonight bent on opening the second round with a victory.

Braddock has taken drastic action against two of its stars in the County League. Sticks Monohan and Roy O'Donovan failed to appear for a league game Saturday night and they have been released.

The Holy Cross A. A. C. is open for games abroad this week with first-class out-of-town clubs. Write C. E. Pendleton, 3063 Terrace street, or call Mayflower 7958.

Braddock fans were well pleased with the showing of Bernie Powers against the Goose Goslin Club last Saturday. The former Braddock High flash played a brilliant game against the South Siders.

The Five Horsemen, of Herron Hill, are eager to book games with light first-class teams. Write R. Cechowski, 3611 Fleetwood street, or call Mayflower 3852.

St. Joseph's Lyceum, of the south Side, is booking games with junior teams. Call Hemlock 6233-J and ask for Ed.

doubtful about location of the second title match. Windsor, Canada, and Chicago are two cities in the bidding.

The new elimination program for the "big five" still is unsettled, but prospects now are that Sharkey and Delaney will meet in an early match, while Risko faces either Paulino or Heeney. Delaney has declined a bout with Risko now.

GENE READY FOR WORK

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 16.—Gene Tunney returned to his winter training quarters today with the announcement that sparring partners to prepare him for the next defense of his title will arrive later in the week.

Tex Rickard, promoter, is expected here Thursday to talk over plans for the two title bouts for the champion this year.

There was no indication when the name of Tunney's opponent would be announced.

GENE, PEEVED, QUITS ROBBY

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Gene Tunney was on his way to Miami today after an unexpected departure from Dover Hall a week before his visit there was planned to end.

The champion surprised his host, Wilbert Robinson, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, and other prominent guests at the hunting lodge yesterday by announcing that he would have to return to his training quarters in Florida immediately.

Sudden departure occasioned comment that Tunney was not pleased with the continued presence of newspapermen and photographers at Dover Hall, as well as groups of the curious. The champion is understood to have been under the impression that none but invited guests would be present.

He had cheerfully posed the first three days of his visit, but since had refused to accommodate photographers. In leaving he automatically canceled his scheduled visit to Augusta, Ga.

GRANGE, FRIEDMAN GRID TEAMS WIN

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 16.—Ernie Nevers' Tut-Imlay Giants lost to Red Grange's New York Yankees, 7-6, in a professional football game. Bo Molenda, former Michigan star, scored the touchdown and kicked goal.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 16.—Benny Friedman's Cleveland Bulldogs won from George Wilson's Wildcats, 12-6, in a professional football game. Wilson ran 59 yards for his team's score.

YALE CAGER LEADS EASTERN LOOP SCORERS

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—(INS.)—Fodder, Yale center, is the leading scorer in the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball League to date with 28 points. Nassau, also of Yale, is second with 26 points.

These players have participated in three games, however. Heep of Dartmouth, who has played in only two league contests, is third with 24 points, and Layton of Cornell has scored 17 points in but one game.

able to shift the New Castle lad to center without weakening the other positions, for Montgomery and Demolia, who is to return next fall to the varsity squad after a season's layoff, can handle the guard positions.

The banquet Saturday, one of the most successful in Pitt history, was well attended by the old-timers. Scattered about the room were familiar faces, heroes of past years, from the gridiron, basketball court, track, tank and tennis court. At one table, Bobby Irwin, Lefty Hill, Bill Parsons, Tom Davies, Zeke Wissinger and Marsh Johnson were observed. Herb McCracken was there, as was his right hand man, the genial Cullen Gourley, Hank Hangartner, Lloyd Jordan, Hugh Carr, Shorty Cooper, Pat Carr, Tommy Holleran, old Tommy V. himself, Jakie Bohren, Spike Harding, Andy Hastings, Doc McClelland, Razz Qualley, Red Carlson, present basketball coach; Georgie Porky Kowallis, Skipper Gougler, Lee Frank, Pie Williams and a flock of others laid it on the line and turned out to honor the Panther stars of today.

TECH, WASH-JEFF MEET

Tomorrow night, the Tri-State basketball program for the week will get underway with three good ball games listed. At Washington, Carnegie Tech and Wash-Jeff will hook up in a Big Four battle. Westminster will invade the thorny precincts of Meadville to play Allegheny College in an important non-Conference fracas and Thiel will play host to Grove City at Greenville in another non-league affair.

The Tech, Wash-Jeff game looks like another fattening one for the Presidents, who need scarcely to fear the staggering Tartans, as yet without victory. Wash-Jeff, with two fairly impressive wins, one at the expense of Bethany and the other at Allegheny's cost, looks as a formidable contender for both Big Four and non-Conference honors, if only because of the fact that the team is coached by the crafty Andy Kerr.

Westminster, with two Conference victories, failed in its first non-Conference test when Grove City won the opening game of the United Presbyterian season two weeks ago, will attempt to make up for this defeat by winning from Allegheny tomorrow night. A victory will make John Lawther's men dangerous non-Conference title contenders, in addition to high ranking Conference entrants.

DUKES LEAVE TOWN

The Dukes of Duquesne leave town tomorrow evening for the annual invasion of the East, which will keep Davies and Holahan and the Dukes out of town until next Sunday.

In this event no entry nor admission charge was collected.

Agutter and Jack Rogers, professional at the Bath and Tennis Club, won with a score of 27 games won and eight lost. Alfred G. Kay of Pittsburgh and James H. Kenny, also a Bath and Tennis Club pro, won second place.

SPEAKING of SPORTS

by HARRY KECK SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS EDITOR

AT the dinner that followed, Jock, referred to by Coach Bob Zuppke of Illinois, the principal speaker, as a sad-faced Scotchman who ran Gil Dobie of Cornell a close second in the matter of pessimism, evoked some laughs from the gathered throng by admitting he was pleased with the outcome of the 1927 campaign, in which the Panthers did not lose a game, following up with the 7-6 defeat by Stanford after making the long trip across the country to Pasadena for the Tournament of Roses post-season battle, January 2.

In terse sentences, completely enveloped in the brrrrs that mark his speech, the canny Scot declared:

"We had a fair-rrr season."

"It could have been wor-rse."

"I'm satisfied."

IN the course of his talk, Jock said the Nebraska team that lost to Pitt in the spectacular game in the Stadium was as good as any eleven he's ever seen and that he was told by football authorities on the Coast that Pop Warner's Stanford team shaped up as the best that ever has represented the Coast in a Rose tourney game.

Alex Fox

Regarding the prospects for next season, Coach Sutherland said he loses 16 players from this year's squad by graduation, eight of them regulars, and he hoped the fine freshman talent would apply itself diligently in the classrooms in order to be eligible and ready to battle for the open berths.

"I've always stressed classroom work above football," Jock said.

"I'd rather have a mediocre player and a good student than a good player and a mediocre student," the coach observed sagely, adding:

"Because you won't have the mediocre student with you for more than a week. And, besides, he won't be any smarter on the football field than he is in the classroom."

BOB ZUPPKE was a wow in the after-dinner role. He told some good stories of the gridiron and words of wisdom and experience dripped from his lips in a talk lasting the better part of an hour, and in which his listeners never lost interest.

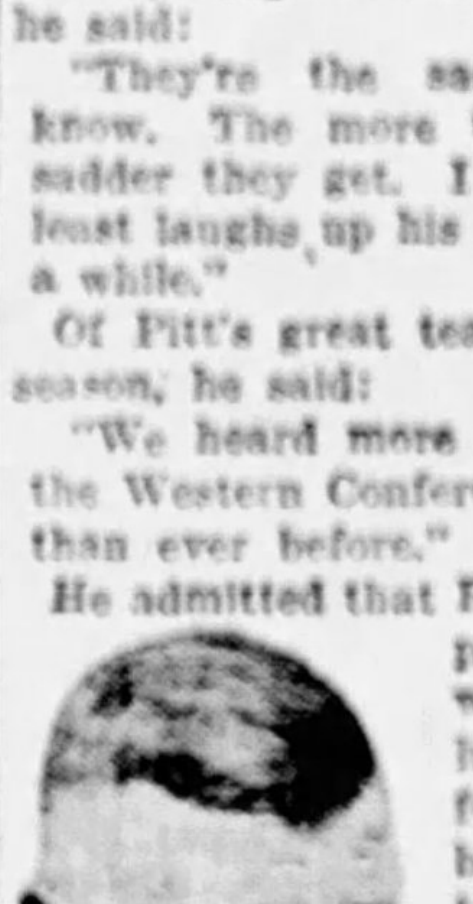
Comparing Sutherland and Dobie, he said:

"They're the saddest men I know. The more they win, the sadder they get. I hope Jock at least laughs up his sleeve once in a while."

Of Pitt's great team of the past season, he said:

"We heard more about Pitt in the Western Conference this year than ever before."

He admitted that Red Grange, his protege, always would remain his ideal as a football player, but placed Gibby Welch in the same class with him. "Whether or not he is as good as Red I can't say," Bob declared, "until I see if he makes as much money as Red has cleaned up."



Bob Zuppke

Zuppke said he was against the new idea of having two teams of equal strength representing colleges on the gridiron. "We must have one that is the BEST," he said, emphatically. "When we cease to worship the BEST, we shall begin to deteriorate."

ON the subject of whether the coach makes the team or the team the coach, Zuppke, who won another Big Ten championship for Illinois last fall, said the coach must have the material in order to come through, regardless of his own ability.

"A championship team is a gift of the gods," he contended. "The players must be there."

Zuppke took pains to debunk the cries about over-emphasis in athletics, campus hysteria, spectatorism and the sundry other ills that are supposed to afflict college athletics.

Of the players themselves, he said that an athlete with ability who only half tries is the same as a pain in the neck to any coach. The coaches, he averred, would rather have a plodder of less ability who gives his all.

JIM MARKS, Kiski coach, gave his impressions of the Stanford game and stressed the fact that Stanford had run 29 more plays than Pitt during the battle.

This is typical Warner football. Pop's idea always has been that a strong offense is the best defense and that the team that monopolizes possession of the ball figures to score often and be scored upon infrequently.

turn in the National Hockey League scramble with a 10-point advantage over the Boston Bruins, pacemakers of the American Group.

The New York Americans dropped before the brilliant team play of the Canadiens last night by 3 to 1, Howie Morenz, the leading scorer of the circuit, spinning the puck thrice for all the goals of the Flying Frenchmen.

Thus far in the race, the Canadiens have sustained but one defeat which occurred on November 27 at Detroit. There were four tie contests, also.

The past week saw the Bruins jockey ahead of the New York Rangers and Detroit in the sprint of the American contingent, but the Rangers crept to within a single point of Boston by a 2 to 1 verdict over the Cougars last night. Bill Cook and Thompson counted for the Rangers.

By the triumph, the Rangers assumed sole possession of second place, leaving the Cougars third in the standing by a two-point difference.

Immediately after tonight's game in Chicago the Pirates will depart for home to prepare for a tough assignment at Duquesne Garden Thursday night when the world champion Ottawa Senators will be met. This game will the season's debut here for the titleholders and indications point to one of the best games of the year.

similar to that of every other college in the Tri-State Conference as well as the other schools in the district not in the conference.

"The statement that Duquesne expects to play night school students in the game with W. & J., or, in fact, plays such students at all, is pure bunk and ridiculous on the face of it. Every man who will participate in the football game for Duquesne at College Field next October will be a bona-fide day student at the institution and passing in 15 hours of scholastic work as a minimum. I am assured that these conditions govern participation of Duquesne men in all branches of athletics with all opponents. The freshman rule is not maintained at Duquesne, but neither is it at Bethany, Waynesburg, Geneva, Grove City, Allegheny and other colleges which W. & J. meets in sports. The one-year migration rule, a statute of the Tri-State Conference, is observed by Duquesne, just as it is by other colleges in that group. We are well satisfied with Duquesne's eligibility, as applied to our game, at least, and anticipate no complications as a result."

BIKE VICTORS GET PURSES

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—After splitting prize money totaling nearly $10,000, the riders who completed in the six-day bike races which ended here Saturday night left for the East today to prepare for other cycle grinds of the season. Gerard Debaets and Tony Beckman carried off first money after one of the greatest finishes seen in the 19 international six-day races held here.

Mehlhorn, Diegel Tie

By MAXWELL STILES,
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

LONG BEACH, Cal., Jan. 16.—At the end of the rainbow trail of Califonia's winter golf tournament season, Mr. "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn, now of Pittsburgh, yesterday found a pot of gold. He found it at the payoff end of a 30-foot putt on the home green at the Virginia Country Club, a 30-foot put that dropped into the cup and stayed there.

Mr. Leo Diegel of New York thereupon muffed a five-foot putt that he still had tucked up his sleeve for a win. The difference between a holed-out 30-footer and a missed five-footer proved sufficient to bring Mr. Mehlhorn and Mr. Diegel home in a tie for first money in the annual $3,500 Long Beach open.

Each player took 282 strokes for the 72 holes, 54 of which were played at Virginia and 18 at the Long Beach Municipal links.

Four strokes back, tied for second place, were MacDonald Smith, the ubiquitous Scotchman, who won the Palos Verdes and Los Angeles open tournaments, and Tommy Armour, national open champion and winner of the Long Beach open a year ago. Each had 286 strokes to beat Horton Smith of Springfield, Mo., who played consistent golf throughout the tournament to finish with 287.

George Von Elm, in second place at the end of 36 holes, slipped up today with 73 and 75, and tied at fifth place with Billy Burke of New York, each with 288.

Harry Cooper, who was in third place, three strokes behind Mehlhorn at the half-way mark, withdrew from the tournament after finishing the morning round in 79 strokes, claiming that he had been given an unfair pairing and that he had to wait on every shot.

PRICE DECLINES PREDOMINATE IN MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Reactionary price tendencies predominated in today's stock market, which witnessed the elimination of many weakened speculative accounts. Declines in most of the standard industrials and rails were limited to a point or two, but several of the high priced pool specialties broke 3 to 7 points. Two or three rallies started in the early trading fell flat.

Call money appeared in plentiful supply at the renewal figure of 4 per cent, but banks called about $20,000,000 in loans, presumably to repair the deficit shown in last Saturday's clearing house statement. In the absence of any adverse news developments, the reaction was attributed to weakened technical conditions within the market. The falling off in trading probably was due to commission house advices suggesting a waiting attitude for the time being on the part of traders.

Despite reassuring statements of automobile executives, motors continued to lose ground on fears of reduced profits through recent price cuts. One block of 10,000 shares of General Motors changed hands at 131; Jordan touched a new low record at 9, and Hupp sold off 2 points. U. S. Steel common touched 144⅝, the lowest price in about a month, but Youngstown showed independent strength. U. S. Cast Iron Pipe broke 7 points and Sloss Sheffield 5.

Texas & Pacific, St. Louis Southwestern and Atchison suffered the sharpest declines in the railroad group.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—The cotton market opened steady today at an advance of 13 to 17 points on covering, and local or trade buying stimulated by relatively firm Liverpool cables and a bullish interpretation of the government report on boll weevil in hibernation.

March sold up to 19.03 and May to 19.15c but these prices attracted realizing and after the initial buying orders had been supplied, prices sagged off a few points from the best. The South was reported a moderate seller on the setback, which carried prices off to 18.94c for March and 19.05c for May during the first hour or within 8 to 10 points of Saturday's closing quotations.

Private cables reported covering with continental and Bombay buying on the bullish boll weevil report in the Liverpool market.

The buying promoted by the bullish view of the boll weevil report, appeared to have been supplied on the opening advance, and the market was very quiet later in the morning, prices sagging off to 18.92c for March and 19.01c for May, or about 10 to 12 points from the early high levels. At midday active months were about 5 to 8 points net higher.

HUNT DOCTOR IN WOMAN'S DEATH

WELLSBURG, W. Va., Jan. 16.—Mrs. Florence Silver, 26, died as the result of an illegal operation, Coroner Walkinshaw said today in a verdict which failed to name the responsible party.

The operation was not disclosed until Mrs. Silver was admitted to Wheeling Hospital and examined by a staff physician who learned her condition.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Giants at Grips.

Standard Oil Company of New York has countered the attack of the Royal Dutch-Shell interests in a statement in which it defines and defends its position in regard to crude oil marketing in certain parts of the Orient. The situation hinges about the distribution of Russian crude. Royal Dutch some time ago discontinued handling Russian oil and endeavored to have Standard of New York follow a similar course. This the latter company refused to do. The situation has now developed into an open price war in which, according to Standard interests, Royal Dutch was the aggressor. Tremendous financial and political influences are involved in the controversy, but as yet there has been little reflection of the "battle" in the open market securities of the disputants. Royal Dutch is the British international oil organization, while Standard of New York handles the Far Eastern markets for the so-called Rockefeller group.

New York Reserve Bank Profits.

The report of the New York Federal Reserve Bank for 1927 shows net income of $3,719,661 available for dividends and additions to surplus, against $3,749,748 for 1926. Dividends at the rate of 6 per cent on paid in capital, amounting to $2,327,554 were distributed to member banks and $1,392,244 was added to surplus. Gross earnings were $10,772,833, against $10,773,337 the year before. According to law, any income after dividends and additions to surplus, is paid to the government as a franchise tax, but no balance remained for 1927 or 1926.

Warns Against Sharpers.

Shirley P. Austin, president of the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange, today issued the following statement: "The activity in stocks is bringing along its train of sharpers and getting the public more and more inclined to listen to tales of easy money to be made—many of these tales are just now taking the form of telegrams or long distance telephone calls from eastern cities. The pleasant voice at the other end of the line represents a firm with a fine sounding name and the entire conversation is very impressive, all to the end that the distant firm has some sure fire stock, bound to go up at once. Before you put a cent into the proposition or agree to go along, consult with your banker or any member of the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—Failure of a predicted cold wave to develop tended to make wheat prices average lower early today. Besides, world shipments of wheat were large, and the amount on ocean passage showed an increase. Opening at ⅛c decline to ⅛c advance, wheat later showed a disposition to sag. Corn and oats were firmer, corn starting at ⅛ to ¼c advance and subsequently scoring additional gains. Provisions held steady.

Fears that domestic winter wheat would be injured by expected low temperatures were dispelled today for at least the time being. Predictions current Saturday that a severe drop in temperature would take place by this morning proved to be erroneous. Meanwhile, the amount of wheat on ocean passage was announced as 3,616,000 bushels larger than was the case a week ago. Stocks of wheat at Liverpool, however, were reported to be still decreasing.

Unfavorable conditions for the movement of corn gave noticeable strength at times to the corn market today. Complaints of poor feeding value of this season's corn were received and there were also Indiana reports that the demand from feeders at present is the largest ever known.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—The raw sugar market was quiet early today and as no sales were reported, prices were unchanged at 4.58c for Cuban duty paid, with offerings at this price and buyers holding off.

With the new crop now under way in Cuba, with 60 mills reported in operation, and with the London market easier, there was renewed selling pressure in the raw sugar futures market, prices at one time showing losses of 2 to 4 points. The principal selling seemed to come from houses with European and Cuban connections, but there was enough covering and trade buying to absorb the offerings at these levels, and a steadier tone developed later, prices rallying a point or two and at midday ruling 1 to 2 points net lower.

The refined sugar market was unchanged at 5.90c for fine granulated with a moderate inquiry reported.

CARNEGIE METALS FIRMS UP HERE

General List Steady, Trading Quiet

Accumulation of buying orders over the week-end strengthened Carnegie Metals at the opening of the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today and halted the downward movement which had its inception in Saturday's session after the stock had risen to a new high record above 22.

The reaction late Saturday had clipped more than a point from the price with the closing sale at 21⅛ representing a net loss of ⅜ for the day and a drop of 1⅛ from the high established near the opening. Today the stock came into the market at 21⅛ and moved up to 22 where it hovered for some time with large blocks changing hands in that area. Company has announced that it intends renewing operations on its property at Cananea, Mexico, abandoned some time ago as a result of declining prices for lead and zinc. Traders following the bull side of the stock expect favorable developments to result from the re-opening of the property because of its nearness to the holdings of the Greene Cananea Copper Company on which a sensational ore strike was made recently.

United Engineering and Foundry dropped back fractionally on moderate offerings. Sales today at 56½ compare with the stock's recent high at 61, reached on a bulge several days ago. Fuels were dull and very narrow. Miscellaneous manufacturing issues showed no important changes from the price levels in effect at the end of the week.

A block of 117 shares Pittsburgh, Bessemer and Lake Erie Railroad changed hands today at 72, the first time the stock has appeared in the open market in more than four years. The last previous price was 56. This road is controlled by the United States Steel Corporation.

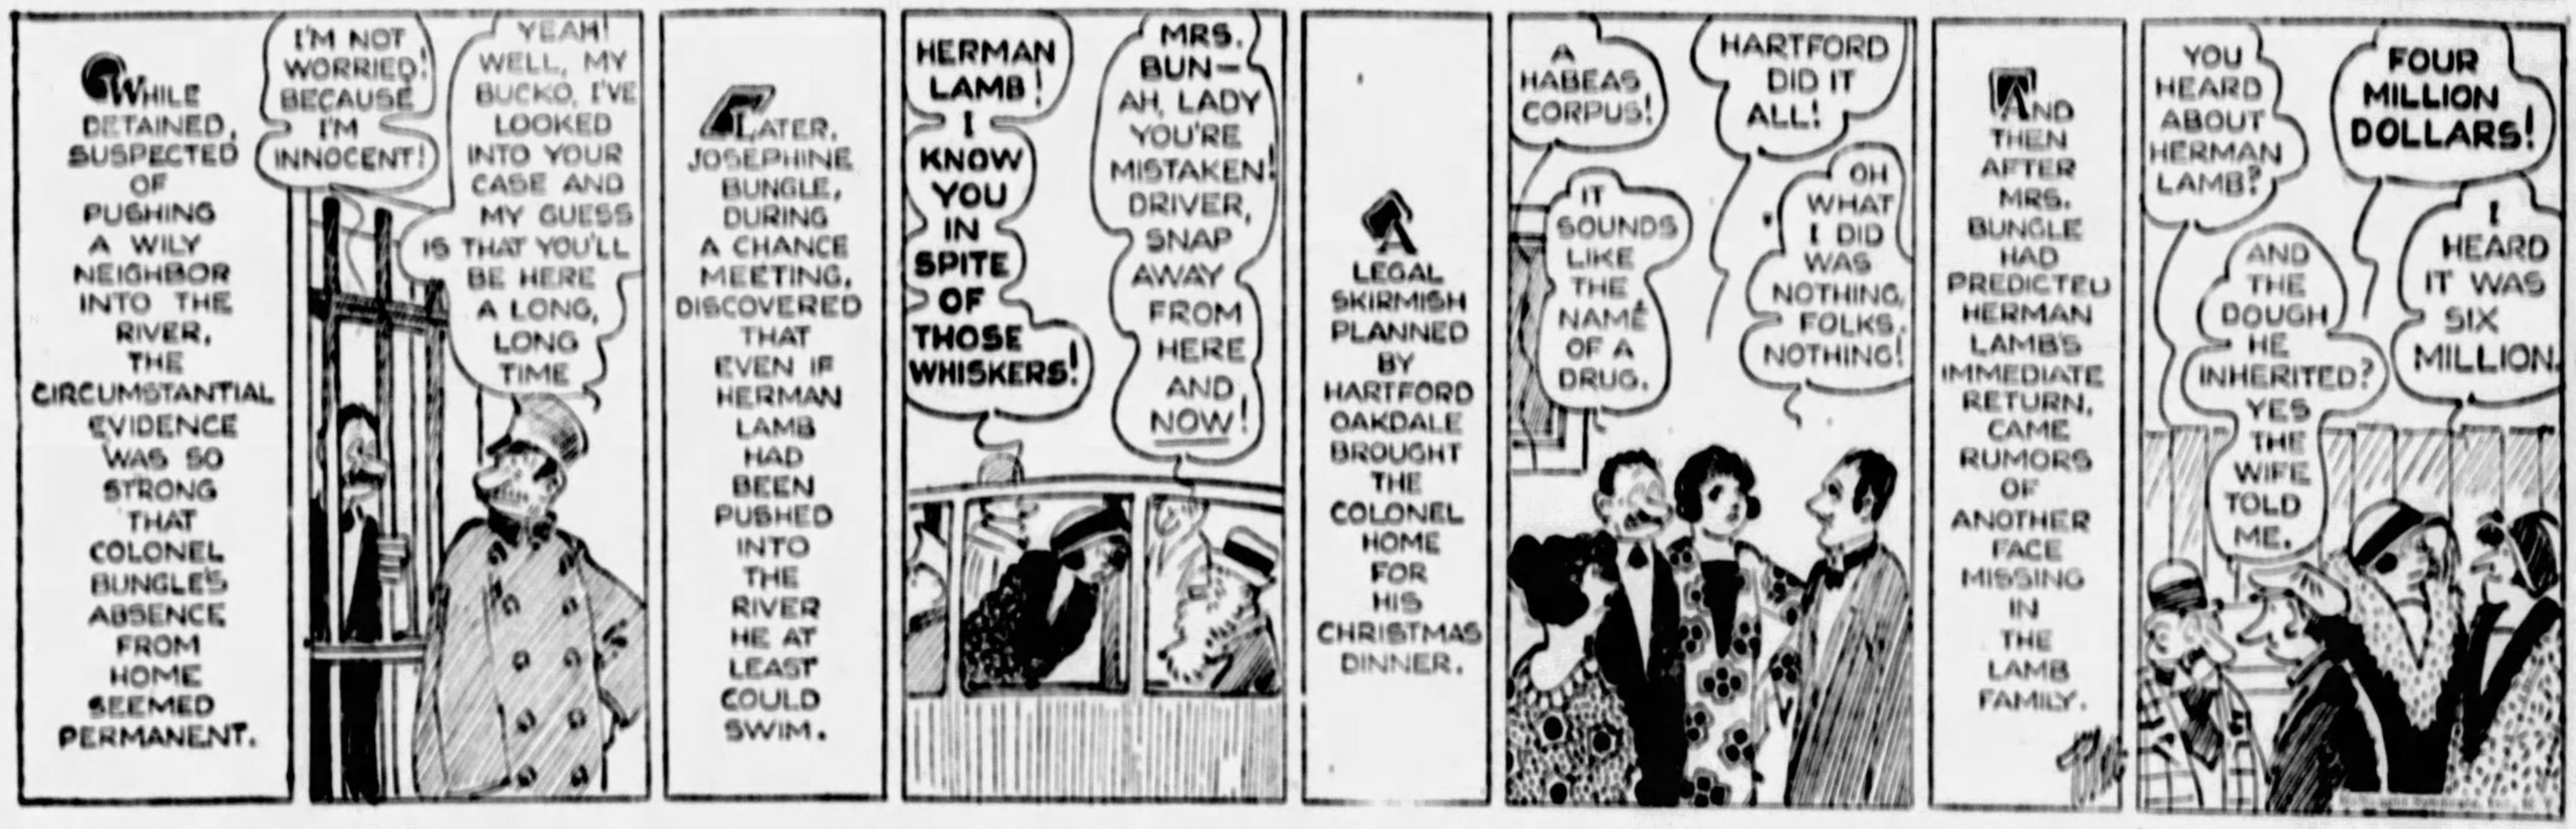
THE BUNGLE FAMILY . . . . The Missing Millionaire



WHILE DETAINED, SUSPECTED OF PUSHING A WILY NEIGHBOR INTO THE RIVER, THE CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE WAS SO STRONG THAT COLONEL BUNGLE'S ABSENCE FROM HOME SEEMED PERMANENT.
I'M NOT WORRIED, BECAUSE I'M INNOCENT!
YEAH! WELL, MY BUCKO, I'VE LOOKED INTO YOUR CASE AND MY GUESS IS THAT YOU'LL BE HERE A LONG, LONG TIME
LATER, JOSEPHINE BUNGLE, DURING A CHANCE MEETING, DISCOVERED THAT EVEN IF HERMAN LAMB HAD BEEN PUSHED INTO THE RIVER HE AT LEAST COULD SWIM.
HERMAN LAMB! I KNOW YOU IN SPITE OF THOSE WHISKERS!
MRS. BUN- AH, LADY YOU'RE MISTAKEN! DRIVER, SNAP AWAY FROM HERE AND NOW!
A LEGAL SKIRMISH PLANNED BY HARTFORD OAKDALE BROUGHT THE COLONEL HOME FOR HIS CHRISTMAS DINNER.
A HABEAS CORPUS!
HARTFORD DID IT ALL!
IT SOUNDS LIKE THE NAME OF A DRUG.
OH WHAT I DID WAS NOTHING, FOLKS, NOTHING!
AND THEN AFTER MRS. BUNGLE HAD PREDICTED HERMAN LAMB'S IMMEDIATE RETURN, CAME RUMORS OF ANOTHER FACE MISSING IN THE LAMB FAMILY.
YOU HEARD ABOUT HERMAN LAMB?
FOUR MILLION DOLLARS!
AND THE DOUGH HE INHERITED? YES THE WIFE TOLD ME.
I HEARD IT WAS SIX MILLION.

BUGS BAER Says

THE American jumping bean continues to gather moss in the Central American nations.

Hondoodles, that grand little republic with a front footage of 12 feet, hung 200 medals on Lindy's chest.

When Lindbergh landed in Nickelodeon that gallant little federation of banana trees grasped the situation quickly.

ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

The temporary president of Nickelodeon saw that Lindy was round shouldered. So he quickly hung 300 decorations on Lindy's back to balance him.

The world's only inspector of geography has been honored by France, Belgium, Holland, England and Spain. If he had three more European countries he could start a war.

His reception in Tiggleloopa was characteristic of the warm hospitality on his present trip. The president kissed him on both cheeks, but, thank heaven, he missed the third time.

But nothing could outdo the Mexican greeting. Even the bandits fired salutes at him as he winged by.

And Honduras wanted to make him a colonel in the Honduran army. Special awakening of Congress was held to vote Lindy through. Unfortunately, the congressional committee discovered this was technically unconstitutional.

Therefore, Lindy will have to be satisfied with the American Army until he can find a better one.

He is already a colonel in the U. S. Army. The duties of a colonel are not arduous for a man like Lindy. He has the advantage of the stationary colonels.

It is much easier to fly around and be important than it is to stand still and prove it.

His trip will soon be over. And we hope that he collects so many medals that the weight will prevent him from taking off again.

Lindy has done plenty. There is some patriotic fool who is sure to ask him to fly to Patagonia and see if it is really pink as represented on the Rand McNally maps.

The Army and Navy can honor Lindy in a way to please everybody. The Army can make him a three-star general.

And the Navy can fit him with a big pair of diver's shoes to keep him on the ground.

Capital Punishment Copies Witch Burning Barbarity

The tumult and the shouting regarding Ruth Snyder and Judd Gray having died, the question of capital punishment can be discussed calmly without suspicion of sympathy for individual criminals.

So far as this newspaper knows, no intelligent opinion demanded clemency for those two people as individuals. If any two people ever deserved public execution by burning alive, perhaps they deserved it.

The question is: What have the people of the state of New York—or Pennsylvania—done to deserve continuance of these horrible exhibitions when society can be as well protected against criminals by imprisonment for life?

Oliver Cromwell gave a sound reason for the law which the Puritans passed, abolishing bear-baiting—the sport of throwing a bear into a pit and watching him slowly killed in a life-and-death struggle with dogs. Cromwell said it had to be stopped not because it gave pain to the bear, but because it gave pleasure to the spectators. Modern legislation tries to prevent spectacles that pander to the baser passions of men—except prize fighting, and some day we shall get around to that, too.

Last week's electrocutions took on the proportions of a public witch-burning on a national scale. This newspaper contends that there is something revolting, degrading, barbaric, fiendish and unholy in this form of state vengeance.

We submit that life imprisonment is just as effective in offering safety to society from moron murderers. We believe that criminals are deterred by the CERTAINTY of punishment, not by its severity.

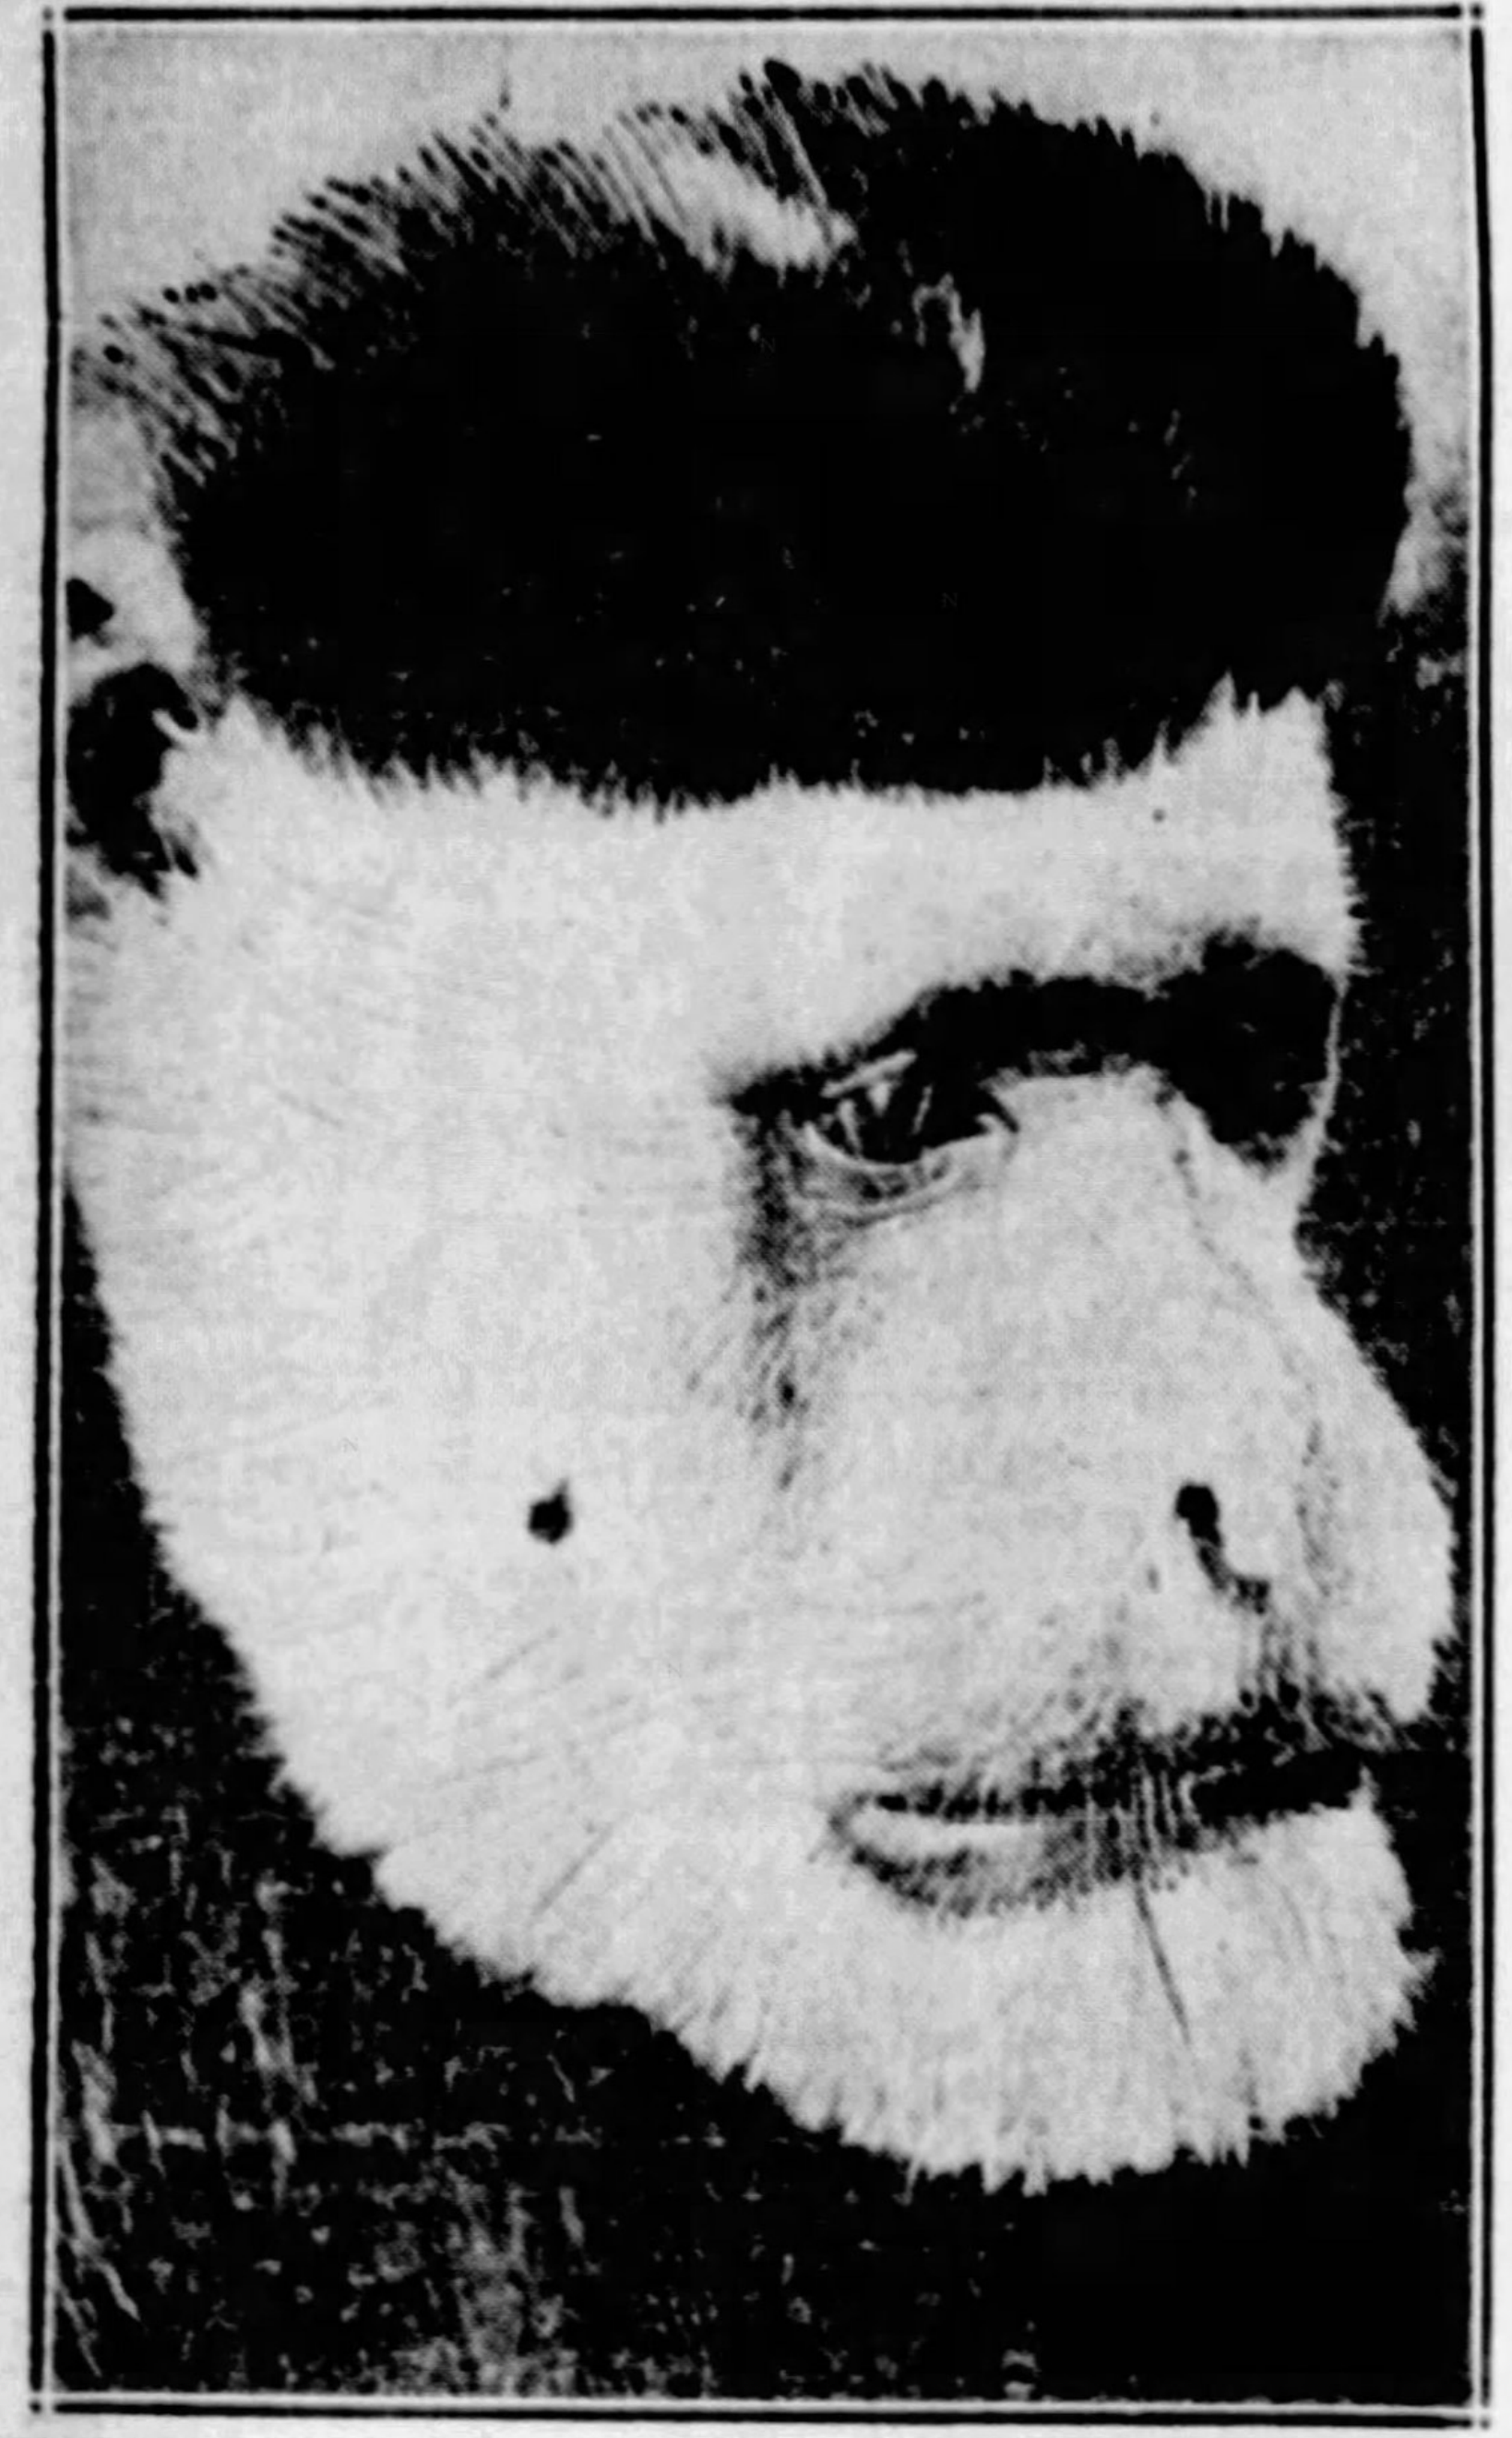
Most murderers do their deeds in passion without thinking of results. Insofar as they do reflect, they are more likely to be worried by certain imprisonment for life than by the present fifty-fifty chance that they will get off or that they will be publicly executed, with a vast amount of advertising, before the entire people of the United States—either of which prospects is likely to please the moron.

We deny the right of the state to take away human life, which it did not give and which it can never restore. It is not an answer to say that these criminals themselves thus took human life. The majesty of the state can be better asserted than by proving that it can descend to the level of the lowest wreckage of society.

Pennsylvania will watch with interest the progress of the bill abolishing capital punishment in New York state, which may be passed by the State Legislature at Albany this year.

He Looks Like a Professor

No "Zoo" Ever Saw Him



THE ACOLOBUS, PALEFACE MONKEY.

Edmund Heller, who spent a year with Theodore Roosevelt hunting in Africa, recently captured this curious member of the monkey tribe called "The Acolobus, or Thumbless Monkey." He is a creature to delight the soul of an evolutionist, for with his pale face, hair brushed straight up, he looks like a professor, with firm mouth and chin. This monkey really looks more like a man than some men do.

It is a delicate monkey, cannot stand our climate, and you will never see it in a zoological garden; it wouldn't live a week.

What was it that formed this strange face? Was this monkey, were all the curious monkeys of the world created at the same instant, with the other animals? Did Acolobus amuse little Cain and Abel as it played in the Garden of Eden; did one of them when his father Adam wasn't listening say, "It looks something like papa?" Scientists say this and thousands of other kinds of monkeys come gradually by evoltion, changing through the thousands of centuries. The scientists point out that men on the earth have changed as much as the monkeys have changed.

The African bushman looks more like this monkey than like a highly developed white man.

Scientists also tell you that the difference, mentally, between a highly developed white man and the lowest savage is greater than the difference between that savage and a blade of grass.

All very puzzling, but we must let scientists and the fundamentalists fight it out, while we wait for a decision.

This is an interesting monkey, and you will be glad to see him in a picture, since you are never going to see him in real life.

There are doctors, professors and lawyers that would give a great deal if they could look as solemn and wise as this monkey looks.

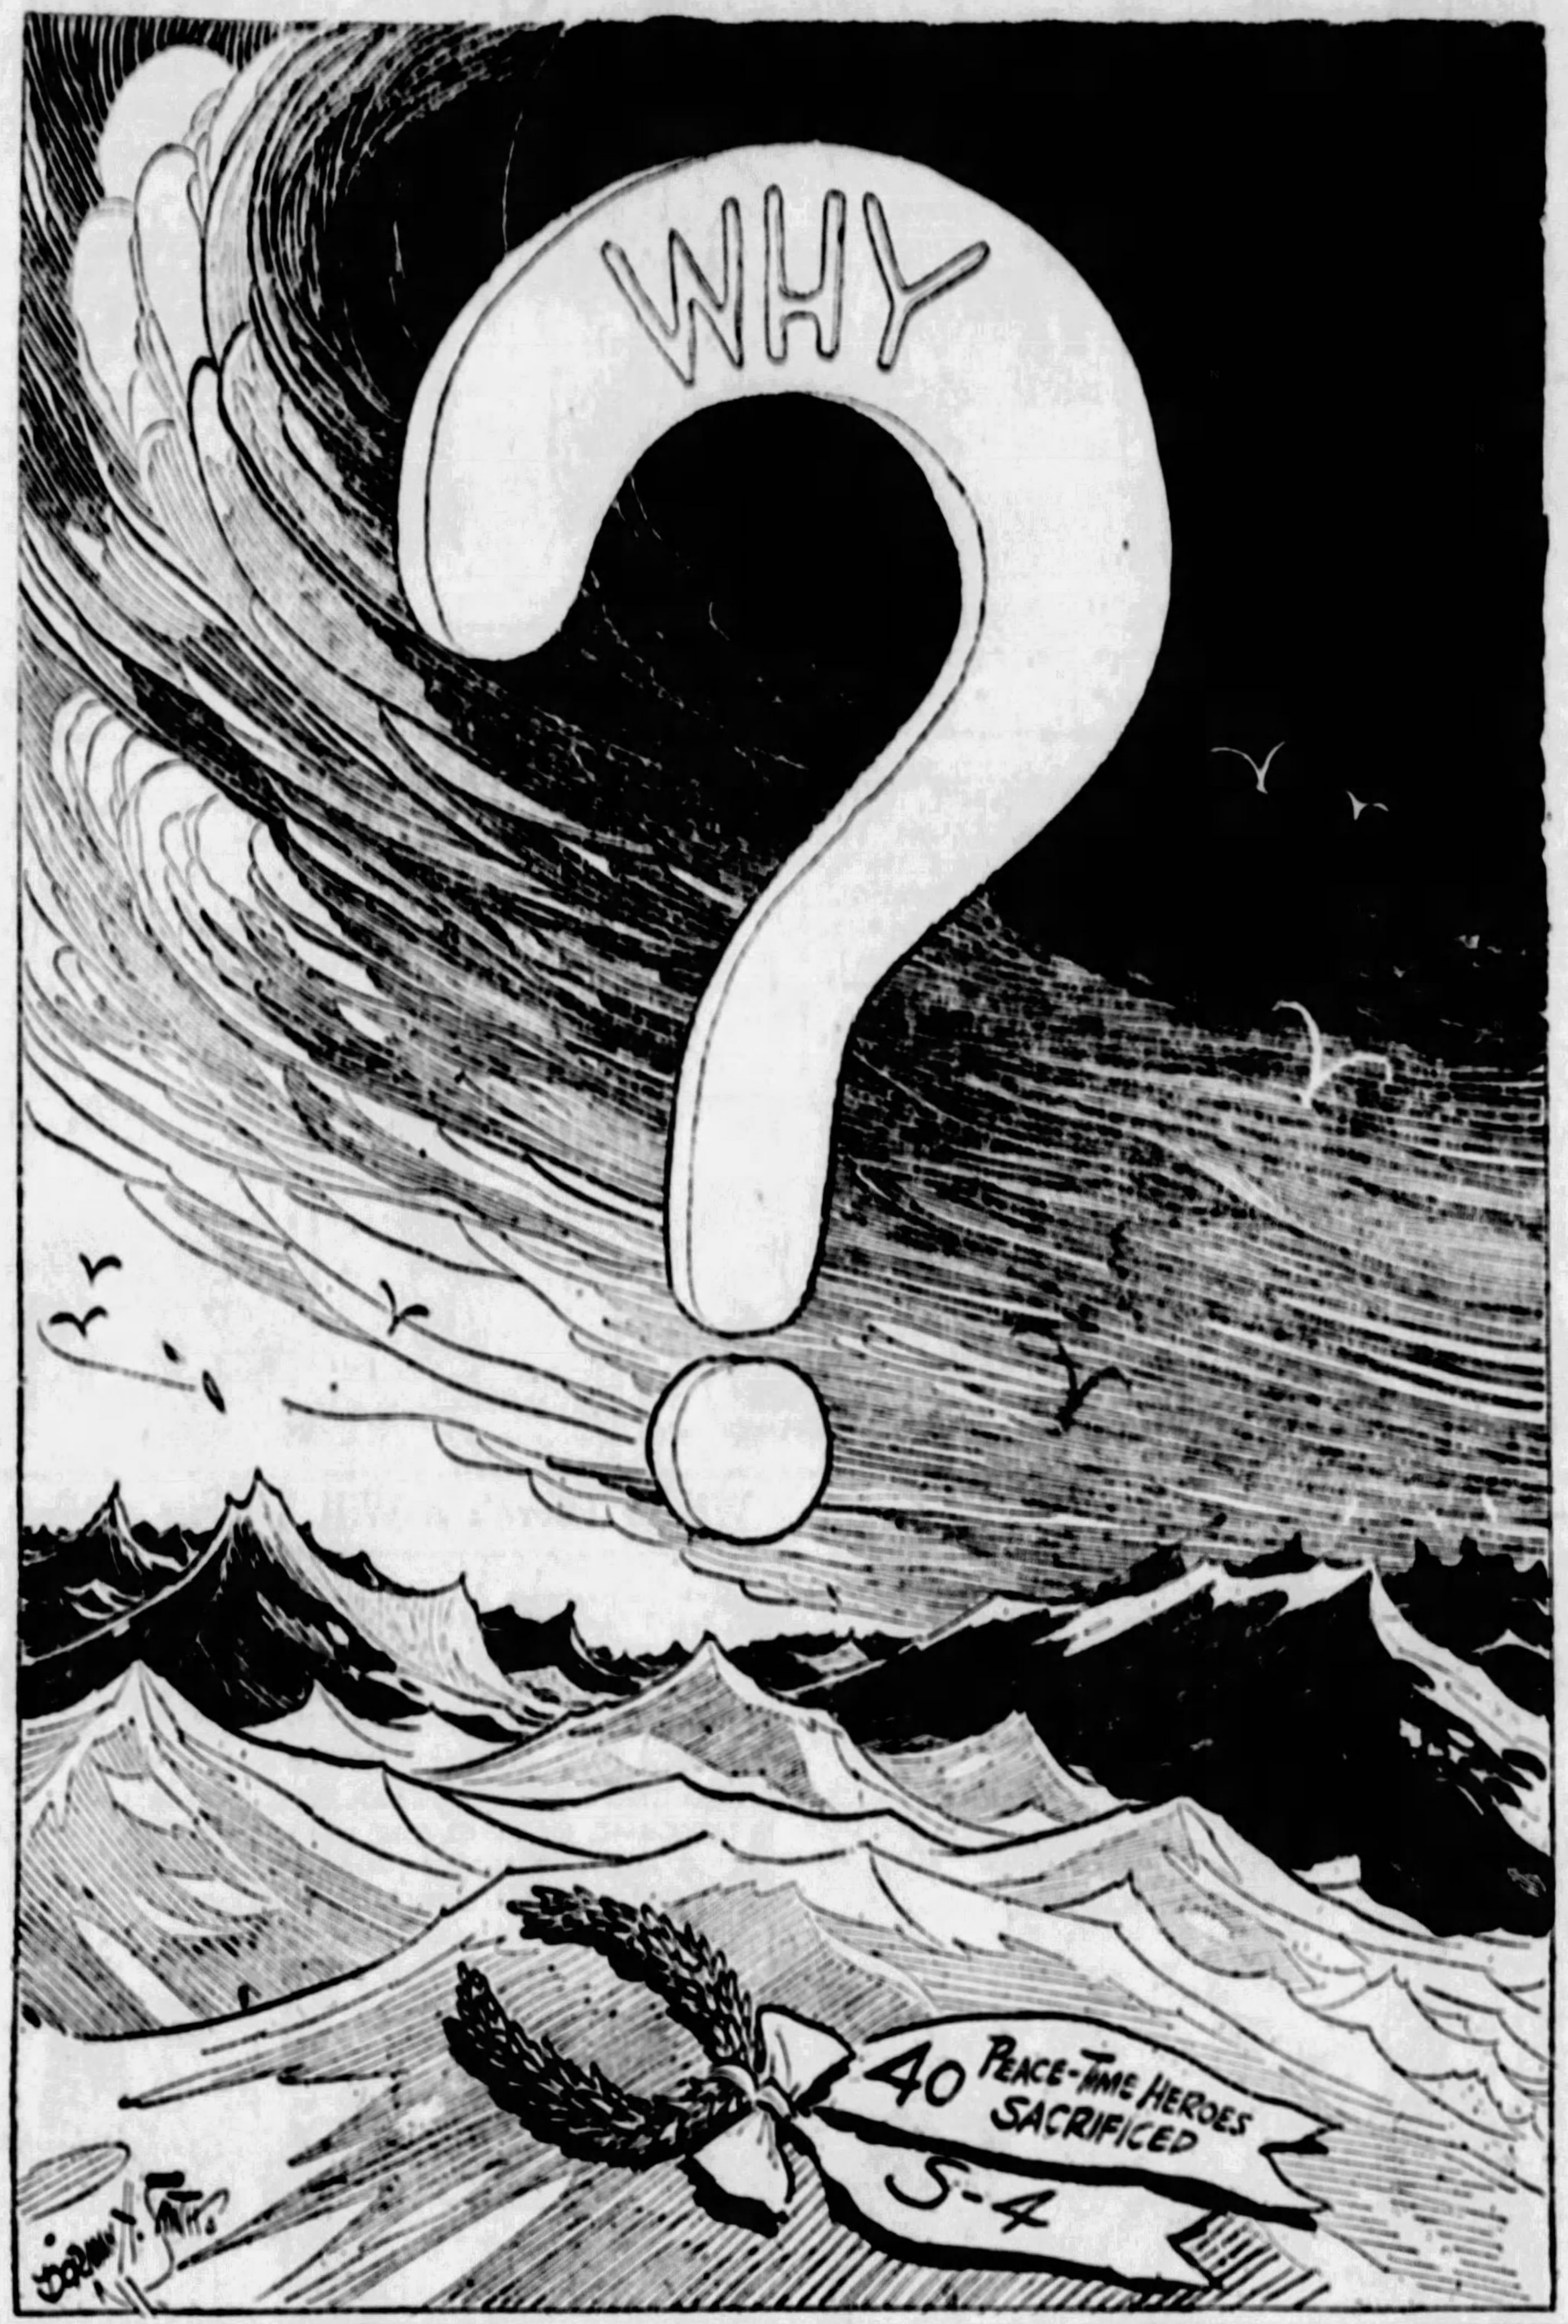
THE PERMANENT MARKER



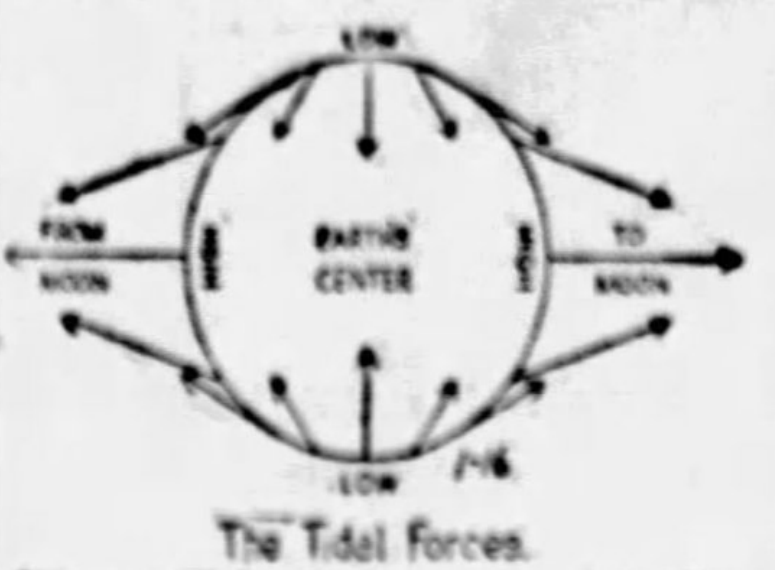
Garrett P. Serviss Says:

Puzzling Tides

"Would like you to settle a question for two constant readers. 'A' claims that there is no tide in the middle of the ocean; 'B' claims that there is a tide in the middle of the ocean.—M. K."

"B" TAKES the cake. But the tides in the ocean at a distance from land are comparatively slight. Theoretically the tide caused by the moon's attraction in the open ocean should be about two feet in range from low to high. But the elastic body of the earth itself also yields to the attraction that produces the tides, the surface rising about nine inches at the time of spring tides when the sun and moon act together to distort the shape of the earth. This is about one-third of the tidal alteration of the ocean level, so that the measured height of the tide falls below the theoretic height based on the supposition of a perfectly rigid earth.

While on the shores of oceanic islands the tide usually does not exceed two and one-half feet in range, it is much greater on the shores of continents, and when the wave is crowded into a long narrow space it rises in some places to astonishing heights. The famous Bay of Fundy tides are an example. They attain an average range of fifty feet. This is due to the concentration of the energy of motion of the water, for, owing to the rotation of the earth, the tidal wave strives to keep abreast of the attracting body that produces it.



The Tidal Forces.
This is a section of the Earth, its plane running through the Moon.

If the earth did not rotate the tidal attraction of the moon would draw the surface into a slightly elipsoidal figure, the long axis pointing to the moon. This is shown by the accompanying sketch of the tidal forces. Note the curious fact that while on the side facing the moon the force is directed toward the moon, on the opposite side it is directed away from the moon. Also that on the sides at right angles to the direction of the moon, the force is progressively directed toward the earth's center. Otherwise stated, the force of gravity is decreased in the line of the moon's action, and increased at right angles to that line.

You see at a glance that the tides must affect the middle of the ocean as well as its shore-boardering parts. It affects small seas and lakes also; but the range varies with the area of water, so that at Chicago, for instance, on the shore of a large lake, the mean range of tide is less than two inches, and in the Mediterranean Sea it is only about a foot.

But in the Mediterranean waters the tide, barely noticeable at Malta, near the middle of the sea, rises to three feet at Venice, at the upper end of the long inlet-shaped Adriatic.

But there is a multitude of special and local influences affecting not only the range of the tide, in height, but the times and circumstances of its arrival at particular points along coasts. After many years of observation and calculation, the course of the tidal waves through the oceans and around their shores and from ocean to ocean, has not been satisfactorily fixed by a comprehensive theory.

Free Yourself

HAVE you not frequently read articles which roused you to a high degree of anger?

The writers seem to have looked into your innermost heart and taken out facts you wished most to conceal.

Although you are incensed, you still read what such writers have to say.

Why?

Because you wonder at their ability, you are anxious to learn their deductions, you want to find out how much they know about you.

If you are what you should be, a truthful word portrait would not displease you.

If you are not what you should be, it's a good thing that someone is able to make you feel that you should try to improve.

What is there about you that you want to keep others from knowing?

You realize what it is.

Then for your own peace of mind, try to rid yourself of it.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Who Would Conquer

THIS is the wisdom the sages knew,
Wise men have taught it the long years through;
Not of one country and not of one creed,
Yet they are kindred in thought and in deed.
This is the message that stands revealed:
"He who would conquer needs first to yield,
Yield, as the swimmer who floats at rest,
Borne by boundless force, on the ocean's crest.
Who would be strong for life's joys, life's fears,
Must be lost in the Strength that has shaped the spheres."

Enlarging Feet

ARE feet growing larger? Shoes are, according to the shoe designers. The toe of the modish shoe is narrower, for one thing, and when the toe is narrower the shoe must be fitted longer. Some feet are actually growing larger, the shoe men say. For these the makers have designed a broad tread shoe, the equivalent of a "stylish stout." Women's shoes have become a most important part of their dress. Short skirts and attractive hosiery constantly challenge the ingenuity of the creators of shoe styles.

Ye Towne Gossip

I CAN remember.
WHEN AT Christmas time.
MOST LITTLE boys.
IF THEY wrote notes.
OR MADE their pleas.
THEIR evening prayers.
WOULD FIRST of all.
ASK SANTA Claus.
FOR A Noah's Ark.
AND GETTING it.
AS THEY mostly did.
IT THEN would serve.
AS CHIEF play thing.
THROUGH stormy days.
AND NIGHTS indoors.
TILL EARLY summer.
BROUGHT ALONG.
THE TWILIGHT hours.
OF PLAY outdoors.
AND THEN at last.
WITH SUMMER done.
AND SHORTER days.
AND LONGER nights.
AND WARM wood stoves.
THE NOAH'S Ark.
WOULD COME again.
FROM SOME dark place.
AND EVEN though.
SOME ANIMALS.
HAD LOST a leg.
OR TAIL maybe.
THEY'D ALL again.
COME FROM the Ark.
AND ROAM about.
UPON THE floor.
TILL CHRISTMAS.
BROUGHT A brand new ark.
WITH PAINT yet bright.
AND ANIMALS.
FRESH FROM their haunts.
AND WHY it is.
I BRING THIS up.
AT THIS time.
IS THAT I've bought.
FOR FOUR YEARS now.
EACH YEAR a train.
AND MANY lengths.
OF RAILROAD track.
AND I have toiled.
AND PUFFED a lot.
TO LAY the tracks.
AND FIX the engine.
AND THE cars.
AND JUST today.
OUT ON our curb.
I NOTICED.
* * *
IN OUR refuse can.
WRECKED RAILROAD cars.
AND TWISTED track.
AND IN the boy's closet.
I HAVE discovered.
THE REST of the wreck.
AND THE bill for it all.
HAS JUST been paid.
AND I'VE figured it out.
IT MUST be the speed.
OF THE present day.
WHEN THEY wreck a train.
IN A couple of weeks.
AND IT took us a year.
TO WRECK an ark.

I THANK you.

The "Educatometer"

AN Oakland, California, educator suggests a device for measuring the amount of education a person has—a kind of an "educatometer."

This device, says the educator, should have four dials—one to register health, another citizenship, another family relationships, and another to measure the efficiency with which spare time is used.

A fifth dial should be added, to measure the ability to think. Rousseau, if forced to submit to the educatometer test as outlined, might not have passed the test. He was accounted a bad citizen by the French aristocracy. The less said about his family relationship the better.

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Early to a veterinary to have my dog wormed and to breakfast and sat near Raymond Hitchcock, who related drolly how he broke out with hives when he ate cooked meat.

Home to find Kin Hubbard had sent his latest Abe Martin book, and the way he maintains such a high average of humor is disheartening. And his observation that there is no sensation like having a door knob come off in your hand is to me about the truest paragraph ever written.

In the evening to see "Show Boat," the best music show I ever saw, and to Judge and Helen Young's supper dance, very gay, and on the way home the taxi driver stopped in the park and left his car, which alarmed us, albeit he had been merely sick in his stomach. So to bed.

Among those strange characters in New York's sidewalk panorama is a man who wears a Tyrolean hat with a feather in the side, carries an Alpine stock and has brightly glided the heels of his shoes. He merely walks aimlessly and apparently oblivious of the crowd tagging behind.

Lower Fifth Avenue has two women in black dresses and old-fashioned bonnets who walk northward every evening on opposite sides of the street but in step. Upper Fifth avenue has become accustomed to the hatless Italian who bursts forth into operatic songs at intervals as he wanders along.

Broadway has innumerable John the Baptist types with long hair and without shoes and one plaits his long beard. Also the lady who appears always in a riding habit. Some are those groping in a mental fog and others just wish to be eccentric. Or maybe cute.

For a year now Fifth avenue has missed the spotted coach dog that gallops after his master who stands on the rear platform of an avenue omnibus. Perhaps he fell afoul of the muzzle and leash law or traffic was just too much for him.

* * *

A corporation whose building is filled with tenants catering especially to ladies—beauty and hair dressing parlors, dress making salons and such—was recently asked to cancel many leases. Business underwent a sudden and mysterious slump among the lessees. It developed the superintendent issued an ukase forbidding dogs on the elevators. Those who brought their pets had to walk up the stairs. The ban was lifted.

* * *

It is a mystery how those little shops hidden away in the topless towers make expenses. They do not advertise and have no chance for a window display. Yet they seem busy. Broadway has many walk-up places which remain open until midnight—selling $5 hats, $1 stockings, $10 dresses and the like. They have a bright glitter so the shoddiness—if any—cannot be seen. The clerks are the tenacious sort who never give up hope of a sale. They are so obligingly eager to show every article in stock that if you do not buy you have the feeling you have done them a nasty trick.

* * *

These Broadway loft shops are where chorus girls often take the sappy boy friend. Just to look, of course, not to buy. There is a dyed-in-the-wool cleverness, however, in the manner in which clerks work on the boy friends. If they don't loosen up under the adroit attack, they are beyond hope. Yes, sir.

* * *

Then there is the more sinister method employed by some shops. They have "gold diggers" on their staff and pay them a generous percentage of purchases made by suckers they pilot into the shops.

* * *

There are all kinds of ridiculous ways of making a living. This, for instance.

For the Bereft

By DR. FRANK CRANE

A woman said to me the other day, "Why don't you write something that we can give to comfort a bereft person? There seems to be nothing that can be said or done."

As far as saying anything that can remove the pain of separation, that can probably be done by nobody.

When we have lived years with one who is beloved, and he or she is taken from us, no power that we know of can prevent the hurt.

First of all, therefore, we should make up our minds that we must suffer. Suffering has its place in the human program, and often it is productive of the greatest good to character.

We don't want the suffering taken away. In a sense we may say we enjoy suffering and would not feel right if we did not suffer.

But we should remember that this is a normal and natural pain that is incident to life. It is not peculiar to us. It is not a hardship directed at us alone, but probably all loving hearts at some time must experience it.

We must, therefore, adjust ourselves to it as a part of the human lot, a part of the sub-soiling, a part of the striking in of the plow of pain that destiny has in store for us.

Because of the very devastation of this experience, the emptiness left in our hearts, we have one of the strongest proofs of immortality. The one thing that defies and outlives death is love. Let our love be strong enough to be able to cope with sorrow and let our faith be strong enough to be triumphant over sorrow!

We should remember, also, that even in the hour of sudden bereavement the stern command is laid upon us to go on. We must live our lives. We must take up the remainder and bravely face the future in spite of all that has happened to us.

This is the proof that we are made of the right material. Those who give way to suffering and allow themselves to be crushed, and those who give themselves over to pessimism are weaklings.

The dead themselves would want us to be brave, and to go on, triumphant to the end.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON.

Why the "Economic"?

WE have been hearing much about the "economic problem" lately. How it isn't possible for young people to marry before their dotage because of said "economic problem"—and how they're being driven into free love and companionate marriage and other unconventional calisthenics because of this unprecedented and demoralizing lack of kale.

Well, maybe that's the reason. And maybe it isn't. However, I can't help remembering—

No, my memories do not extend such a very long way back. Just before the late war. That's far enough. Before the late war when we used to patch our shirtwaists under the arms.

Patches? What were they? Something you've probably never heard of, my dear. But we used 'em extensively in those days. No, we weren't in the bread line. We were not subsisting on doles, pensions, alms or pittances. We were young people of the comfortable middle class, most of us newly married. All quite pretty, too—and proud of our prettiness. Still Gibson Girls. We read good books, we knew good music. We went to the opera when the opera was in town. Our husbands worked in the banks and real estate offices and wore tuxedoes—sometimes. We weren't, perhaps, as interesting and amusing as young married people of today, but we were much more dignified and took ourselves far more seriously.

Yet, after office hours, our husbands weeded the vegetable gardens, which were invariably found in our backyards. And we girls sat and watched them and patched our shirtwaists under the arms.

Not an exciting evening, but no one seemed to be bored. Nor were we overcome with humiliation at the necessity of weeding and patching, nor did we weep big, wet tears of self pity. Couldn't we have bought new shirtwaists for ourselves instead of patching the old ones? Certainly. But that sort of thing wasn't done, save by the shiftless and irresponsible. If your shirtwaist was only a little torn you patched it as a matter of course.

We did other odd things. We carried bundles. We shampooed our own hair. We had our shoes half-soled—and blackened them ourselves. All well-regulated homes had shoe blacking kits. We trimmed most of our own hats. And we set up housekeeping with the family "left-overs." There were always one or two new pieces of furniture of which we were inordinately proud, but moost of the articles were ancestral discards—still serviceable but far from modish. None of them matched and we labored earnestly with paint and chintz to reduce their ugliness.

Did we like using left-overs? Of course, we didn't! We despised it and dreamed wistfully of having Whole New Sets of furniture and dishes. But nobody, save, perhaps, Alice Roosevelt or Consuelo Vanderbilt, ever had whole new sets of anything. That wasn't the way young folks began housekeeping in those days.

Yesterday Pete and Peggy dropped in to see me. They have been engaged for two years, but they wouldn't dream of marrying yet. Pete only gets $40 a week—and Peggy has been earning almost that much and spending it on herself alone. How can two possibly live on it? Why, you can't get a decent furnished apartment anywhere near town for less than $70. And as for clothes—Everyone says that Peggy is the classiest dresser in her crowd. That was really why Pete fell for her—But that new fur jacket cost $450. And when you count in marcelles and dry cleaning and silk underwear—

Yes, young folks are certainly up against a problem these days. But I wonder if it is entirely economic?
